PAVING MESS — Sinking utility trenches form catch basins for rain and loose rocks, pebbling the parking lot of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, glisten wetly in the pale light of a rainy day. The dismal scene was described as "literally a mess" by the county director of public works. His crews, he said, have detected faulty trenching that make it unlikely the long-tornup lot would be paved this winter. He blamed the contractor and the memorial building architect.

Repaving Of Parking Lot Is Stalled; A Soggy Mess

Repaving and landscaping of the parking lot at the Veterans Memorial Building has ground to a halt and may remain a soggy mess until next spring, Marin County Supervisors were told yesterday. (Other supervisors stories, page 34.)

Public works director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. said completion of the $330,000 project depends on getting a dry weather spell in the near future. "The whole thing is literally a mess," he said.

The parking lot job, part of a larger $768,000 project for fairgrounds improvements, has been a source of controversy ever since the bid was awarded in July.

Supervisors last May rushed approval of the repaving — over the objections of Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini — in order to complete it before heavy winter rains.

When the contract was awarded to Mayta and Jensen of San Francisco, the firm submitting the next lowest bid protested that Mayta and Jensen's license did not qualify the firm for the job.

The state Contractors License Board in Sacramento, however, ruled that the license was satisfactory for the project.

Controversy flared again before the county's annual fair in August, when some complained that the torn up parking lot would hinder fair patronage. (Patronage was down by 2,250

Open Space Victories Posted In Marin; Rohnert Park's Fails

Marin voters yesterday were open handed with open space, approving three nature-oriented issues on the ballot.

But voters in Sonoma County proved more tight-fisted. Voters in Rohnert Park killed a $1 million bond issue for purchase of open space. And a county-wide special tax rate for purchase of open space also died at the polls.

In Greenbrae and parts of Kentfield and Larkspur, an $850,000 bond issue was approved by a 3-to-1 margin, and voters also taxed themselves 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation to return marshlands alongside Corte Madera Creek to their natural state and to develop recreation facilities on other parts of the 27.5-acre parcel.

Santa Venetia and Santa Margarita voters approved a $500,000 open space bond issue, also by a 3-to-1 margin.

The votes in County Service Area 17, the Greenbrae-area proposal, were:

On measure B, the open space bond, 3,269 yes to 1,061 no. The 75.5 per cent approval far exceeded the 66.7 per cent needed for passage. The companion Measure J, to set the tax rate for park maintance, drew 3,126 yes votes to 1,031 against.

The Greenbrae-Kentfield-Larkspur residents organized the Committee for a Creekside Park and in May persuaded the county supervisors to vote 3-to-2 against plans to build 260 townhouses on the site. The land is owned by the Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco.

The Santa Venetia-Santa Margarita Measure C received 1,088 yes votes to 383 no, for a 74 per cent approval.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere had made the Santa Venetia open space proposal his first major project since his appointment to the board. Last night he praised members of the Santa Venetia planning area committee and other area residents for putting the open space issue across in a neighborhood where a high percentage of the residents depend on building trades or retirement

Flood Control Bond Victory In Novato

Novato citizens yesterday narrowly approved a $4.5 million flood control bond measure, after turning down a similar measure in April.

The unofficial vote was 6,096 yes to 2,871 no, giving the bonds a 67.98 per cent approval. The measure required a 66.7 per cent yes vote.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste of Novato, one of the bond campaign's strongest supporters, watched and fretted over the returns throughout the evening, then heaved a sigh of relief as he and his wife watched the computer clatter out the final results.

"I'm elated," he declared.

He said the bond issue apparently passed because the flood control zone had a relatively detailed set of plans, presented in September by the Army Corps of Engineers. Such plans were lacking before the April election when the bonds gained only a 63.9 per cent vote.

Other Novatans pointed out that the turnout was much larger yesterday, with approxi-

Voters Dump Reagan's Tax Ceiling Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians have overwhelmingly rejected Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax ceiling plan, Proposition 1 — tarnishing the presidential contender's political image and enhancing the gubernatorial aspirations of ambitious young Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

The landmark proposal, which would have instilled Reagan's "squeeze, cut and trim" fiscal philosophy on state government for decades, was solidly defeated yesterday in a mini-landslide.

With 99.97 per cent of the state's precincts reporting, the measure trailed by 54.01 per cent to 45.99 per cent — or 2,284,705 to 1,945,123.

Marin residents narrowly rejected the governor's tax limitation proposal by a vote of 30,124 to 28,768. Of those who voted, 49 per cent favored the initiative and 51 per cent opposed it.

"The people have shown they are against using the constitution to limit state expenditures; they want the legislature and the governor to be the ones to determine limits," said Jack R. Felson of Forest Knolls, co-chairman of Marin Citizens Against Proposition 1.

One opponent, Democratic Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., called it "a massive repudiation of both Gov. Reagan and the Watergate-riddled Republican Party."

Reagan, referring to the Watergate scandals on election eve, acknowledged: "People are so cynical about everyone in political life today they can't believe someone honestly wants to cut their taxes."

It was the first political defeat dealt Reagan by California voters in nearly seven years as governor of the nation's most populous state.

Only traditionally conservative Orange County sided with Reagan among the major counties.

"I've been trying to tell Ronald Reagan that the people of California aren't stupid and they demonstrated again how intelligent they are," a jubilant Moretti told a Los Angeles campaign rally. "Nobody really believed we could defeat it."

Reagan's setback represented a major victory for Moretti, 37, a darkhorse 1974 Democratic gubernatorial contender who staked his political career on leading the charge against the proposal when other party leaders shied away, thinking it unbeatable.

Reagan went all-out for his initiative, mounting a signature collecting campaign to qualify it for California's first special statewide ballot in 24 years, devoting full time to fall campaigning and soliciting $1.4 million from supporters to promote it.

The election was regarded as a test of Reagan's popularity after two gubernatorial terms. The 62-year-old former actor is the frontrunner in the Gallup Poll for the GOP presidential nomination in 1976.

"How can trying to reduce people's taxes be a political defeat," asked Reagan at a midnight news conference in which he conceded his first-in-the-nation proposal had been rejected.

But other politicians asked privately how Reagan could expect to sell his conservative

Water Bond Issue Loses Second Time

By PAT ANGLE

For the second time, Marin Municipal Water District residents yesterday turned down a plan to import Russian River Water into the district. It was the only bond issue on Marin ballots to fail to pass.

Voters rejected the $7.5 million bond issue to finance a water supply project by almost two to one. The unofficial total vote was 16,932 favoring the measure (35.4 per cent) and 30,904 opposed (64.6 per cent).

(A bond measure for another Russian River project, the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct, was defeated by a 9-to-1 vote in 1971.)

Approximately 52 per cent of the district's 91,254 registered voters cast ballots on the controversial bond issue yesterday, according to figures supplied by Peter C. Meyer, county elec-

Voters Give Nod To Incumbents, Issues

Water Bonds Are Sole Beaten Ballot Measure

By JEFF GREER

Marin County voters yesterday turned out 60,000 — strong for an off-year, rainy day election.

Apparently in good spirits despite the poor-to-miserable weather, the Marin electorate returned 20 incumbents to local district boards and approved all but one of the local measures on the ballot.

In sharp contrast, Southern Sonoma County voters turned down all their local measures, even for open space proposals.

The Marin turnout was 54 per cent of the approximately 111,000 registered voters.

The Marin electorate — like the rest of California — vetoed Gov. Ronald Reagan's Proposition 1 tax reform plan, but not quite so decidely as the statewide average.

The Marin Municipal Water District's $7.5 million bond issue was Marin's only losing bond issue, killed by a nearly 2-to-1 vote. In the district races only four incumbents were ousted.

The Marin voters' good cheer extended to their wallets in five other bond issues and tax measures, as they approved spending a total of $6.3 million for open space, flood control and a new police building in various districts.

Not all the district board races were definitely decided in last night's unofficial tally by the computer in the Marin County Civic Center.

County elections officer Peter C. Meyer said some of the contests will not be finally settled until the official tally is completed next week. Even then candidates may seek recounts in some close races, notably in the Marin City Community Services District, Tiburon Fire District, Stinson Beach Water District and Bel Marin Keys Community Service District.

All ballots from the county's 268 precincts were delivered to the Civic Center shortly after 10 a.m., little more than two hours after the polls closed.

A crew of almost three dozen county employees opened the locked boxes, checked the punch-card ballots for faulty punching and fed them into the computer, which produced printed reports each half hour.

The crowd of onlookers was unusually small even for an off-year election — never more than 20 persons at any one time.

The final precinct's card whirred through the machine at 12:08 a.m. More than 60,000 ballots had been counted.

Few hitches developed during the tally.

New Police Quarters Win Mill Valley Vote

Mill Valley voters decided yesterday that the city's police should have new quarters.

Residents narrowly approved a $545,000 bond issue to pay for a new police station in the new fire station building. The measure, which required a two-third yes vote, passed, 2,865 to 1,370.

A total of 4,235 persons, or about 55 per cent of the city's eligible voters, cast ballots on the bond issue which had no organized opposition. Of those, 67.7 per cent favored the bond issue and 32.4 per cent opposed it.

Police Chief William A. Walsh, who waited anxiously at the county elections office last night as returns came in, said he was relieved by the vote outcome.

"I'm glad the people of Mill Valley realized the conditions the police department has had to work under and showed their willingness to correct the situation," the chief said.

Walsh had complained that present police facilities next to city hall are something like a 40-year-old sardine can. The current station was built in 1936 when the city had only four police officers. Today there are 27 full-time police employees and 18 reservists.

In April of 1972, voters approved a $275,000 bond issue for a new fire station. The combined public safety building will be located in east Mill Valley at Roque Moraes Drive and a proposed extension of Sycamore Avenue.

ON THE MOVE — Egyptian peasant farmers lead their families on donkeys past the wreckage of an Egyptian Army truck on their way north across the cease-fire line into Egyptian-held territory. Meanwhile today, U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger held critical Mideast peace talks in Cairo. (UPI Telephoto)

U.S., Cairo Restore Diplomatic Ties

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt and the United States said today they were restoring diplomatic relations immediately and moving toward peace in the Middle East. But an official Israeli military spokesman charged that Egypt was preparing its forces to resume the war.

Both Syria and Israel reported artillery duels along the Golan Heights today and there were minor clashes along the Suez Canal front where the semiofficial Middle East News Agency said the Egyptian armed forces had been placed in an extreme state of alert.

Egypt broke relations with the United States during the 1967 Six Day War with a charge —later denied —that the U.S. 6th fleet was flying combat missions for Israel. The resumption was announced today after Cairo talks between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The U.S. has designated Herman Eilts as ambassador to Cairo and Egypt has picked Dr. Ashraf Ghorbal as its envoy to Washington.

Kissinger said after the talks and before leaving for Amman and talks with Jordan's King Hussein that "we are moving towards peace." Sadat told newsmen on the conference on the lawn of the presidential palace, "I agree with him."

There was no immediate reaction from Israel on the "towards peace" statements but shortly afterwards Israeli military spokesman Col. Nachman Karni told a military briefing in Tel Aviv:

"In the past hours there were a number of statements out of Cairo, some optimistic and some pessimistic, on the question of the resumption of fighting or the continuation of the cease-fire.

"The indications we have are that the Egyptians are making preparations for the resumption of fighting...

"The intensity of the situation has been aggravated and the Egyptians are preparing their forces for a resumption of the fighting. When? I don't know." He would not elaborate, refusing to tell what the indications were or whether the Egyptian buildup was evident along the immediate cease-fire line. He said Tuesday the Egyptian 1st Army was moving from Cairo toward the Suez Canal front.

"We are taking a very grave view of the situation," Karni said.

He said the assessment of the Egyptian stance was made by the military command in the past 12 hours. He would neither confirm nor deny the Tuesday reports that the Egyptian 1st Army was moving up to the front.

Karni's pessimistic assessment coincided with Washington reports that a Soviet weapons airlift to Egypt and Syria resumed yesterday after a two-day halt. A Defense Department spokesman said he did not know why the Soviet airlift was stopped Sunday and Monday.

The spokesman, William Beecher, also said a U.S. merchant ship had joined the American sealift of arms for Israel. He declined to identify the vessel, but said it was preparing to leave from an undisclosed port.

Egypt meanwhile appeared to be hardening its diplomatic line against Israel. Tel Aviv reports have said Israel has suggested a joint Egyptian-Israeli pullback from the Suez Canal but an official in Cairo today called the suggestion "ludicrous" and said "this is totally unacceptable."

Search For Missing Americans In Indochina Drawing To Close

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for Americans missing in Indochina is slowing and Pentagon officials say it may be cut short in a few months.

There has been no US decision to stop looking for the remains of 1,233 American servicemen still carried as missing in the Indochina fighting, which ended officially in January.

But three elements are contributing to doubts that more remains will be found and identified — including an impasse in negotiations with the North Vietnamese, continued heavy fighting in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

So far, Brig. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, chief of the Joint Casualty Resolution Center at Nakhon Phanom, Thailand, has located and positively identified the remains of nine missing men. The remains of six or seven others are undergoing laboratory examination.

Members of Kingston's 150-man staff have been limited to searches in uncontested areas of South Vietnam, although last January's cease-fire agreement called for cooperation among South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos on the exchange of information about missing soldiers.

Pentagon officials report "only a handful" of sites in uncontested territory remain to be explored in the two months before the rainy season begins.

Those sites are described as much less likely to produce remains than the 20 explored so far.

In other parts of South Vietnam, where there are another 250 possible sites, any search must await the end of repeated cease-fire violations.

Recent reports of heavy North Vietnamese troop buildups and sharp fighting in the central highlands make the opening of new search areas unlikely for at least several months.

At twice-weekly meetings of the commission in Saigon, the North Vietnamese have turned aside requests from the Americans for discussions about bodies in North Vietnamese cemeteries or access to possible aircraft crash sites in the north.

In Laos, also the site of some American aircraft losses, any search must await negotiations between the Pathet Lao Communists and the government in Vientiane. Indications are that any exchange of information, including the location of downed American pilots, is many months away, Pentagon sources say.

As one high-ranking Pentagon official said about chances of finding the remains of missing men, "It becomes more remote as time goes on."

Washington Voters Say No To Income Tax Plan

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Washington voters turned their backs on a state income tax for the second time in three years Tuesday.

They also showed thundering disapproval of a substantial pay hike for legislators and elected state officials by limiting the increases to not more than 5.5 per cent over present levels.

The proposed income tax was rejected in all of the state's 39 counties by an overall margin of 3-to-1 despite strong support from Republican Gov. Dan Evans.

There was an even greater put down of the proposed salary increases, which had included a 193 per cent jump for legislators from $3,600 to $10,560 a year. By a margin of 4-to-1, voters approved Initiative 282 which only hiked the legislators pay to $3,800. It also limited the governor's salary to $34,300 a year instead of $47,300 approved by the legislature over his current annual salary of $32,500.

Similar increases for other state-elected officials were cut back to 5.5 per cent.

The initiative still faces a constitutional challenge before the state Supreme Court in January.

In 1970, the last time a state income tax was on the ballot, it failed by a 2-to-1 margin.

The latest income tax plan called for a tax of up to 8 per cent for individuals and 12 per cent for corporations while limiting the state sales tax to 5.5 per cent and removing the tax from food and prescription drugs. Special property tax levies for maintenance and operatios of public schools would have been prohibited.

A Wholesale Market Drop

Decline In Food Index; A Hike In Commodities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale food prices dropped sharply in October for the second consecutive month, but industrial commodity prices rose sharply, mainly because of higher fuel costs.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that wholesale prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds dipped 3.9 per cent following a 6 per cent drop in September. But the twomonth decline still did not offset an all-time high increase of 17.6 per cent in August.

While food prices were going down last month, wholesale industrial commodity prices — considered a more reliable indicator of economic trends — shot up 1.2 per cent. That was the largest increase since last April and about four times the rate of monthly increase that prevailed for a number of years before 1973.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the overall Wholesale Price Index (WPI) declined 0.5 per cent last month following a 1.8 per cent drop in September —the first time in two years the WPI went down two months in a row.

The lower wholesale food prices brought prospects for lower retail prices. Retail food prices went down 0.7 per cent in September and presumably will show a further drop when the October consumer price report is made public later this month.

Higher prices for such fuels as gasoline, home heating oil, residual fuel used in power plants and other refined petroleum products accounted for more than one third of the overall increase for industrial commodities. Refined petroleum products went up 7.2 per cent.

Costs for electric power, liquified petroleum gas and bituminous coal also rose.

Higher prices on 1974 model passenger cars and trucks accounted for most of a 1.2 per cent increase in the transportation equipment index, the BLS said. Prices also went up substantially for clothing, textiles, metals, and chemicals, but fell for lumber, hides and skins and crude natural rubber.

Prices for processed foods and feeds went down 0.2 per cent following a record high drop of 6 per cent in September. The decline in October was due mainly to a 9.1 per cent decrease in prices of processed meats, poultry and fish. Most other products in this category went up.

The BLS said its index of wholesale prices for consumer finished goods —a category roughly similar to the commodity component of the consumer price index —rose 0.4 per cent in October, counter to the overall decline in wholesale prices. But the index for consumer foods went down 1.6 per cent for the second month in a row.

Wholesale prices for all types of farm product prices went down 6 per cent last month to match a 6 drop in September. However, this offset only about half of the record 23.1 per cent increase in farm product prices in August.

State Bar To Ask Removal Of Segretti

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Bar will ask California's Supreme Court to suspend the law license of Donald H. Segretti, 32, the Los Angeles attorney convicted of political sabotage.

John Malone, the State Bar's executive secretary, said yesterday a certified copy of the conviction would be sent the court "as soon as possible."

Usually the court suspends a convicted attorney and refers the case back to the State Bar whether "moral turpitude" is involved and whether the lawyer should be disbarred, Malone noted.

Segretti pleaded guilty to distributing false campaign literature and trying to disrupt the 1972 Democratic presidential primary in Florida and has been sentenced in Washington, D.C., to six months in prison.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Rebel Ambush

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebel troops ambushed a column of 1,200 soldiers and civilians trying to flee a besieged town last night, killing or capturing more than half of them in one of the fiercest battles of the war.

Field reporters quoted survivors as saying at least 700 government soldiers and civilians were slain or taken prisoner in the mass exodus from the town of Srang, 26 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Cong Bombarded

SAIGON (UPI) — Waves of South Vietnamese warplanes bombarded a key Viet Cong city with massive air strikes today in retaliation for Communist drives against government outposts in the Central Highlands.

A military command spokesman said more than 50 South Vietnamese Air Force fighter-bombers blasted military installations outside the Viet Cong "capital" of Loc Ninh and a nearby Communist base.

Saxbe Charge

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — The Dayton Daily News yesterday said Attorney General-designate William B. Saxbe three years ago vouched for the character and reputation of Cleveland millionaire Sam W. Klein, who was later linked with organized crime.

In a pair of copyright stories, the News also said it has in its possession a confidential Ohio Liquor Control Department report which says, "Sam W. Klein is allegedly connected with the Cleveland organized crime element and probably controls the major portion of the coin machine business in Ohio."

In a letter to the Nevada Gaming Control Board dated Sept. 15, 1969, Saxbe wrote, "I think him (Klein) to be a person worthy of trust," the News said.

Mariner Problem

PASADENA (UPI) — Jet Propulsion Laboratory officials discovered a new problem aboard Mariner 10 yesterday.

The spacecraft's "plasma science experiment" to measure voltages in the solar wind — a continuous stream of particles from the sun — malfunctioned.

Heaters in Mariner's television cameras continued to falter — they went out shortly after launch last Friday in Florida — but pictures of the earth and moon were still transmitted.

A JPL spokesman said the problem with the "plasma science experiment was that, "We are not getting the full range of measurements."

Embassy Sealed

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Chilean army troops sealed off the former Cuban Embassy in Santiago today with Swedish Ambassador Harald Edelstam and a number of exiles from the Sept. 11 military coup inside.

The ambassador said a Swedish citizen, Mrs. Bobi Sourander, and two of his drivers were detained by authorities during the night when they tried to enter the embassy.

Edelstam said there were also some exiles in the embassy, turned over to Swedish authorities when the Cuban diplomatic delegation was expelled from Chile following the Sept. 11 military coup that brought down the Marxist government of President Salvador Allende.

Ford Rebellion

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers faces a rebellion by skilled tradesmen that is threatening ratification of its tentative contract agreement with the Ford Motor Co.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock yesterday said voting was "very close" by the 37,000 skilled tradesmen among the 185,000 Ford workers who will be covered by the agreement reached Oct. 26. But, he claimed, rejection was coming because workers are "confused" over provisions of the new contract.

Dissidents have picketed the union's international headquarters, Solidarity House, since Monday.

Tuition Hike

STANFORD (UPI) —Stanford University's trustees will consider next week whether to raise tuition by $240 so that it would be $3,375 for the 1974-75 academic year.

Times To Print The Daily News

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

New York's firemen staged a five-hour walkout yesterday, the New York Times said it will print tomorrow's editions of the strike-closed Daily News, and Mayor John V. Lindsay said the Cost of Living Council was "callous" for postponing a hearing on wage increases for striking hospital workers.

In strikes across the nation:

Only 140 of Milwaukee's firemen reported for duty, compared to the usual 300, despite a court injunction served on union officers. Some 170 showed up Monday. The president of the Firefighters Union said the union would respect the order, but "I can't control a man if he becomes sick or something." There were no major fires.

More than 1,400 United Steelworkers Union members struck the mines and smelters of the Bunker Hill Co. at Kellogg, Idaho, but contract negotiations continued.

Stewardesses and stewards at Trans World Airlines continued their walkout, forcing the air line to cancel all of its domestic and international flights.

Los Angeles television technicians who have been honoring picket lines of striking stagehands at network stations returned to work after an announcement that negotiations were to resume tomorrow in Washington, D.C.

The one major fire in New York yesterday during the five-hour strike was a stubborn, wind-fanned blaze that broke out in a vacant building in Brooklyn and spread to a neighboring pair of occupied tenements. Those inside made their way out safely, and fire officers, civilians and men who reported to work despite the strike poured water on the flames and put it out.

Richard J. Vizzini, head of the 10,700-member Uniformed Firemen's Union, called the strike off after he and the union were threatened with contempt of court proceedings, fines and possible jail sentences. The union demand for a $2,000-a-year pay raise was submitted to binding arbitration.

In the Daily News strike, a spokesman for the Newspaper Guild of New York said it had received a "final offer" from management and would submit it to the union membership without recommendation at a meeting today. Details of the offer were not revealed.

The Times said its plant would be used to publish the News if the strike does not end today. The News, the largest circulation newspaper in the United States, did not publish yesterday or today, missing the New York mayor's race. The Guild said the main issue in the strike is job security.

Striking workers at the city's private hospitals and nursing homes want the government to allow them a 7.5 per cent wage increase they won in collective bargaining two years ago. It has been held up by the Cost of Living Council under the Phase Four 5.5 per cent limit on pay hikes.

Fairfax Board Votes To Convert White Hill Into Middle School

The Fairfax School District board last night unanimously voted to convert White Hill School, which now serves seventh and eighth grade pupils, into a middle school to include all district sixth graders.

The board set no date for adding sixth graders to the White Hill roster, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

The move will require transferring sixth grade pupils from three district schools to White Hill at "some time in the future," he said.

The district board has long considered conversion of the junior high facility into a middle school, but last night's vote was the first formal endorsement of the proposal.

The Fairfax School District board also:

PARKS — Said the district will cooperate with Fairfax parks recreation programs, but took no action on a proposal by town recreation director Larry Husband that the district help fund those programs.

URINALYSIS — Said district children will be given urinalysis tests as part of the Marin Kidney Foundation program, but set no dates for the tests.

CLASSES — Said local residents will teach creative drama and karate classes after school, and said a fee will be charged for use of school facilities.

SHOP EQUIPMENT — Postponed until Nov. 20 consideration of a proposal to use $1,000 in district reserve funds to beef up shop facilities at White Hill School.

POLICY — Postponed consideration of reserve shelf policy to Nov. 20.

APPOINTMENT — Said special education teacher Margery Burns will head the reading and language text selection committee, and called for a part-time substitute to assume some of her teaching duties.

ATTENDANCE — Said district attendance last week was 951 pupils.

MEETINGS — Said the district architectural selection committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12 in the district office, and said the architectural and planning committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 at White Hill School.

ADJOURNAMENT — Adjourned to 7:45 p.m. Nov. 20.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Some 10,000 Americans currently are being kept alive by dialysis machines which take over a failing kidney's main task of filtering out impurities from the bloodstream, the Stanford University Medical Center reports.

DR. MARCUS FOSTER

School Head Murdered In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — Three young black men, armed with a shotgun and pistol, killed the city's popular Negro schools superintendent and wounded his top aide last night in a parking lot ambush near their offices.

All available detectives were called in to search for the slayers of Dr. Marcus A. Foster, 50, who came here in 1970 from Philadelphia where he was honored for his outstanding work. He died from a massive wound over his heart.

Associate Superintendent Robert Blackburn suffered wounds in the stomach and arm. He underwent emergency surgery at Highland Hospital, where his condition was reported as serious.

Police units were ordered to guard the homes of the victims.

Homicide inspectors talked with Blackburn before he underwent surgery. But they declined to say what prompted the attack which occurred just 15 feet from his car.

Police said the assailants were armed with a shotgun and a pistol and wore ski caps and motorcycle jackets with white emblems on them. Witnesses said they fled on foot and then jumped into an automobile.

All city schools were closed for a day of mourning for Foster. Deputy School Board Administrator Alvin Bedall was named acting superintendent pending an emergency meeting of the Board of Education.

Foster, married and the father of one daughter, served as the associate superintendent of community affairs for the Philadelphia School District. In 1969 he received a Bok Foundation award for his outstanding contribution to education in the Pennsylvania metropolis.

Physician Winner Of Mayor's Seat

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Millionaire physician Dr. Harvey Sloane, 37, yesterday overwhelmed his Republican opponent, ex-police chief C.J. Hyde, to win the mayor's seat in Louisville.

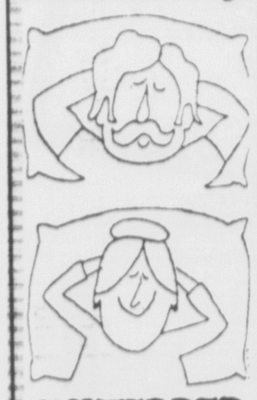

Sloane, a transplant democrat from New York City and a Yale University graduate, rolled up a record margin in defeating Hyde by more than 37,000 votes. Walter (Pete) Cosby, a black independent candidate, ran a distant third.

Lockheed Given Missile Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Navy has awarded the Lockheed Missile and Space Co. of Sunnyvale, Calif., a $120.2 million contract for the initial full scale engineering development of the Trident I submarine launch missile.

The 4,000 mile range missile is being designed to be carried by the Trident submarine, planned by the Navy for operation in 1978. Each Trident will carry 24 missiles, compared to 16 on existing Polaris and Poseidon missile subs.

SURPRISE VISITOR FROM STREET ABOVE

After turning over three times in a 75-foot plunge from the street above, this Volkswagen came to a stop on its left side at 10 a.m. yesterday in the front yard of Chester G. Laws' home at 66 Fair Drive, San Rafael. The driver, Amalia Browne, 47, of 80 Chula Vista Drive, San Rafael, escaped with some bruises, according to San Rafael police. She told police she lost control of her car rounding a curve on the street.

VOTE

scanned the individual ballots, jammed for 43 minutes. The machinery also crumpled cards from one entire precinct in the Fifth Supervisorial District. Meyer said these ballots would have to be handcounted this morning, along with about 100 other ballots countywide that the machine spat back as improperly punched. Meyer noted, however, that none of the close races were involved in these cards and that the count would not affect the outcome.

Marin County voters were more generous to the statewide Proposition 1 than the state as a whole. The Marin vote was 28,768 yes to 30,124 no, or 49 per cent to 51 per cent.

Early returns from the absentee ballots and San Rafael and Santa Venetia precincts gave the Reagan plan a scanty lead that withered as Southern Marin ballots poured in.

The Measure E Marin Water District bond issue was in trouble from the beginning, lacking the two-thirds vote it needed for passage, and finally even lacking a majority.

The Novato flood control measure scraped by with 345 votes to spare, for the two-thirds majority it needed.

for the one college board seat open, but he won't have to face a runoff election as is the case in city council and county supervisors elections where no candidate has a clear majority.

"This is winner take all," said Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

Kramer has served on various school boards in Marin for a dozen years, first as Dixie District trustee and then for two terms on the San Rafael Board of Education.

O'Halloran is a geophysicist and former college teacher.

Trailing in yesterday's vote were College of Marin student Mark Conlon, with 5,168 votes; Frank P. McGowan, 4,541; Kit M. Cole — who withdrew too late for removal from the ballot — 4,071; Edd O'Connel, 4,017; Joseph A. Geraghty Jr., 3,916, and Edward A. Medvic, 2,185.

According to the county election computer's unofficial tally last night, Kramer received 32.5 per cent of the votes cast; O'Halloran, 14.4 per cent.

They were vying for the vacancy created by the resignation of trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy, elected to the board in April. She stepped down because she subsequently was appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the state's Community Colleges Board of Governors.

Foreaker told supervisors yesterday certain parts of the parking lot project were discovered to have been improperly constructed and will have to be improved before asphalt can be laid.

He said the main problem has resulted from improperly filled utility trenches which are now sinking, leaving an uneven surface. The trenches hold water and electrical lines.

The public works director said the project should have been completed a week ago but the contractor failed to perform. Additionally, he said, the architect for the project, the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, failed to supervise the construction properly.

"Yesterday I was ready to say it could not be finished this winter," Foreaker told disgruntled supervisors. "After talking with my staff I'm not prepared to go that far. But to finish before winter we will need some good weather."

Foreaker told the Independent-Journal afterwards that he may later recommend that a thin coat of asphalt be placed down as an interim measure so patronage of the Memorial Building will not be hampered.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, who called the project "another big boo-boo," criticized the Wright Foundation for not adequately overseeing the job.

"If someone was on top of it the project would have been completed," Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. agreed.

The Santa Venetia open space drive was spurred by developer's plans to build between 450 and 1,100 townhouses on the 250-acre Fierman property south of North San Pedro Road.

Roumiguiere explained last night that "negotiations will have to begin soon" on acquiring the property, but that the development plans still are scheduled to come before the board of supervisors soon.

Condemnation is possible under the special service area, he said.

The Sonoma County vote to levy a special open space tax of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation was defeated by a 2-to-1 margin.

Unofficial but complete returns showed 17,208 yes votes and 33,133 against. A simple majority was needed for passage.

Rohnert Park voters also turned down a $1 million bond issue to buy open space land on the perimeter of the city. Vote totals showed 836 in favor or 57 per cent and 630 votes against. a two-thirds majority vote was required.

Rohnert Park City Councilman Louis G. Beary, who headed the ad hoc open space committee, said he was disappointed but found the 57 per cent affirmative vote encouraging and a good indication another try should be made, perhaps next April.

Sonoma Supervisor Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma said the defeat of extra taxes for open space will cause the board of supervisors to consider other means of assuring permanent open space land.

Sonoma County Clerk Eugene D. Williams said 52,881 of the county's 116,409 registered voters went to the polls for a 45 per cent voter turn-out. He had predicted that less than 40 per cent would vote.

FLOOD

mately 9,000 voters going to the polls in contrast to 5,200 in April.

Approximately 16,700 persons were eligible to vote in the 44-square mile flood control zone.

The stormy weather on Monday may have reminded the area's residents of flood dangers, observers added.

The bond issue will finance the community's share of a $19.1 million Army project designed to divert flood waters from Novato Creek to Warner Creek near McClay Road, thus leaving Novato Creek virtually unchanged through the city's central area, but extensively channelized further downstream.

J. Dietrich Stroeh, chairman of the Novato Flood Control Zone Commission, also watched the ballot counting at the Marin County Civic Center.

Stroeh also was vitally concerned with the Marin Municipal Water District bond issue — which was defeated by a 2-to-1 margin. He is engineering manager for the district.

"I have mixed emotions," he reported. But he gleefully shook hands with Baptiste as the final computer readout showed the flood bond had won.

The $7.5 million would have paid for the second stage of a four-part pipeline which eventually would have run from Terra Linda to the river and cost about $40 million. Stage one, the North Marin intertie between Hamilton Air Force Base and Highway 37, was approved by voters in 1970 but has never been built.

William R. Seeger, district general manager, said last night that he took the vote as a sign that "the people in Marin are not concerned about what the future might hold."

Without an additional water supply, Seeger said two dry years in a row would lead to rationing of water in the district which would "restrict and curtail the normal way of life of this community.

"The people have spoken and I hope they are prepared to accept the consequences," he said. "To hell with them; it's their problem," added Seeger, who will leave the district Jan. 1 to accept a job with a San Francisco engineering firm.

Tina Ferris of the Committee to Save Marin, a group formed to oppose the bond issue, hailed the vote as "fantastic."

"This defeat, coupled with the defeat of Measure B (the 1971 aqueduct measure) demonstrates that we the people want the district to examine alternatives to the Russian River for our future water needs," she said. "It also indicates that water can be used as a legitimate form of control on excessive growth."

Directors of the district had promised to contract for only enough water to support the limited growth proposed by the county general plan if the measure passed.

But Miss Ferris and at least two Marin Municipal directors, Jack R. Felson and L. Martin Griffin, said the bond issue failed chiefly because the voters were not convinced that Marin's future growth can be controlled by the county plan. "This shows absolutely that the people of Marin want strict growth controls," Miss Ferris said. "And it shows that the people have no confidence in the county plan because it has no teeth."

"This large negative vote against a small water bond issue tells me that strong growth control measures must be adopted by the cities and the county before any water or sewer bond can pass," said Griffin.

He and Felson both said that the district's current moratorium on new water connections will have to stay in effect until Marin Municipal's present water supply can be augmented.

County Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere blamed the rejection of Measure E on the water district board. "I still feel badly that the board failed to endorse its own measure," he said. "I think that fact contributed significantly to the defeat."

San Franciscan Thought Leaper

A 28-year-old San Francisco man is believed to have leaped to his death yesterday from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Although the body of David Eugene Gunder had not been recovered today, investigators said they found Gunder's wallet inside his car which was parked in the northbound lanes on the span.

A motorist said she saw a man leap from the west side of the bridge at midspan at about 12:55 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol. No suicide note was left in Gunder's car, the patrol said.

"I am, of course, disappointed," Reagan said in a prepared statement. "I wish the basic philosophical issues could have been more clearly drawn without the distracting, irrelevant and confusing play on human fears and the basic emotions of the people.

"But we will look ahead. There can be no recount, no reassessment, no unproductive exchange of recriminations. I shall continue to seize every opportunity to hold down spending."

The voter turnout was extremely light, around 45 per cent compared to 82 per cent in last November's presidential election. Ironically, both sides had figured a low voter turnout would be a plus for the initiative.

The measure was rejected by nearly 2 to 1 margins in San Francisco, a bastion of liberalism, and in Sacramento County, the home of thousands of state workers.

Opponents had contended that far from being a permanent tax cut with no impact on state services as claimed by Reagan, the complex, 4,000-word measure would cut back programs from Sacramento and ultimately result in higher local property taxes.

Los Angeles County, where one-third of California's 9.1 million eligible voters reside, voted against the measure narrowly.

It was nip and tuck in traditionally conservative San Diego County.

The defeat was registered in all corners of the state, including the rural areas where Reagan has scored heavily in the past.

Under the proposed constitutional amendment, Proposition 1, total state taxes would have been limited to a gradually declining percentage of California personal income. The state income tax also would have been immediately cut by 7.5 per cent.

ABRAHAM BEAME
Overwhelming victor

Beame Wins New York Mayor's Job

NEW YORK (UPI) —Democrat Abraham Beame, who managed the city's finances for 23 years, was elected mayor by a massive margin yesterday, beating his three opponents.

It was the second try for Beame, 67, the city controller. He will be the first Jewish mayor of New York, the city with the largest Jewish population in the world. Beame first ran for the post in 1965, when he was defeated by John V. Lindsay, who decided not to try for a third term this year.

Beame carried 57 per cent of the vote with 84 per cent of the ballots counted. The Republican candidate, State Sen. John J. Marchi, had 16 per cent; Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal, Liberal, polled 15 per cent; and U.S. Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., running on a Conservative ticket, had 12 per cent.

MILLS GODWIN

Godwin Is Governor Of Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Democrat-turned-Republican Mills Godwin, 58, edged past independent Henry Howell, 53, yesterday to become the first man in more than a century to be elected governor of Virginia a second time.

Godwin, who served as governor from 1966 to 1970, was the last of the Democratic governors elected under the conservative Harry Byrd machine. Lt. Gov. Henry Howell, a maverick politician, campaigned on populist pocketbook issues, vowing to repeal the state's sales tax on food and non-prescription drugs.

Howell and Godwin, whose ideologies and personalities have clashed throughout their careers, abandoned the Democratic party in Virginia for different reasons. Howell left the conservative-led party in 1971 to run for lieutenant governor as an independent charging that the Democrats' plan choose a candidate by convention, rather than the traditional primary, smacked of bossism. Godwin left the party last year, after it was taken over by McGovernites, and headed the Nixon campaign in Virginia.

Unofficial returns, with all of the state's precincts reporting, showed Godwin had 522,858 votes to 508,205 for Howell.

body.

"We have the finest clientele in the country," Lindeman claims with pride. And he does not hide the reason. "We are the highest-priced government-approved zoo in America," he notes. "Anyone who pays $3" — children over four cost $1.50 — "is interested in conservation, education, or having a good time. It's strictly a family trade."

LIKE MOST zoo directors, Lindeman's real interest lies in conservation. "The prime purpose of every zoo," he says, "is to create a propagating area."

As evidence of his own commitment, Lindeman has established propagating areas both here on the 1,150 acres not used for exhibition and on 420 acres near Ocala, Fla., a place closed to the public. There a long list of hoofed and horned animals are living in breeding enclaves which average 15 to 20 acres in size.

On the game farm itself Lindeman takes special pride in his successful breeding of rare Przewalski (or Mongolian wild horses), the prehistoric forefather of today's horse.

Minister Hopes To Teach World Illiterates To Read

where the reader should be able to handle the language of most available reading matter.

Nida sees the project of making reading the tool for all as a giant advance in many ways. He estimates that about 1 billion of the world's population is either illiterate or functionally so, knowing only a few skills.

"THE PROBLEM is," he said in an interview, "if we don't break the situation more and more people will starve to death.

"Literacy can do something to cure the economic problems...provide the motivations of a people.

"Not only is a nation affected, but so is the individual. He becomes a person. His culture is being accepted by the world..."

Nida recalled establishing reading classes for a primitive tribe in the southern Philippines. The classes were meant for adults.

"But they wouldn't attend," he said. "They wouldn't admit illiteracy. So we changed things by announcing the classes were for children but of course the parents would have to bring them. It worked."

Dr. Nida holds bachelor's and master's degrees in Greek and patristics (study of early theological writings) from UCLA and a doctorate in linguistics from the University of Michigan. He's also an ordained Baptist minister.

Nida is conversant in Greek of course, Hebrew, Latin, French, German and Portuguese.

HE IS THE author of a number of books and articles on linguistics and edited "The Book of a Thousand Tongues", published in 1972 by the United Bible Societies. This is a compendium of 1,399 languages and dialects spoken by more than 97 per cent of the world's people.

Nida explained he can alphabetize primitive languages simply because all languages break down to four basics— objects, events, abstracts and relationals. And in formulating symbols for the written word he works with local missionaries who know the spoken tongue.

He and his wife, Althea, who has a degree in theology, travel seven to eight months of each year and Nida estimates he's worked in at least 75 countries.

He said, "You can't sit in New York and help people around the world."

Sausalito Delays Projects Policy

A decision on whether to increase review of major development projects in Sausalito was postponed last night by city councilmen.

They sent the controversial proposal back to planning commissioners for approval of wording revisions in two zoning ordinances that would bring about the change. Public hearing and further consideration of the matter by the council was set Nov. 20.

If approved, the measure automatically would make any development requiring an environmental impact report a conditional use and subject to review by the city planning commission, which also could order changes in development plans.

Presently, any proposed project that complies with zoning needs only architectural approval from the community appearances advisory board and a building permit.

Planning commissioners now review impact reports but have no authority to impose restrictions.

Developers said the proposal "would gut" zoning laws and render them meaningless. City Atty. Leland H. Jordan countered that increased controls "would help carry out the stated purposes of zoning."

Noting that permitted uses are written into zoning laws to encourage development of commercial enterprises desired by the city, councilman Stephen A. Fraser claimed "the effect would be to throw the whole concept of permitted use out the window."

The measure also would make any projects approved by the city subject to a referendum by voters.

It would affect several large projects with impact reports awaiting city review, including the Whiskey Springs development proposed for land near the northern city limits and the entire Schoonmaker project planned for Marinship.

A development by Deak Investment Co. for the Marinship area, already approved by the council, would be exempted.

Impact reports for Schoonmaker and Whiskey Springs will receive first review by planning commissioners at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Sausalito Council Delays On Bridgeway Improvement Project

After more than an hour of deliberation, Sausalito city councilmen last night postponed for two weeks a decision on whether to approve design plans for the much discussed Bridgeway improvement project.

Councilmen will take up the downtown beautification and street widening plan again on Nov. 20.

They questioned several aspects of the Bridgeway proposal by architect Donald Olsen and Associates and agreed they need more time to consider the matter.

Of chief concern is the narrowing of traffic lanes for motorists when sidewalks are widened to 15 feet and an 11-foot-wide median strip for emergency vehicles is built.

The proposed 10-foot-wide traffic lanes will allow hardly enough room for a bus to move without hanging over into a portion of the median strip, said Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works.

Councilmen also differed on the density of plantings in sidewalk areas in the vicinity of Princess Street, whether new street lights and traffic signals are needed and if delivery trucks should be permitted to park on the median strip during certain morning hours.

Olsen said latest cost estimate for the plan, which also includes most of Princess and El Portal streets, is $134 per running foot, to be paid through assessments of downtown property owners.

The Sausalito City Council also:

GATE 5 — Unanimously approved a measure that would allow the police department to enforce parking regulations on privately-owned Gate 5 Road. Before actual citations are written, warnings will be issued for the next 72 hours.

GATSBY'S — Denied an appeal by Frank Perry of a conditional use permit granted Oct. 17 by the planning commission for restaurant service at Gatsby's on Caledonia Street. Councilmen broadened a planning commission restriction banning amplified music at the former bar and jazz club by also prohibiting use of microphones. Several residents in the vicinity had complained of loud music from the club.

OPEN SPACE — Continued until 8 p.m. next Tuesday in council chambers consideration of the open space element for the city's general plan.

BRIDGEWAY — Approved design plans for a median strip on Bridgeway for emergency vehicles from Nevada Street to the north city limits and changes to improve sidewalks and a bike path as well as landscaping. Councilmen Stephen A. Fraser and Evert H. Heynneman abstained. The median will cost $35,000; 50 per cent will be paid by a county grant.

WATERFRONT — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Nov. 29 in council chambers to discuss net zoning for the central waterfront with property owners in the affected area.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until 8 p.m. next Tuesday in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Hells Angels Brothers Shot Down In Modesto

MODESTO (UPI) — Two brothers who were members of the Hells Angels Motorcycle Club in San Diego were gunned down in a bar here today by an unknown assailant.

Both apparently died instantly.

Michael Varner, 28, El Cajon, president of the Hells Angels Club in San Diego, was standing near a pool table at the New Era Club, when a man came in, said "What do you think of this?" and shot him twice, witnesses said.

Police said the victim's brother, John G. Varner, 30, Santee, apparently pulled a knife and advanced toward the suspect but was shot four times before he took more than two steps.

Police learned from a friend of the Varners, Raymond Piltz, that the three of them were coming back from the Bay Areaa after attending the funeral of a fellow Hells Angel when they stopped in Modesto.

Piltz, asleep in the back of the car, did not go into the bar.

Officers said the two victims were wearing denim jackets with a small patch on each identifying them as Hells Angels.

The gunman ran out of the bar immediately after the shooting.

Pioneer Sending Jupiter Pictures

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) —Scientists say the Pioneer 10 spacecraft has begun transmitting television pictures of the planet Jupiter even though the craft is still 15.5 million miles away from Earth.

The craft is expected to journey to within 81,000 miles of Jupiter by Dec. 3 and then leave the solar system, the first rocket to do so.

Alcoholism Victory Predicted By Doctor

CHICAGO (UPI) —The president of the National Council on Alcoholism said alcoholism is America's No. 1 health problem, but forecast "victory over alcoholism within our lifetime."

Dr. William S. Simpson, of Topeka, Kan., told the 27th annual meeting of the Chicago Metropolitan Council of Alcoholism yesterday that research, greater understanding, increased interest by medical schools and other factors combined with knowledge now available can lead to "victory over alcoholism within our lifetime.

"Alcoholism is now accepted as a disease by every major public health group in the world," Simpson said.

"We now know how to treat the illness. We now have medical criteria for the diagnosis of alcoholism. Labor and management are beginning to embrace employe alcoholism programs. Stigma is being reduced. Alcohol properly has been labeled our most dangerous drug," he said.

The Chicago Council said 350,000 persons locally suffer from alcoholism and they indirectly affect 1.4 million family members and employers.

The Girls Win

THE DALLES, Ore. (UPI) - Five girls on The Dalles Summer Swim Club have left no doubt about which sex has more endurance. The girls completed all 25 miles of a swim down the Columbia River in a fund-raising effort for the club, while the seven boys who participated stopped short.

Blacks In City Hall Victories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Blacks flexed their political muscle yesterday, capturing at least two new city halls. Earlier this year, blacks captured mayors' seats in Atlanta and Los Angeles.

In Detroit yesterday, black state Sen. Coleman A. Young came from behind to win and in Raleigh, N.C., councilman Clarence Lightner took the election. James McGee, who had held the mayor's job in Dayton, Ohio' on appointment, won election to the post.

In two cities, however—Youngstown, Ohio, and Louisville, Ky.—blacks were defeated in their mayoral bids.

Young, 55, a state senator since 1964, overcame a comfortable lead that had been held by former Detroit police commissioner John Nichols through most of the evening.

His election made Detroit the third maor U.S. city to elect a black mayor this year. Earlier, Thomas Bradley was elected mayor of Los Angeles and Maynard Jackson won the post in Atlanta.

Switch Traders Finding Less Places To Exploit

By DAVID R. FRANCIS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

ZURICH — Ernst Hug, moustached, cautious, belongs to a declining profession. He's a switch trader.

Fewer nations are signing bilateral trade agreements with the East European Communist countries that require a complete balance in trade. As a result, there are fewer unused clearning dollar balances around for switch traders to exploit.

In the earlier postwar years, there were as many as 1,000 bilateral trade agreements of the state trading nations.

Now, says Hug of Bank Cantrade AG, there are only about 100. Of these possibly 20 offer active opportunities for switch trades. Most of these involve agreements between Yugoslavia and other East European nations.

Since Yugoslavia is striving to make the dinar a fully convertible currency, the potential for switch trading business will likely decline further, reckons the young banker.

Under the old-style bilateral trade agreement, two countries promised to ship each other goods of equal value. If for some reason this balance did not occur, one nation would be left with surplus clearning dollars.

These accounting dollars can only be used to buy goods or services from the debtor country. They are not convertible for purchases from a third nation.

The switch traders, a relatively rare breed operating in Zurich, Vienna or Amsterdam, take advantage of the situation.

Officials of the Communist countries know about their operations. But they turn the other way, since switch trades help them clear up their books and make sales in the West.

For example, say Czechoslovakia has a bilateral trade agreement with Iran which has left the Czechs with some surplus clearing dollars. But the Czechs have no special need for further Iranian products.

So Hug finds that a Czech firm needs chrome ore. He finds a supplier in Switzerland. Next he locates a German firm buying dried fruit from Iran.

You need a lot of contacts, says Hug. With some fancy paperwork, he sees that the Czech clearing dollars are used to pay for the dried fruit. In turn, the German firm provides convertible funds to pay for the Swiss chrome.

Hug must make sure that the documents transferring the clearing dollars to an Iranian bank are clean, not stating what is being purchased. But the Czechs are pleased to do this, since they can get their chrome without the necessity of obtaining a license for hard currency.

The German firm gets its clearing dollars at possibly a 4 per cent discount. The Iranian firm might boost its price for dried fruit 1 or 2 per cent, since it is being paid in clearing dollars that require some extra paper work.

Bank Cantrade, for its efforts, takes a commission of 1 per cent or more if the deal is small.

The size of switch trades ranges from $50,000 to $1 million or so. Thus it does not take many deals to make the business profitable.

Although the number of clearing contracts has been diminishing, their size and the profit margin have increased somewhat.

Hug expects switch trading opportunities to continue on a smaller scale for many years.

Nevertheless, he has decided to switch occupations. He's going to go into the business of "forfeiting," another activity connected with East-West trade.

When a Western firm sells goods to a Communist country, it often gets a document promising payment over time, say five years. But it does not want to hold the political or credit risk of nonpayment over that long a period.

A bank or some other financial institution steps into the breach. It buys the Communist firm's payment document at a discount equal to the current interest rate in the Eurodollar market plus something extra for taking on the risk. At present the discount would be about 9.25 per cent.

Hug guesses that forfeiting is already a $500-million business and growing rapidly.

Two Quakes Hit Aleutian Islands

PALMER, Alaska (UPI) — Two earthquakes of 6.2 magnitude on the Richter scale happened nine hours apart south of Adak in the Aleutian Islands, the Palmer Observatory reported yesterday.

No damage was reported from either temblor but they were felt strongly at the Adak Naval Base, the observatory said.

Red Devil's Food Cake—Real Winner

When selecting a dessert for your family, you probably look for something delicious to satisfy a sweet tooth and to complement the meal. When entertaining, you look for a unique dessert that is appealing, flavorful and elegant.

The next time you're looking for a tasty dessert for your family, or an intriguing dessert for guests, try red devil's food cake with sea foam frosting.

RED DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

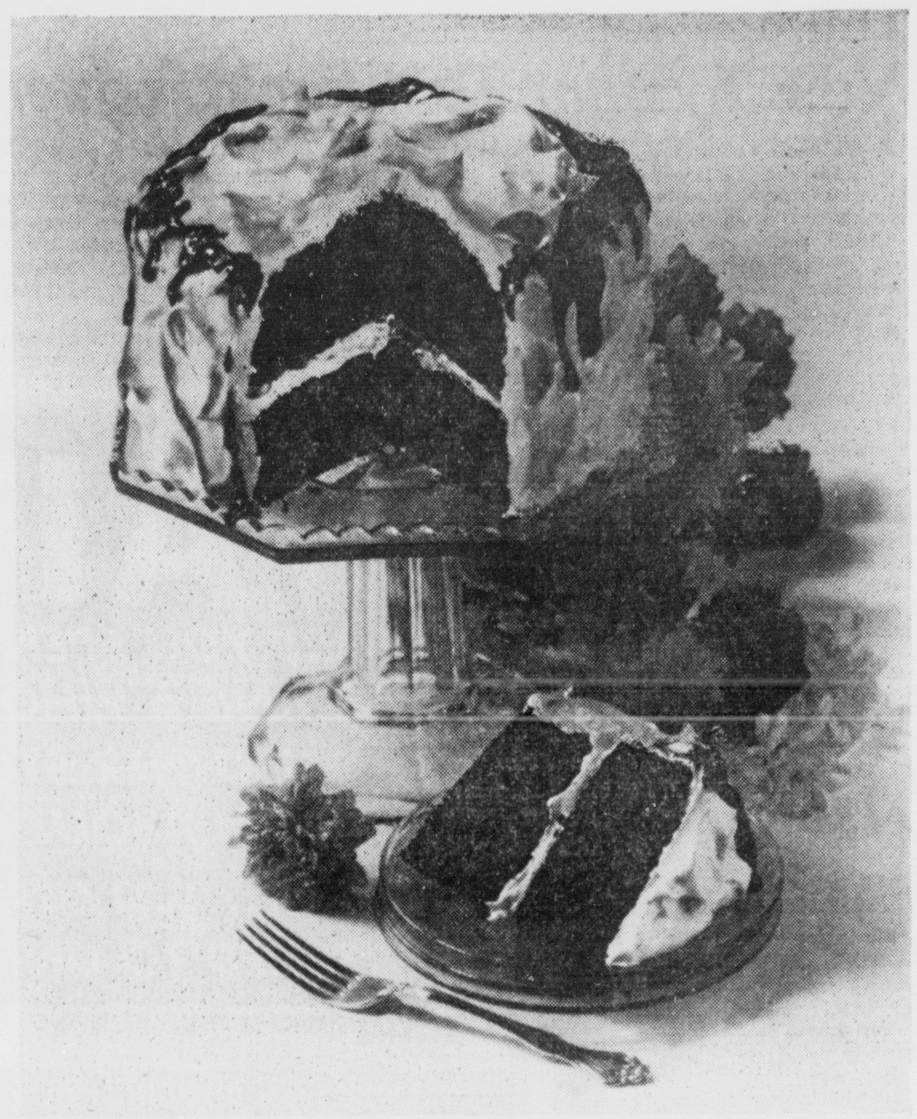

- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup shortening
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2½ cups sifted cake flour
- ½ cup unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1½ teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1⅓ cups cold water
- 3 egg whites
- ¾ cup sugar

In bowl cream together the one cup sugar and one-half cup shortening till light. Add egg yolks, one at a time, and vanilla, beating well after each addition. Sift together cake flour, cocoa powder, baking soda and salt; add to creamed mixture in bowl alternately with cold water, beating well after each addition.

Beat egg whites to soft peaks; gradually add the three-fourths cup sugar, beating to stiff peaks. Fold into batter; blend well. Turn mixture into two greased and lightly floured 8 x 1½-inch round baking pans. Bake at 350 degrees till cake tests done, 35 to 40 minutes.

Sea Foam Frosting: combine two egg whites, 1½ cups packed brown sugar, one-third cup cold water, two teaspoons light corn syrup or one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar, and dash salt in top of double boiler. Beat one-half minute at low speed of electric mixer. Place over hot, not boiling water. (Upper pan should not touch water.) Cook, beating constantly, till stiff peaks form, about seven minutes (do not overcook). Remove from water. Beat in one teaspoon vanilla.

ONCE IN awhile a special dessert cake is called for. This is red devil's food cake with seafoam frosting.

A Delicate Orange Sauce Gives Fish Natural Taste

Spain, with its long seacoast stretching from the Portuguese border on the Atlantic eastward through the Strait of Gibraltar and around the Mediterranean Sea to the French border, has long been famous for its many and varied ways of preparing the fish and crustaceans that abound along its coasts.

On the East coast of Spain lies the city and province of Valencia, an area known for its oranges. So it is only natural that a very special recipe for fish with a delicate orange sauce would come into being.

"Natural" cooking is nothing new to the Spaniards, for this distinctive cuisine is based on using the fresh fruits, vegetables, and seafoods that are so abundant.

FISH WITH ORANGE SAUCE

- 2 lbs. fillet of halibut
- 2 tablespoons Spanish olive oil
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1½ cups orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- ½ cup dry white wine
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Saute the fish in olive oil and butter until golden on one side; turn, add onion to the oil around the fish, cook over moderate heat until onion is soft and the fish golden on the other side. Remove fish to platter. Add orange juice, rind, wine, salt and pepper to oil mixture in pan. Simmer 10 minutes. Return fish to pan, cook, uncovered, over medium heat 10 minutes longer, or until flesh is firm. Serve fish with sauce.

Makes six servings.

Apples, Cranberries Combined Into Dessert

APPLE CRANBERRY PUDDING

- 2 cups 10-minute cranberry sauce
- 4 apples, cut in eighths
- ¾ cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ cup water
- 1 tablespoon brandy
- ⅓ cup quick-cooking tapioca

Drain cranberry sauce, reserving juice. Add water to juice to make two cups. Set aside. Combine apples, sugar, butter, lemon juice, salt, spices and water in a deep frying pan. Cover; simmer over medium heat until apples are transparent, about 10 minutes. Baste occasionally with liquid in pan.

Remove apples to heat proof serving dish. Add drained cranberries and brandy flavoring. Add cranberry liquid and tapioca to frying pan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Pour over fruit.

Let stand 15 minutes; stir. Cool 15 minutes longer before serving. Serve with plain or whipped cream. Makes six servings.

10-Minute Cranberry Sauce

Combine two cups sugar and two cups water in saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add four cups (one pound) cranberries. Cook over medium heat until cranberries pop open.

Corn Bread Is Practical

Corn bread is a quick bread that is delicious when topped with creamed meat or seafood mixture.

CORN BREAD

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 cup yellow cornmeal
- ¼ cup sugar
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoons salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup cooking oil

Stir to combine thoroughly the first five ingredients. Add eggs, milk and oil. Beat with electric or rotary beater just till smooth, about one minute. (Don't overbeat). Bake in greased 9x9x2-inch baking pan at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes eight to nine servings.

MEATLESS DISHES

Budget Helpers For Dinner Table

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — A bank that sponsored a money-saving receipt contest here learned as much about feminine logic as it did about economizing. Many constants whose receipts called for leftovers did not include the cost of leftovers in their planning.

But some recipes submitted to the National Bank of North America in that contest nearly three and a half years ago still represent good value — especially for meatless meals.

Fish Loaf

Mrs. Gladys Weston, Jericho, N.Y., submitted this fish loaf:

Mix together one and one-half pounds of ground raw haddock or cod, 1 large onion, grated, 1 teaspoon of salt, three-fourths teaspoon of pepper, cup of matzo meal, 3 eggs, beaten, 2 cups of milk and 1 heaping teaspoon of butter, melted. Place mixture in a greased ring mold and bake, uncovered, in a pan of hot water in a 350-degree oven for 45 minutes, or until a knife blade inserted in the deepest part of the mold comes out clean. Makes about 6-8 servings. (Cracker meal can be substitute for the matzo meal, if desire, and margarine for the butter. You can cut the cost still more by using liquefied powdered milk instead of the fluid variety.)

Bean Casserole

With one minor change, Lebanese bean casserole from Mary M. Connors, Fort Saratoga, N.Y., makes a really low-cost meatless main dish. To supplement the incomplete protein in the beans, serve cheese wedges with apples or pears for dessert. For the casserole, soak 1 pound of dried great northern beans overnight in water to cover well. The next day, bring to boil and simmer, covered, 30 to 40 minutes, or until tender. Add more water if necessary. Drain the cooked beans and mix them with one and one-half cans of condensed tomato soup, 1 medium to large onion, minced, one and one-half teaspoons of dry mustard, one half cup of maple syrup (or maple-flavored syrup), one half teaspoon of salt and three-fourths teaspoon of freshly ground pepper. Pour into a 2-quart bean pot or casserole or an eight by twelve by one and one-half inch baking dish. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 45 minutes. Serves 8.

Turkey Casserole

This range-top casserole uses left-over cubed turkey. It can be prepared and cooked in 30 minutes or less.

Cook one-third cup of chopped onion until golden in 2 tablespoons of preheated salad oil in a 4-quart pot. Add three and one-half cups of water and bring to boil; add 2 beef bouillon cubes, 1 teaspoon of dry mustard and 6 cups (an 8-ounce package) of medium egg noodles. Cover and simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in 3 cups of cubed leftover turkey, 1 cup of sliced celery and 1 medium green pepper, stemmed, seeded and diced. Cover and simmer 6 to 8 minutes more, or until noodles and vegetables are tender. Stir occasionally. Stir in one-fourth cup of chopped fresh parsley or 1 tablespoon of dried parsley flakes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

Cheese Loaf

Cheese loaf is an unusual variation on the popular maraconi and cheese casserole. Lightly mix 1 pound of sharp cheddar cheese, shredded, with 1 (4-ounce) jar of drained pimientos, chopped and 1 cup of soft bread crumbs. Sprinkle mix with juice of 1 lemon. Beat 3 eggs with 1 cup of milk and 1 teaspoon of salt and add to the cheese mixture. Pour in a well-buttered two and one-half to three-quart flameproof casserole. Bake in a preheated, 350-degree oven about 30 minutes until firm but not too firm. While loaf bakes, cook about half of an 8-ounce package of spaghetti in boiling salted water. Drain spaghetti well and spoon it over the hot cheese loaf. Dot generously with butter or margarine and sprinkle generously with paprika. Run casserole under broiler until bubbling hot and lightly browned. Makes about six servings.

New System To Check Frozen Foods

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In a few years, perhaps sooner, shoppers may be able to tell at a glance whether the frozen food in supermarket cases stayed frozen after it left the factory.

A little yellow disc on each package of frozen peas, chicken pie or whatever may do the job.

A partial or even complete thaw of some foods, followed by refreezing, may not be harmful; but for others—such as shellfish or dishes using a cream sauce—it could cause spoilage, making the food unusable or even dangerous.

One firm, Artech Corp. of Falls Church, Va., already is marketing a thaw indicator to provide an instant alert on the history of any frozen product that thawed. Artech recently sold half a million of the devices to the Pentagon and is selling others at the rate of about a million a year.

ARTECH CALLS its device the IWI—standing for "Irreversible Warmup Indicator." (They pronounce the acronym as ee-wee.)

The size of a dime, the IWI turns from yellow to red if the temperature of the product to which it is affixed rises past a specific point—four degrees above zero, for example.

Once it turns red, it can't be turned yellow again even if the package is refrozen.

Artech developed the IWI under a contract with the Army surgeon general's office, although the concept for the indicator came from the Gemini spaceflight program where salt chemistry was used to solve heat control problems.

Currently the IWI is being used only for bulk shipments, because it's too expensive to apply to individual packages; but a spokesman for Artech said it eventually will be turned out for every product, at about a penny per unit, with a market potentialof 840 million a year.

"WHEN THE device came out 18 months ago it was warmly embraced by the quick frozen food people, but then they found out they didn't have the control they thought they did and were a little surprised at how much thawed out," a spokesman said.

"So now they're looking at more secure methods of shipment. And grocery stores are beginning to realize that deliveries sometimes sit on loading docks and can get thawed out."

The American Frozen Foods Institute said the problem is not with the industry's shipping methods as much as it is with the lack of sophistication of the IWI, and three or four similar devices. None of the current indicators, a spokesman said, is refined enough to tell, for instance, how long something thawed—or whether it thawed enough to make any difference.

Buy Three Chickens; Plan Ahead

Four or five meals from three chickens? That's right. Now that chicken prices are down, it's a great time to put in a supply of fresh California chicken.

Buy three fresh chickens. Have your butcher (or easily do it yourself) cut the birds into drumsticks, thighs, breasts, wings, legs and backs. Whole birds are your best value at the meat counter.

Now, put the like parts together and plan meals around them. Freeze the parts you plan to use later. You now have six drumsticks instead of two. Fry these up Southern style for a family dinner.

Those six thighs can make an excellent casserole or curry dish; the six half breasts will give you plenty of meat for a gourmet, company dinner of six.

The wings can be made into a chance of pace Chinese dinner, stuffed or with sweet and sour sauce and pineapple and Chinese vegetables.

Backs go into the stock pot for the basis of a hearty chicken soup or chowder.

And, finally; one chicken liver doesn't go very far, but three can make a good round of appetizers.

So that's how the sum of chicken parts is greater than the whole. When you buy in multiples, you have the convenience of parts with the savings of whole birds.

Fudge Scotch Ring Sweetens Up The Holidays

Candy making time is any time, but homemade candy is especially welcome at holiday time. Sweeten up your holidays this year by making this Fudge Scotch Ring. Just four ingredients — semi-sweet chocolate morsels and butterscotch morsels, sweetened condensed milk (the sugar and milk are already blended), walnuts and vanilla do the trick.

FUDGE SCOTCH RING

- 1 cup (one 6-oz pkg.) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- 1 cup (one 6-oz. pkg.) butterscotch morsels
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated)
- 1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup walnut halves

Melt chocolate and butterscotch morsels with sweetened condensed milk in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. Stir till morsels melt and mixture begins to thicken. Remove from heat. Add chopped walnuts and vanilla. Blend well. Chill for 1 hour until mixture thickens. Line bottom of 9" pie pan with a 12" square of foil. Place ¼ cup walnut halves in pan bottom to form a 2 inch wide flat ring. Spoon chocolate mixture in small mounds atop walnuts to form ring. Decorate with remaining walnut halves. Chill in refrigerator until firm enough to slice into ½ inch slices.

Makes about 36 slices.

SCREEN ACTORS PRESIDENT

The Many Faces Of Reggie Waldon

By JOAN LISETOR

Who is the real Reggie Waldon?

Is she the charwoman wiped out in a bloody gun battle in the opening scene of the new film "The Laughing Policeman?"

Or is she Woody Allen's former school teacher giving a monologue in the opening scene of the film "Take the Money and Run?"

Or the little old lady about to be evicted from her home and saved at the last minute by Channel 7's Action Man?

Reggie Waldon is all of these, as well as the new president of the Northern California Screen Actors Guild and also a longtime Marin resident, wife of L. William Waldon of San Anselmo, mother of two daughters and grandmother of seven.

A native San Franciscan, Mrs. Waldon first came to Marin 35 years ago as a tuberculosis patient at Ross Hospital. After her release the family stayed in Marin and Mrs. Waldon went into the real estate business. After years of selling real estate and doing amateur theater work as a hobby, she decided to give up real estate and devote full time to acting. She registered with Brebner Casting Agency in San Francisco and had no idea what to expect, she said.

"ABOUT A WEEK after I registered Anne (Brebner, owner of the agency) called me, and said there was a part for me in a training film," she said.

Weeping aunt of the bride for a commercial

Since that first training film 12 years ago, Reggie Waldon has made a living as a character actress.

When did she start acting? She can't remember not acting, she said, but making a living at it was another story.

She has an amazing face that changes to suit the part, and she often appears on a set and someone says, "You've got your makeup all on," she said. "I don't use make up. It all comes from within."

Sometimes she doesn't even recognize herself, she said.

"My hands work well, too," she said. "You do what you do well."

She has appeared in almost every film made in recent years in the Bay Area, including "Yours, Mine and Ours," shown this week on television; "Bullitt," on television last week; and "Skidoo."

She has filmed segments for the television series "Streets of San Francisco," which have not yet been shown.

"I PLAY a washroom attendant. Those are the kind of roles we get here," she said, "but they love to come and work with us here because of the fine acting ability of our extras.

"They don't crowd the actors, ask them for autographs. Television commercials are being made here more and more because they can start in January, and Marin looks like anywhere in the world."

She has opinions about some of the actors with whom she has worked.

Woody Allen is loose to work with and kind of a nut.

As president of the 700-member Screen Actors Guild, Reggie plans to expand film performers' workshops, she said.

In a scene from 'Bullitt'

"Our people must practice to be ready. As a musician or a dancer practices, so must an actor," she said.

Teaching the techniques of an interview is an important segment of the workshop, she said. When your agent calls you for an interview, you arrive and there are 15 people there waiting ahead of you, enough to frighten off an actor who is unprepared, she explained.

"THEY CALL your name. You get up, and how you walk through the door is very important. You introduce yourself to people sitting around a table, and then someone asks you a question like, 'What have you done lately?' or they say 'Tell us something about yourself.'

"I just look at them straight on and say 'At my age and with my experience, what would you like to know?' "

Earlier this year during the filming of "The Laughing Policeman" she was fitted with a sack of red matter that looked like blood. The sack was hooked up to a charge like dynamite, so the director could have the "blood"released at the right moment.

"I reacted to a 'murder' of another actor, the one the murderer really wanted. Then he had to kill us all so there wouldn't be any witnesses. The next thing I remember I was on the floor of the bus. I knew enough to stay still until they finished the scene," she said.

The charge had been placed too close to her spine, she explained, so when it was released she was knocked out.

As far as her career is concerned, she has no ambition to become a super star, she said, but she would like to do more acting and get larger parts.

Mrs. Waldon is also a member of board of directors of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, Toastmistress Club and for many years a member of the Marin County Real Estate Board. She has long been active

Mill Valley Woman Makes Junket East With Purpose

By MOLLY MARIN

A trip with a purpose was the 10-day junket in New York and New England which Mrs. Bruce Rossman of Mill Valley took with a friend, Mrs. Kevin Elston of Oakland.

Joanne Rossman is a clothing designer and Teddy Elston is a weaver. The women visited museums to see displays of textiles, quilts and handcrafted articles, textile factories and New York's garment district.

The friends are both members of a Bay Area organization called "The Group," composed of weavers, rug weavers, jewelers and potters, and are preparing for a large showing of their work in December in the East Bay.

AMONG MARIN members who are taking sponsor tables for the black tie dinner dance Saturday of the San Francisco Auxiliary to Florence Crittenton Services are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Dahlgren of Mill Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barton of Ross, and from Sonoma, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Donnell.

Mrs. Dahlgren is president of the auxiliary, which will celebrate its 25th anniversary with the dinner dance at the Garden Court of the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

ON A tour of the Far East, Dr. George Sugarman of Corinthian Island is visiting Japan, Korea, Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Manila, Hong Kong and Taiwan.

A NEW baby girl born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. MacKay of Ignacio has been named Heather Jean. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. MacKay of Rossmoor in Walnut Creek, formerly of Kentfield, and of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn of England. Mrs. Dunn is visiting the MacKays in Ignacio.

The baby has a brother, Andrew Scott.

Illiterates The Target Of Minister

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Rev. Dr. Eugene A. Nida is setting out to teach the ABCs to one third of the world's population.

That's the estimated percentage of illiterates, the ones who have never had the privilege of learning to read and in some instances don't even have a written language.

Nida is a world recognized authority on linguistics (the science of language structures) and a cultural anthropologist. The minister, a native of Oklahoma City, has been associated with the American Bible Society's translation work for 30 years and head of its translations department since 1955.

Nida heads a team of specialists who will work on the society's latest project—a long range multimillion dollar program to help those just beginning to enter the reading world to step up their skills, instead of sliding back into the dark, unlettered world for lack of material.

THE SOCIETY'S plan is to raise $63 million, the largest amount it has ever attempted to budget, to underwrite what it calls the "Good News for New Readers" program.

It hopes to translate, print and distribute 725 million selections from the scriptures in the first few years of the projects. Some 200 languages will be used, from A for Anindilyangwa in Australia to Z for Zuni, an American Indian tribe.

The languages are mostly of primitive peoples in Africa, the Americas, Australia and Asia, Nida said.

The selections start the reader with simple words and short parables and stories from the life of Jesus, then move by grades (five levels in all) to HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

After Seven Years She'd Like To Marry Before Third Child

DEAR HELEN:

I've been this man's "wife" for seven years, and we have two fine children, but how can I get him to marry me? There's no question about loving each other. The children and I use his name.

But whenever I mention marriage, he changes the subject, or says "Okay, next week," but next week never comes.

Now another baby is on the way. I'm not ashamed because I feel like his wife. We aren't on welfare or AFDC. So how can I stop being a — NON-MARRIED LADY

DEAR LADY:

You can make a date to meet your man for lunch, walk him over to the marriage license bureau and say, "This is it, Love."

If he puts up a fuss, get a clerk to explain that common-law marriages are just about as legal as the real thing in your state, and whether he realizes it or not, he's a husband, with or without the papers.

Happy wedding day! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

It's all very well to console lonely people by saying one American out of three is presently divorced, widowed or single, so "mix and match." But what if you match up — beautifully — with someone who has a 14-carat conscience?

My first husband wanted me to desert our three children (the youngest dying of leukemia) and take off with him to a "good life" without responsibilities. I divorced him instead, and never regretted it. But for 10 years, the two fine remaining children were all I had — plus a demanding career. I smiled and pretended, but the loneliness was always there.

Then I found the only man for me. He was a business acquaintance whose marriage (to a 20-year alcoholic) was over. His children and mine were happy that we could be a family. He started the divorce. We were both living again, tremendously in love. Everything was perfect.

And then his wife learned she had cancer, just seven days before the dissolution became final. My man went through Hell. He wanted to stay with me, our children begged him to stay, but he couldn't desert a woman who might be dying.

So I'm alone again. We're both miserable, but we are moralists. If he is married to her, we cannot see each other. We hate ourselves for our thoughts but we know that only her death will bring us together again.

For the first time I've come to understand why different life styles exist — the three-person "marriage," the commune with shared families. I'd gladly be part of an arrangement like this, but our town isn't ready for it, nor I suppose is his wife.

There's no solution but time. Meanwhile, we try not to wish. I even pray that the wife recovers — and hope God doesn't hear me.

. . . And I empathize with those "Alones" who write to you. — ONE OF THEM AGAIN

DEAR HELEN:

I went to church with a widow friend of mine. They passed around communion and I took it. She became incensed because I wasn't a member and wasn't a Catholic. Said I should have known better and I embarrassed her. I know another widow who doesn't go to church. I enjoy Sunday services, but not being bawled out, which Widow No. 2 has never done. Should I stay with the too-devout or the non-devout? — FRANK

DEAR FRANK:

My vote is for Widow No. 2. Isn't yours? — H.

Midiskirt May Be Coming Back But Don't Bet The Ranch On It

By ANN HENCKEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the midiskirt? The 1940s look that bombed in 1970 and left a thousand dress merchants mumbling to themselves?

Well, it may be coming back. Emphasize "may be."

It turned up, briefly, in a few American fall collections and came on stronger in Paris. Some retailers here say they will buy a limited number of the midcalf lengths for spring, now being shown in the European ready-to-wear market.

However, they hasten to add that the predominant length, especially for day, will be around, or just below, the knee.

"I think for the young you'll see a lot of the longer look," says Norman Silberstein of Alexander's department store in New York. He points to the recent success of the swirling, above-the-ankle St. Tropez skirt — as well as a satin midiskirt which is selling well now for $39.

HOUSTON'S ROBERT SAKOWITZ says the added softness of the new longer lengths means his store will try them out for high style customers. He adds that he didn't buy the original midi because it looked too stiff.

Other stores aren't going to risk it.

"We are not going to buy the midcalf length for daytime. Skirts will remain at the knee," stated Gordon Franklin of Bergdorf Goodman.

"I don't think there's any issue to go through, again," says Robert Fountain.

Retailers seem to agree that the midi isn't returning in strength in this country, regardless of what the Europeans do. But what of Seventh Avenue designers themselves?

Halston, who started playing around with longer skirts in his summer collection, says he will build up midcalf length little by little. He'll show some midis for day in his spring line.

"PEOPLE SHOULDN'T panic. If you have many shapes to offer, it should stimulate the market," he said.

Bill Blass had drawn the line and won't go to midcalf.

"I love the knee," he said. "God knows, I was as guilty as any when it was attempted. It was rejected. You can propose a new fashion but you can't impose it."

Geoffrey Beene is the most adamant of all. He'll do middle-of-the knee skirts for spring.

"There is no midcalf anything. I'm not going to any strange ends to create a fashion which I don't think is valid," he said.

Rare Zoo Privately Owned And Operates At A Profit

By FREDERICK HUNTER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CAIRO, N.Y. — Out in the animal nursery children hardly out of cribs are bottle-feeding baby lambs. A goat is asleep on a bench and a toddler reaches out to touch its nose.

Along the lines of animal pens visitors are gawking at creatures — Mongolian wild horses, bison, and an okapi from the Zaire jungles. Most do not understand how rare some of these animals are, or how close to extinction some have been. Nor do they realize that the farm has a conservation program of its own that is helping such species survive. As the trickle of visitors winds its steady way from the parking lot, breeding herds roam the hills above them.

THE CATSKILL Game Farm is a rare species of zoo. First, it's family owned and financed and — perhaps even more surprisingly — it operates at a profit. Second, there is the conservation program, a somewhat unexpected feature in a privately managed operation.

And then there is something a little incongruous about seeing giraffes, pygmy hippos, kangaroos and a host of other exotic animals living among the descendants of Rip Van Winkle and Ichabod Crane.

But during the seven months each year when the farm is open to the public, April 15-Nov. 15, those descendants come to visit in droves. On a good summer Sunday, 10,000 people may come to see the animals; the annual number of visitors exceeds 500,000.

The game farm developed into a government-approved zoological garden entirely by accident. Owner-founder Roland Lindeman, a jovial, bear-like man, bought the farm in 1933 as a weekend retreat from the world of corporate finance. The son of a Berlin zoology professor, Lindeman has had a lifelong interest in herbivores, "the hoofed and horned animals," as he calls them..

BY 1940 he had assembled on the farm one of the world's largest collections of deer: some 750 animals of 28 different species. A few years later, Lindeman left the financial world and decided to share his animals with paying visitors (adults 25 cents, children 10 cents). The hobby had become a business.

Annual receipts now run to some $1.5 million per year, more than half of which goes to payroll expenses. Gate receipts defray some 60 per cent of the zoo's operation. Income from the sale of refreshments, animal food, and kiddie rides in the amusement park area — plus the sale of animals — takes care of the rest. What profit there is gets plowed back into the farm.

"We have been paying taxes for the last 20 years," says Lindeman, regretting that while the farm appears to qualify as a nonprofit organization, income tax officials have so far declined to give it that status. He now foresees a time when the farm must merge with or be sold to a largertax-exempt

Modell, Crebassa And Oberg Win Tam Fire District Seats

Two incumbents were reelected and a volunteer fire captain won the third seat open yesterday in the Tamalpais Fire District board race.

Carl H. Modell, a director since 1962, and Arthur L. Crebassa, just completing his first term, were reelected. The third seat in the four-way race went to James A. Oberg, a volunteer with the department for the past four years.

The unofficial vote count, according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, was: Crebassa, 1,597; Modell, 1,647; Oberg, 1,460, and Morton Ray Smidt, 896.

The election center computer tallied 2,781 ballots for a 54 per cent turnout of the 5,169 registered voters in the district.

One Tiburon Fire Seat In Doubt

One of three Tiburon Fire Protection District seats was still in doubt today, with only nine votes between the third and fourth place runners in the five-man contest.

Yesterday was the first time since 1965 that the district's voters had to go to the polls to decide a contest for the board.

Incumbent Charles T. Estudillo had no trouble winning reelection with 1,075 votes, and Fred T. Borgman, who's lived in the district only one year, got 901 votes. Volunteer fireman David C. Roads received 495 votes and attorney Michael D. Silber received 484. In fifth place was Arthur R. Formanek Jr., who withdrew from the race too late to get his name off the ballot. He received 467 votes.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, cautioned last night that the third seat may not be determined until the official canvass is completed next week — or even later, if a recount is sought by one of the candidates.

Did Nixon Hear His Slang Name?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sportscaster referred to President Nixon as "Tricky Dick" during the nationally televised Monday night football game, but the White House would not say whether the President, a sports fan, was watching.

Don Meredith used the term in joking that the President would be in contact with coach George Allen of the Washington Redskins following Washington's 21-16 loss to Pittsburgh. The President has spoken with the coach before, once suggesting that a certain play be used during a game.

The White House declined to say whether Nixon watched the game. As to Meredith's remark, presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren said, "If there was such a reference it was one I would not comment on."

Wins Reelection

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Mayor Wes Uhlman, a Democrat, won reelection yesterday, turning back a strong effort by Liem Eng Tuai, the son of a Chinese immigrant cook who quit his job as city council president.

Newcomers To Panel In Novato

A professional fireman and an insurance executive teamed up to grab the two open seats on the Novato Fire Protection District board yesterday, defeating one longtime incumbent who was trying to keep his seat.

Ray A. Landi, who is a captain in the San Francisco Fire Department, led the four-way race with 5,654 votes. His teammate William L. Boyle Jr., training director for Firemen's Fund Insurance Co., received 4,376.

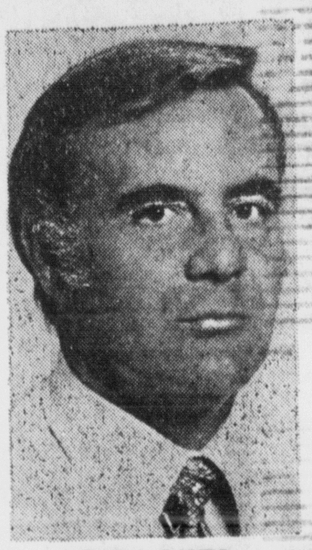

Incumbent Peter J. Ferrarese drew only 3,526 votes, losing the seat to which he was appointed in 1955 and repeatedly reelected until yesterday.

In last place was Harold J. Leeds with 1,778 in the unofficial tally by the county's election computer.

Novato Fire District voters also approved by a 5,807 to 2,589, proposed revisions to the fire department's personall ordinance. The probationary period for new firemen was extended from six months to one year; the district chief was relieved of personnel officer duties, and the assistant fire chiefs were exempted from the personnel ordinance.

The district's directors and Fire Chief Jack Kidder had endorsed the changes.

A total of 9,232 of the district's 15,944 voters cast ballots, a 57 per cent turnout.

Incumbents Winners In Alto Board Voting

Two incumbents on the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire Protection District board yesterday successfully turned aside a challenge by two other contenders in a contest for two board seats.

Leonard W. Lewis, a mechanical engineer, and Milton J. Stannard Jr., a division manager for Pacific Telephone Co., were reelected to four-year terms on the board.

The vote was: Lewis, 899; Stannard, 913; Cole, 272 and Fine, 432.

Approximately 49 per cent of the district's 3,560 eligible voters — 1,781 persons — cast ballots.

Stannard, 62, is a past president of the Reedland Homeowners Association. Lewis, 57, has been a district director for five years.

Kemper Moved To Vacaville

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) —Edmund E. Kemper III, on trial in Santa Cruz, Calif., for killing eight women, has been transferred to a state medical prison because of another suicide attempt.

Kemper was taken to the state medical facility at Vacaville.

San Mateo County Sheriff's office says Kemper was removed from a special county jail cell because he twice tried to kill himself.

Officials called Kemper "a serious custodial problem."

One New Face For Las Gallinas Panel

Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District voters reelected two incumbents yesterday, but turned out a third incumbent in favor of a newcomer.

Sesto F. Lucchi, a district board member since 1966, received 3,606 votes in the unofficial tally. Frank Solomon Jr. won a second term with 3,384 votes.

And challenger Charles P. Carle received 3,099 votes to beat incumbent Calvin P. Colt, who got 2,495 votes.

In his campaign, Carle strongly criticized regional water quality control board plans calling for a huge subregional sewage treatment system for the North Bay, and argued against the sanitary district getting involved in growth control efforts.

Colt and other incumbents took no stand on the subregional plan, but did call for expanding the Las Gallinas District facilities to meet their valley's projected population growth as envisioned in the Marin County General Plan.

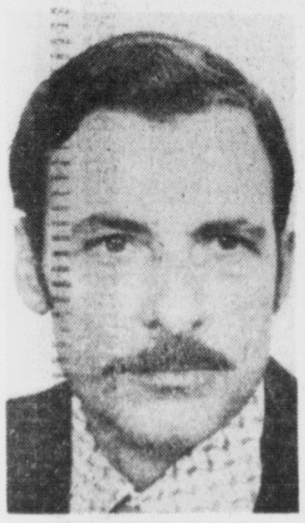

Nut and fruit farm acreage in 1972 in California totaled 1,446,110 acres, an increase of 101,456 acres over 1972.

Mother Back As Reservist

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) -- The Nevada Army National Guard has recruited Mrs. Patricia Folan and her daughter, Kathy, to serve in its unit here. The mother had been a sergeant with the Marines from 1951 to 1954.

Mrs. Folan said, "I really enjoyed the service when I was in before and I hadn't wanted to leave. I did so only because, at that time, you had to when you got married."

She will get her sergeant's rank back and be trained as a teletype operator. Kathy, after completing basic training, will attend a teletype course at Fort Gordon, Ga.

(Syrop also has resigned as chairman of the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.)

New York Transit Bonds Defeated

NEW YORK (UPI) —Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposed $3.5 billion state transportation bond issue pegged to saving New York City's 35-cent subway fare was soundly rejected by voters in yesterday's election, incomplete returns showed today.

With 8,712 of the state's 13,408 districts reported, the vote was 952,064 "yes" and 1,368,337 "no."

Clerks Walk Out On Thrifty Drugs

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Retail clerks struck nearly 300 Thrifty Drug Stores throughout Southern California today following the breakdown of negotiations on a new contract.

Union members set up picket lines at 8 a.m. in carrying out a threat they made last week when an impasse in negotiations was reached. Some of the smaller Thrifty stores were reported closed.

Kentfield Trustees Plan Advisory Group

Kentfield School District trustees decided last night they will establish a citizens advisory council at their Nov. 20 meeting.

According to Supt. Eugene C. Peters, the 21-member council will be made up of two young adults, two retired persons, four persons from 21 to 65 years old with no children in district schools and 13 parents of children in district schools.

Council members will serve two-year terms with half the seats becoming vacant each year. No member may serve more than two consecutive terms.

Peters said trustees anticipate that the council will undertake three or four studies of district problems at a time.

He said one district staff member will serve as consultant to the council during each study. Additionally, outside consultants may be hired at district expense with trustee approval.

A 10-member selection committee to nominate advisory council members will be appointed by trustees Nov. 20. Peters said the selection committee could report and the board appoint advisory council members at the board's meeting Dec. 4.

The Kentfield School District Board Also:

GIFT — Accepted a portable video tape recorder from the Kentfield Parent Teacher-Association and Kent Junior High School student council for use in the school.

LEAVES — Accepted for first reading a policy change allowing district personnel to observe religious holidays other than Christmas and Easter. It will be adopted Nov. 20.

GRIEVANCE — Accepted for first reading a policy change in district grievance procedures to include all district personnel rather than just teachers. Peters said the change is needed to correct a deficiency in policy only and did not arise from a complaint.

PARENTS — Commended the parent-teacher association for its efforts in obtaining two adult crossing guards for the district.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Nov. 6 in Bacich School.

Sinatra To Play Las Vegas Date

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Frank Sinatra, who was told he would be called for questioning if he again showed his face in Las Vegas, announced today he will star in a hotel showroom next January in the desert playground.

Sinatra has signed a contract to appear at Caesars Palace for seven days beginning Jan. 25. He will make a second week-long appearance later in the year.

In 1970 he was involved at the same hotel with a Caesars Palace executive who waved a gun at an irate Sinatra who was throwing gambling chips in the casino. At the time District Attorney George Franklin, no longer in office, announced Sinatra would be questioned on his return.

Charge Admitted By H. Rap Brown

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (UPI) —H. Rap Brown, former civil rights militant, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of failing to appear for a 1970 trial on charges stemming from a racial disturbance in Cambridge, Md. more than six years ago.

Circuit Judge James MacGill sentenced Brown, 29, to a one-year prison term to be served concurrently with a term he now is serving in New York State's Attica Prison.

The surprise plea came after MacGill's dismissal of charges of arson, rioting and inciting to riot against Brown in connection with the Cambridge disturbance.

11 Pct. Benefits Increase Is Backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to raise Social Security benefits 11 per cent next year, instead of the 10 per cent it had proposed yesterday.

The revised plan calls for a 7 per cent increase in April, and the remainder in July.

Protest To Annexation Decision

The Novato City Council expressed annoyance last night that the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission sliced private property from a proposed annexation at Trumbull Avenue and Mill Road.

Councilmen were irked because the commission had approved annexation of a 12-acre school site, but excluded five acres of adjacent private land, proposed for annexation by the city.

The private property owners involved have protested annexation, and councilman George C. Quesada said, "LAFCO is up to its old tricks of holding public protests and as I understand it, this is not permitted. I think we should institute a suit."

Planning staff members reported the commission action seemed to be a departure from past actions when adjacent property, comprising less than 50 per cent of area or land value, was included in annexation packages.

Public protest, Quesada said, is to be before the city council when annexation is being considered.

The council asked the city staff to find out if the commission has changed its policy on annexations and also to determine whether the commission can hold public protest hearings.

The council held up action on the proposed annexation of the school site, pending a report on the commission's policy.

Conviction Of Burglary Is Rendered

An Oakland man, whose first burglary trial ended in a hung jury, was convicted yesterday in Marin Superior Court. John Robert Prater, 35, will be sentenced Nov. 29.

In a jury trial in August, another Oakland man, Richard Anthony Weaver, 20, was convicted of burglarizing the William Ambrose home in Los Ranchitos in June.

But the panel deadlocked on the question of Prater's guilt, and a retrial was ordered.

A third man, Larry Lee Weaver, brother of one of the convicted, is being sought in connection with the theft, which netted $20,000 in goods from Abrose's house.

Rebelo Property Acquisition Eyed

The North Marin County Water District board is considering purchasing 366 acres of the Frank Rebelo property south of Stafford Lake as a watershed protection measure.

Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson recommended to the board last night that it negotiate with Rebelo for the property.

Nelson estimated the value of the land at $232,000 and said the district has $100,000 budgeted for watershed protection.

The recommendation to buy the land was in an interim report on the watershed protection program presented to the board last night.

Since the board had just received the report, members decided to have a public hearing on it at 8 p.m. Dec. 4 at the district office in Novato before taking action, Nelson reported.

Nelson said the board could consider a lease-back agreement or purchase of development rights, each of which would meet the goal of halting urban development on the Rebelo land.

It appears the Rebelo property represents the only potential for urban development in the watershed at present, Nelson said.

The study, covering a watershed area of 5,400 acres said four existing dairies and a riding stable "are contributing significant pollution to Stafford Lake," with blue-green algae reported in the lake for the past three years.

Nearby ranchers George and James Grossi, however, are spending money to achieve pollution control goals and increase the efficiency of their operations, Nelson said.

The board also approved an agreement to undertake a study of raw sewage problems at Tomales at a cost of about $10,000 to be paid by Marin County.

Nelson said raw sewage from Tomales is carried to Keys Creek, which goes into the Walker Creek estero.

Death Blamed On Mushrooms

STANFORD (UPI) —Michael J. Kimble, 20, of La Honda, Calif., who was poisoned by wild mushrooms, died at Stanford University Hospital yesterday.

Kimble was admitted to the hospital Sunday after sharing a meal of the mushrooms with a friend. The friend, unidentified, also suffered poison symptoms, but treatment proved successful and he was released.

Doctors said they were unsure what species of mushrooms the two ate.

Tiburon's Becker Quits Redevelopment Agency

Tiburon City Councilman M. Carlisle Becker has quit his seat on the city's redevelopment agency, and is asking the city council to appoint a member of another taxing agency in the Tiburon area which would be affected by the city's redevelopment plans.

Becker said that redevelopment is "just not necessary downtown."

When councilmen formed the redevelopment agency a few months ago, they appointed themselves as members of the new body. They now are trying to draw up a redevelopment plan by the end of the year.

The redevelopment project would freeze assessed valuations in the downtown area for all taxing districts except the redevelopment agency. The agency would then use the revenue from increased valuation to pay off bonds to finance street, lighting, parking and other improvements downtown.

"There are all kinds of other forms of enabling legislation to allow us to do the same things as redevelopment," said Becker, "such as parking districts and assessment districts."

Becker said he mailed his resignation letter to councilmen Monday. In the letter he said that discussions on the agency were inadequately publicized. He called deliberations on the project "amateurish and done without the benefit of staff work or administrative advice."

City Atty. Richard Breiner said he was not sure if the council could appoint someone to replace Becker. He said that state law provides either that the city council become the redevelopment agency or that it appoint another group to become the redevelopment agency. He said it does not provide for mixing city councilmen with other types of members.

Becker said he favors a member of the Reed School District board as his replacement but said that if his seat has to remain vacant he expects that the agency will be split by many 2-2 votes.

Balloon Trip Is Concluded

GWYNN ISLAND, Va. (UPI) —Malcolm Forbes, publisher of Forbes Magazine, ended his cross-country balloon trip yesterday with a landing in the shallow waters of Chesapeake Bay.

A group of crab fishermen pulled Forbes and his son from the water. A gust of wind almost blew the balloon away.

The 54-year-old publisher started the trip in Coos Bay, Ore., on Oct. 4. It was believed to be the first transcontinental balloon trip.

School Will Provide Ample Growth Space

Space for growth will be available when the new LaFiesta School opens, the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District board was told last night.

Schools Supt. James H. Davidson said that if the new school were open today, it would have an enrollment of 432 students and nine vacant classrooms. The building is scheduled to open in September 1975.

Davidson said 1,000 new homes are projected for northern Rohnert Park and that the district should be able to cope with the additional students. He said students living in the Holiday Park section will be transferred to the new school and should permit other district schools to reduce their enrollment. He said in many cases the schools will regain proper uses of multipurpose rooms which are now being used for classrooms.

The board reappointed Anthony Carbone as its representative to the county committee on school district reorganization.

Trial For Mental Patient Is Opened

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — A robbery trial was under way here today for John Burnside, a mental hospital escapee who with three other persons was charged with holding up a store here last winter.

Burnside, who had fled from a state mental hospital in Napa, Calif., just before his arrest here last January, had gone to trial once before but a mistrial was called after the judge said that the fact he was brought into court handcuffed was prejudicial.

Tam CSD Panel Winners Listed

John F. Walker, an auditor, and Frank A. Purdy, a mechanical engineer, were elected to the Tamalpais Community Services District board yesterday in a seven-man contest for two seats.

Making unsuccessful bids for the board posts were Byron O. Boulware, a director of the Tamalpais Fire Protection District; Roger A. Buchholz, a fireman; Roberta J. Ricketts, a homemaker and accounting clerk; Gerard S. Sample, a photogrammetrist, and Barbara Shrock, an artist who was a write-in candidate.

Voting yesterday were 1,465 of the district's 2,734 registered voters, or 53 per cent.

During the campaign Purdy said he was strongly committed to the district's acquiring as much open space as it can afford. Walker also supported park development and wanted to see recreational facilities built as soon as possible.

Muir Beach Voters Select CSD Members

Muir Beach voters returned an incumbent to office and also elected a psychiatric social worker and a radio station promotion director to the community services district board yesterday.

The winners are incumbent Stephen H. Pettigrew, a 31-year-old attorney, and Janet Stump, 50, a social worker, and Michael O. Miller, 33, who works for a San Francisco FM station.

Losers in the five-way race for three seats were Gerald N. Pearlman, 39, a video tape producer, and Calvin M. Garrison, 54, a self-employed financial adviser.

The vote was: Mrs. Stump, 58; Miller, 57; Pettigrew, 50; Pearlman, 28, and Garrison, 23.

Eighty-three persons, or 66 per cent of the community's 125 voters, went to the polls.

The campaign was a quiet one with no burning issues. All of the candidates, except Garrison, opposed any commercial development in Muir Beach. Garrison said at a candidates' night he was uncertain as to whether such development should be permitted.

Marinwood CSD Voters Return Their Incumbents

Marinwood Community Services District voters retained incumbent directors Donald A. Duerr and Ellis D. Jaquette for new terms yesterday, turning down challenger Kenneth R. Katz, chairman of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

Duerr received 792 votes; Jaquette, 718, and Katz 523.

The winners had stressed the neighborhood's need for open space in their campaigns; Katz had argued that more attention was needed to curb vandalism and burglary.

Mornell In Easy School Board Win

A 38-year old psychiatrist and writer captured a seat on the Bolinas-Stinson Beach School District board yesterday, easily winning over three other contenders for the post.

Pierre Mornell was elected to serve one year of the unexpired term of Charles E. Hancock who resigned recently.

Mornell, who has lived in Bolinas for three years, received more than twice the votes given to any other candidate. His total was 354, as compared to 170 for Malcolm M. Ponder, an assistant treasurer of a corporation; 97 for Conrad Golich, an industrial designer, and 76 for Sam Birenbaum, an attorney.

The only real issue in the campaign was a possible future fund shortage in the district caused by voter rejection last spring of a measure to increase the district's school tax rate by 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Mornell had promised to work hard on financial problems if elected.

The new trustee divides his time between writing and a practice in Mill Valley. He and his family reside on Horseshoe Hill Road.

A total of 697 voters, or about 56 per cent of the district's 1,250 registered voters cast ballots.

Sigmund, Langdale Reelected

Ralph W. Sigmund and Robert L. Langdale, two veteran members of the Stinson Beach County Water District board, were reelected yesterday in a close three-way race for two seats.

The two survived a challenge by Richard W. Beban, who came within five votes of Lagndale's total.

The tally was Sigmund, 159; Langdale, 123 and Beban, 118.

Beban, a freelance writer and columnist for the Pacific Sun, had resigned as public information officer for the district to run for the board post. He said last night he was disappointed by the election outcome, but had not decided whether to seek a recount.

Langdale, 50, the head of a San Francisco industrial and commercial real estate sales and development firm, has been on the water board seven years. Originally appointed, he was elected to the board in 1969.

Sigmund, 74, was elected to the board in 1969 after being appointed two years earlier.

A total of 248 persons, 55 per cent of the district's 445 eligible voters, went to the polls.

Inspection Function Is Dropped

Cotati went out of the building inspection business last night as the city council turned over the function to Rohnert Park.

Under the agreement, Rohnert Park will conduct all building inspections and will be reimbursed through inspection fees.

City Clerk Donna Olson said the council agreed that the small amount of building under way in Cotati does not warrant hiring a full-time building inspector.

The Cotati City Council also:

BILLING — Agreed to study a plan to contract with Bank of America to process the monthly water and sewer bills if a saving to the city can be shown.

SIGN — Adopted a new sign ordinance, requiring more subdued lighting and smaller sizes.

ZONING — Introduced an ordinance permitting residential uses in commercial zones.

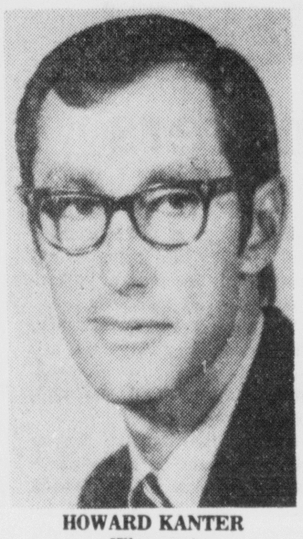

MEETING — Adjourned to the next regular meeting on Nov. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Plea Made To Purse Snatching

An Air Force security policeman pleaded innocent yesterday to grand theft in the snatching of an elderly Mill Valley woman's purse Friday.

A preliminary hearing for Albert William Vielbaum, 20, of the Mount Tamalpais Radar Station, will be Nov. 13.

Mill Valley police said Vielbaum bumped into a 75-year-old woman as she walked on Throckmorton Avenue, grabbed her purse and ran.

HOWARD KANTER

Thrall Wins Bel Marin Keys Seat

Incumbent Daniel J. Thrall yesterday easily was reelected director of the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District, but the race for the second seat open on the board was in doubt.

Thrall received 193 votes. The unofficial computer tally at the county election center showed 130 votes for candidate Howard Kanter and 123 for Bert Smith.

Trailing in the four-man field was Henry F. Bergis with 59 votes.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, said the outcome may not be known until the official tally, or later if a recount is sought by one of the candidates.

THELMA L. McKINNEY
One-vote win

Marin City Ousts Two Incumbents

Marin City voters ousted two incubents yesterday in a seven-way race for three seats on the community services district board. A third board member, Thelma L. McKinney, apparently managed to keep her seat by a one-vote margin, according to unofficial returns from the county elections office.

Residents of the Southern Marin community chose Gussie Blakey and John H. Grayson to represent them on the district board, the only political entity in Marin City.

Removed from their board posts were Ernest Small Sr., a retired construction worker and Rogers Jones, a retired mason.

Lonnie James Roberts, another challenger to the incumbents, received only one vote less than Mrs. McKinney and a recount appeared likely in that contest. Another candidate, Matthew Williams, lost out in his bid for a board seat.

The vote count was: Mrs. Blakey, 173; Grayson, 165; Mrs. McKinney, 151; Roberts, 150; Jones, 131; Small, 129 and Williams, 43.

A total of 348 persons, or 59 per cent of the district's 587 eligible voters went to the polls yesterday.

Incumbents had campaigned chiefly on the issues of the county's financial allowance to the services district and redevelopment plans for the community.

Mrs. McKinney, Small and Jones had said the county did not furnish the district with enough money to expand and properly supervise its community recreation program. The three had also been critical of the Marin County Redevelopment Agency's plans to complete development of Marin City.

Mrs. Blakey, Grayson and Roberts were endorsed by the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association.

PORTERVILLE (UPI) — John A. Leasure, 38, has been named supervisor of the 1.1-million acre Sequoia National Forest, it was announced here today.

Incumbents Win In Bolinas Vote

Voters in the Bolinas Community Public Utility District threw their support to the current district board yesterday by reelecting three incumbent directors and endorsing a district plan to buy 95 acres for a sewage disposal plant.

Incumbents William E. Niman, Paul Kayfetz and Lewis MacAdams Jr. won handily over four challengers. A fifth person who had sought a board seat, Patrick Holland, announced his withdrawal from the race last week.

Kayfetz, a 30-year-old attorney, topped the field with 286 votes. Niman, a 28-year-old farmer and former teacher received 271 votes and MacAdams, 29, a poet, had 276 votes.

Of the challengers, Groshong made the strongest showing, with 231 votes. Vote totals for other candidates were: Barnes, 24; Bradley, 169; Cole, 177 and Holland, 49.

One of the major issues in the campaign was the ballot measure, the question of whether land for a new sewage treatment plan should include only the acreage needed for operation of the sewer system.

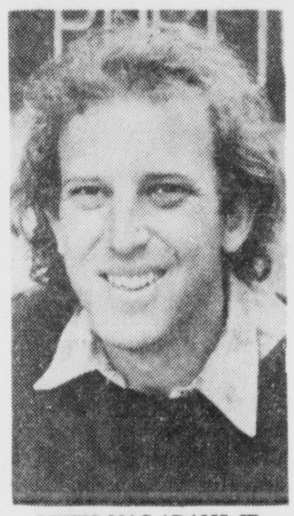

The district had agreed to spend $250,000 for 95 acres on the Bolinas Mesa, but decided to put the issue to a vote after some residents argued that no more than 52 acres was needed for the facility.

Yesterday's vote showed that 330 voters, or 65 per cent of those who cast ballots, favored the 95-acre purchase while 179, or 35 per cent, thought 52 acres would be sufficient.

Niman, Kayfetz and MacAdams had endorsed the larger land purchase.

Orville Schell, vice chairman of the utility board, said the vote showed that most community residents favored the proposed waste disposal system. "I think this also indicates that the people trust the board to decide how much land is needed (for the treatment plant)," he added.

Approximately 63 per cent of the district's 665 registered voters went to the polls in yesterday's election.

LEWIS MAC ADAMS JR.
Poet reelected

DR. JOHN C. BETTINGER
New Ross trustee

Bettinger Elected To Ross Board

Dr. John C. Bettinger yesterday won a two-way race for a seat on the Ross School District board, defeating David A. Dixon 768 votes to 376.

Bettinger will fill out the term of Dr. Gwyn Thomson, who resigned to operate a clinic in the Middle East. The term runs until June 1975.

Dixon also was an unsuccessful candidate in the district's regular election in April, when three seats were filled.

District voters turned out rather strongly for yesterday's special election, with 1,144 of the 1,820 registered casting ballots — for a 63 per cent turnout.

Dwellings Damaged By Fires

Early morning fires today did heavy damage to a triplex in Tiburon and a duplex in Stinson Beach.

The Tiburon Fire Department said the blaze at 2359 Paradise Drive was reported at about 7 a.m. after an occupant of a second floor unit came home and found his residence in flames. Residents were evacuated without injury. Firemen did not have the names of the occupants of the building nor was the cause known.

According to firemen, the blaze was under control about 10 minutes after three engines and an aerial truck arrived.

In Stinson Beach, a fire which did an estimated $10,000 damage to one unit of a duplex at 11 Calle Del Sierra was discovered about 6 a.m. by a passing driver who noticed that drapes in the unit were ablaze.

Chief George H. White of the Stinson Beach Volunteer Fire Department said the probable cause was a slide projector which was left running or which turned on through some malfunction. Its beam shone on a piece of furniture and ignited it, he said.

GEORGE A. AMAROLI
Stays on water board

FRANK V. BACCAGLIO
Veteran re-elected

North Marin Water Incumbents Returned

Two North Marin County Water District directors were reelected to their seats yesterday, easily outdistancing four challengers.

George A. Amaroli won a second four-year term with 5,784 votes; Frank V. Baccaglio, a 25-year veteran on the board, received 4,202 votes.

Challengers and their votes were Robert Burke, 2,567; Lloyd F. Harolds, 1,515; John F. Taylor, 1,051; and Robert Vasconcellos, 1,003. All the tallies were unofficial.

Amaroli commented that the incumbents' reelection "means that we'll have another four years of service to the people" but had no comment on the water moratorium and growth limit dispute that marked the water candidates' campaigns.

The winners had presented a unified front that the district has no legal powers to control growth, but is actively seeking legislation on the issue and meanwhile is cooperating with the City of Novato on its growth limitation policy.

Some 9,768 of the district's 17,399 eligible voters cast ballots, a 56 per cent turnout.

Reasons Behind Job Commuters

A majority of employees in Novato, who responded to a recent questionnaire, don't live in North Marin, according to the Novato Planning Department.

The planning staff reported at a housing workshop this week that 141 returned questionnaires showed that 53 per cent of employees of various firms surveyed live outside North Marin.

High taxes, high housing costs, assets of the home community and generally "too expensive" were the reasons given for not living in North Marin.

The workshop on Novato housing needs was cosponsored by the Novato Citizens Advisory Committee on Human Needs and the planning department.

Staff members also reported to an audience of about 20 persons that there isn't enough low income housing in Novato for current residents, let alone those who might want to move to Novato.

According to the 1970 census, 1,470 persons in 390 households had incomes below the poverty level set by the federal government, the staff reported.

The high cost of housing also has caused a shift in the age distribution of the Novato population between 1960 and 1970, the staff reported.

During the decade Novato had a decrease in the percentage of persons in the 20-to-29 year-old bracket and an increase in the 45-to-64 year-old bracket.

Committee chairman Diane Ryken said ways of achieving low and moderate income housing in Novato will be discussed at a second workshop at 8 p.m. Nov. 19 at the Novato Community House.

Because of the workshops and the Thanksgiving holiday, the committee has canceled its regularly scheduled meetings this month, she said.

Conservationist Honor To Collier

I-J Special Report

MENDOCINO — The "father of California freeways," Sen. Randolph Collier, has been named "conservationist of the year" by the Mendocino Conservation and Planning Foundation.

The award — certain to be cited by the Yreka Democrat in his expected reelection campaign next year against Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael — was made Saturday night at a foundation dinner at Russian Gulch State Park, north of Mendocino.

Collier, long at odds with conservationists, also was lauded by the immediate past president of the Sierra Club as the man who had "contributed most mightily to a vintage year of North Coast conservation efforts."

The praise came from Solano Superior Court Judge Raymond J. Sherwin of Fairfield, keynote speaker at the dinner.

A press release from the foundation said Collier got the award because of his work for purchase and development of North Coast state park projects.

The senator, chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, won authorization this year of several million dollars to expand state parks along the ocean coastline.

The foundation, a leader in the county's conservation movement along the coast, also cited Collier's "legislative efforts to secure coastal parklands over a period of years, culminating in his ability to earmark 1973 funds for over a dozen historical and recreational projects."

William Penn Mott Jr., director of the state Parks and Recreation Department, also praised Collier's contributions to the state park system.

The projects for which Collier got appropriations included more than 1,100 additional acres for Sonoma Coast State Beach.

Marijuana Users Said Mixed Up

BERKELEY (UPI) — Marijuana use drops significantly among high school students who "learn to understand themselves", a psychologist said today.

"The overwhelming majority of young people who try drugs are looking for something that often they can't name or identify," said William Soskin, director of a University of California, Berkeley, youth project.

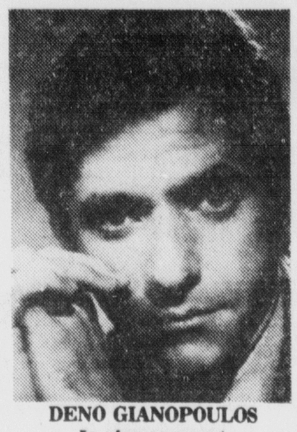

"If you can sense what it is they're seeking and find an effective way of making it available, then their recourse to drugs diminishes very substantially."

Chorales Plan Concert Nov. 18

Soloists will be young Bay Area singers, all winners in the scholarship competition sponsored by the two chorale groups.

Gianopoulos To Perform In Concert

Deno Gianopoulos, pianist, will be star in the second of the Bay Area Artists in Concert series, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 in the Tamalpais retirement residence, 501 Via Casitas, Greenbrae.

The public concert series is sponsored by the College of Marin.

Gianopoulos, a member of the music faculty at the University of California in Berkeley, has studied in England, and performed in London and throughout the United States.

He will play the "Italian Concerto" by J. S. Bach, three Chopin works and Raval's "Miroirs."

Marinite Files Notice Of Appeal In Conviction

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — Ronald D. Kindred of Tiburon, a San Mateo County deputy coroner, has filed notice of appeal of his conviction on three felony counts arising from appropriation of a $500 check found among a dead man's belongings.

George J. Engler of San Francisco, attorney for Kindred, filed the notice after Kindred was sentenced in San Mateo County Superior Court to pay $1,000 file and serve three years on probation.

Kindred was found guilty of conspiracy, forgery, and possession of a check with intent to defraud. A second deputy coroner, William Scott, was found guilty of similar charges. A third, Donald Cawley, was convicted of conspiracy.

The check found among the dead man's possessions was deposited to Scott's bank account. Kindred was the deputy coroner who responded to the call when the man was found dead, while Scott and Cawley were the other two on duty in the coroner's office.

DRAMA REVIEW

Kaufman-Hart Comedy Proves ACT Winner For Second Time

By GERALD GENESE

SAN FRANCISCO — ACT's third play of the season, a revival of George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart's, Pulitzer Prize winner for 1936, "You Can't take it With You", opened last night to the laughter and applause of an appreciative opening night audience at the Geary Theater.

If the play's publication date were 1973 rather than 1936, it would be categorized as a 'Now Generation' play philosophically, if not stylistically and structurally.

Kaufman and Hart's message, that people would be much happier if they did what they wanted to and not what they think should be done, is what the younger generation has been shouting since the mid-60s.

Martin Vanderhoff (William Paterson), grandfather and patriarch of three generations living in the same house, decided 35 years earlier he wasn't having any fun trying to accumulate money and possessions, so he simply stopped working and began enjoying himself by collecting snakes, going to commencement exercises at Columbia University, and letting life come to him. His sons and daughters, their children and various friends of the family who live with Vanderhof have adopted this same approach to life. Everyone in the household is doing his "own thing".

The essence of Kaufmann and Hart's message is splendidly acted by Paterson as Martin Vanderhof, who must be considered one of the finest character actors on the American stage. His characterizations are effortless, flawless and delightful to watch. One never sees Paterson acting — you see him reacting to what takes place around him. When he bends over to retrieve a dart angrily thrown into the floor by his granddaughter, he does not pick it up by the feathers, but by the tip. This seemingly spontaneous attention to detail is what makes a great actor.

Unfortunately, Paterson's acting points out some flaws in a generally very good and interesting production: many of the supporting cast seem to overacting at times in contrast to Paterson.

Paterson executed the same role last season when ACT introduced the comedy into repertory, recalling it this season due to its initial success.

Another small bother is that the set seems to be a bit self-conscious. The use of a large number of what seems to be orange crates, not as decoration, but construction, yells out to the audience, "Look at me," and spoils the effect of an otherwise nicely constructed set.

Raye Birk as the Russian ballet teacher and Nancy Wickwire as the Grand Duchess Olga, cousin to the last Czar of Russia, now working at Chasen's restaurant in New York, are rapidly becoming two of my favorite actors with the company. Their portrayals are always full bodied and have the proper amount of madness.

Deborah May and Marc Singer as the romantic leads, amongst a cast of eccentrics, acquit themselves fairly well in difficult roles.

"You Can't Take It With You", now running in repertory with, "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Hot L Baltimore", is worth seeing.

Belligerents Die In Wrecks Often

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Belligerent, overactive drivers with negative attitudes are more likely to get killed in automobile accidents, two Baltimore researchers say. Dr. Chester W. Schmidt Jr. and Dr. John W. Shaffer presented thwt conclusion yesterday to the American Public Health Association after a study of 50 fatal accidents. (Case histories showed the driver-victims were "significantly more belligerent, verbally expansive, negative and hyperactive" with high ratings on a "social obstreperousness" scale, the paper noted.

Of the accidents, 76 per cent involved a single car.

Most of the driver victims had been speeding and 78 per cent had measurable levels of alcohol in their blood.

SNAKES ARE REALLY GOOD GUYS

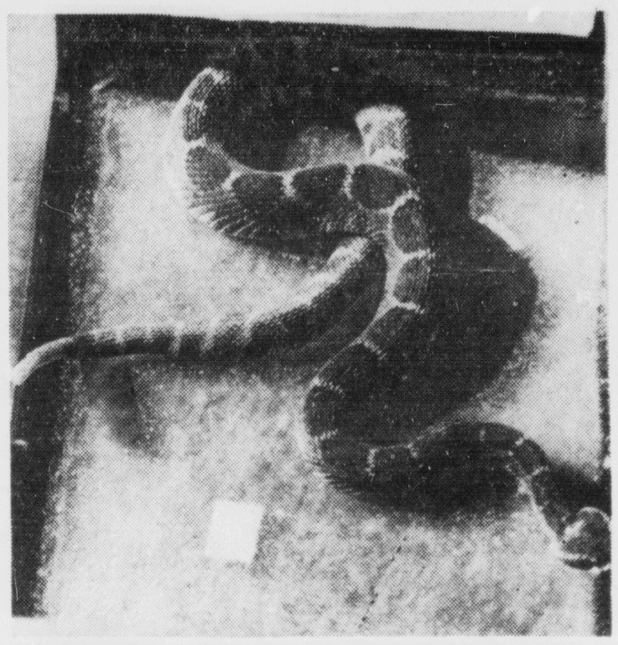

Although snakes are not "furry, soft and cuddily," many, like the small gopher snake, being held up, perform useful functions in Marin's ecological setup, according to naturalists Christine Johnson-Lyons and Connor Oliver. If all the snakes were destroyed, they say, the county might suffer a population explosion of rodents and slugs.

SLITHERY — A tiny ring neck snake curls up a hand, but although such snakes are harmless and actually useful in the balance of nature, they make poor pets, according to naturalists. In captivity the reptiles become prone to disease and usually die.

LARGE — The king snake, one of the largest and most easily spotted of reptiles found in Marin, is also a harmless fellow. Like his fellow snakes, the king does his bit in preying on some other animals and in turn, being the prey of still others.

POISONOUS — Even the rattlesnake, coiling in symetric beauty, is a "very adaptable, placid and unaggressive reptile," although his bite can be fatal. The rattler along with the 14 other species of snakes found in Marin will be described in a lecture at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday at the Boyd Science Museum.

Nelder Only Outsider Elected Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's voters elected four incumbents and a former police chief to the Board of Supervisors and rejected a plan to give employees 40 hours pay for 30 hours work.

Mrs. Dianne Feinstein, 40, led the ticket for the Board of Supervisors with 117,066 votes and thus will be its president. She was followed by John J. Barbagelata, (103,281), former police chief Alfred J. Nelder (102,357), Peter Tamaras (93,157), and Dorothy Gon Beroldingen (89,319).

Proposition L, which would have given the 40 hours pay for 30 hours work was defeated on a vote of 33,437 for as against 144,774 against. It was estimated that the proposal would have increased the cost of local government alone by at least $87.9 million annually although proponents said it would help solve the city's unemployment problem.

The city also passed a measure to have a runoff election for mayor when no candidate gets a majority, but rejected a proposal to create 11 supervisorial districts.

Voters approved a measure to make the city schools earthquake safe within the next few years, but rejected a move to do the same with 14 of the city's child-care centers.

The city also agreed to a proposal to swap pieces of city park land along the beach to the National Park Service to make it part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. In return, federal authorities will operate and improve the land for recreational purposes, freeing park funds for investment in other areas of the city park system.

Nine Found Slain In Rural Lodi

LODI (UPI) — Nine persons were found shot to death today in a rural home in a mass "execution" apparently connected with the burglary of a country store.

The San Joaquin County sheriff's office said the victims included four members of the storekeeper's family, a baby sitter and her boyfriend and parents of the babysitter. Their bodies were bound and gagged and stuffed into a closet.

Two young children of the Walter Parkin family also were found shot to death on a bed in the house by a roomer at the house early today. Authorities found the other seven victims, bound, gagged and shot, in a closet.

Sheriff Michael M. Canlis said the slayings "look like the work of a madman."

"All these people appear to have been executed," the sheriff said.

Parkin, 33, and his father, operated the United Store, a roadside market.

Shortly after the bodies were discovered, officers found that the safe at the United Market, a roadside store in the small community of Victor, had been burglarized. The market was operated by Parkin and his father in the community 70 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Canlis said it appeared that the slayings were connected with the burglary of the store.

The dead were identified as:

Parkin's wife, Joanne, 31.

Lisa Parkin, 11, and Robert, 9, the two children whose bodies were found on a bed in the large master bedroom of the home.

Mark Lang, 20, Lodi, Debbie's boyfriend.

The mass slaying was discovered by Carol Jenkins, 18, who worked in the Parkin store and lived with the family.

The Parkins recently moved into their large, ranch-style house in Victor, two miles east of Lodi, in California's rich vineyard country of the San Joaquin Valley.

Trucker Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen shot a truck driver early today in a Protestant area of Belfast, leaving him slumped over the wheel of his truck, and army troops found a tarred and feathered man tied to a lamppost, authorities said.

Boyd Museum Remodeling Interviews Set

Architects seeking to contract with the City of San Rafael for remodeling the Boyd Museum will be interviewed in open session at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 17, and not in closed session as originally announced, the city administration reported yesterday.

Bielser said the city would comply with the law after learning from the legal staff of the League of California Cities that holding such interviews behind closed doors would violate the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's antisecrecy law.

Architects to be interviewed are Milton W. Chambers, Whisler Patri, and the firm of Phillips-Finisy.

An Airborne Tank Bared By Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union put its military might on display today and unveiled a new airborne tank giving Russia the ability to fly a mobile armored force to trouble spots around the world.

The new tank, along with troops and missiles, paraded through a rain swept Red Square to mark the 56th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Soviet leaders watched the parade from a vantage point atop Lenin's mausoleum and used the occasion to call for a peace settlement in the Middle East.

Western experts said the lightweight tank was the only new weapon in the parade. The sources said it would significantly boost the firepower of Soviet airborne units.

They noted the last time the Soviets showed a key new weapon during the 10-minute rollpast was in 1967.

The sources said the tank carries a 76mm gun and is estimated to weigh about 10 tons, one-quarter of the 40-ton T-62, the Soviet's biggest tank. The giant T-62 played a major role in the Arabs' initial drive across Israeli lines during the first days of the 1973 Middle East war.

The Soviets had been unable to airlift armored vehicles in the past because the tanks were too large for their cargo planes. The sources said the new one can be carried on AN12 and AN22 military transports.

The United States lacks a small, light tank, but some of its heavier models can be carried aboard America's big military cargo planes, such as the C5 transport.

The new Soviet tank has a crew of four with places to carry six additional men on the deck. The sources said a runner-type barrel may also give it the capability of firing anti-tank missiles.

They said there were no new rockets spotted in the practices and the military hardware was generally not as frightening as mustered in previous years.

Some diplomats said the parade appeared to reflect the Soviet foreign policy emphasis on detente rather than military confrontation.

Proposal To Buy PG&E Beaten

Final returns showed the vote was 3,369 against the proposition and 544 in favor of it.

In Pacifica, another San Mateo County city, the vote was 5,826 to 1,010 against floating a $1.85 million bond issue to acquire land for open space use.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Body Fights Disease In Many Ways, Wards Off Infections

The body fights disease in many ways. For example, when the skin and the mucous membranes of the mouth and other body openings are healthy and intact, they offer considerable resistance to invading microbes. Their resistance is lowered when they are injured or burned and, more so, when the area is not kept clean and covered. Signs of infection are redness, swelling, and tenderness.

The body responds by sending polymorphs, a type of white blood cell, to localize the infection. Pus may form which, when drained, allows the purulent material to escape. In addition, phagocytic cells ingest or eat up the bacteria, thus reducing their numbers.

WHEN THE infection spreads in the arm, red streaks may form. The streaks extend into the armpit where the infection is blocked by the glands which become swollen and tender. Blood poisoning is the next step.

Drainage is also imperative when infections develop in the nose, sinuses, bronchi, ears, bladder, and other areas connected to the outside via a passageway. The respiratory tract is particularly vulnerable, and its airways are lined with mucous-secreting cells from which tiny hairs (cilia) protrude. The cilia wave back and forth to propel bacteria, spores, and dust toward the mouth, thus eliminating the foreign material. Phagocytes also are available as scavenger cells in the lungs to surround and remove foreign material.

VIRAL AND bacterial infections, such as those capable of producing colds, typhoid, measles, diphtheria, and other contagious diseases, are counteracted in another way. Antigens in the invading microbes stimulate the body to produce protective antibodies that not only help to bring the original infection under control, but also prevent future infections by the same organisms.

Antibodies are highly specific for the particular strain of organism that has found its way into the body. Antibodies against Asian flue, for example, do not protect against London flu despite the fact that they are very closely related.

Antibodies are carried in the immunoglobulin in blood cells. Immunity processes are more complex than presented here and include rejection of transplants and failure to reject cancerous tumors.

TYPHOID CARRIERS

G. writes: After a person is cured of typhoid fever, can he become a carrier at a later date?

REPLY

Yes, but in the circumstances, this was a questionable cure. Symptoms subsided after treatment but some of the typhoid bacilli escaped and settled in the gallbladder. As carriers, they are indulging in guerrilla warfare.

Nixon's Secretary Called As A Watergate Witness

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary for more than 20 years, will testify in the Watergate tapes hearings, possibly by tomorrow, White House lawyers said today.

Douglas Parker, one of the attorneys for the President assigned to the hearings on the status of the tapes of Nixon's Watergate conversations, said no objection would be made to her testimony, ordered yesterday by Judge John J. Sirica.

Sirica ordered her called after other witnesses revealed she had several of the tapes in her possession.

Until this morning, the White House had not indicated whether Miss Woods would be allowed to testify.

A White House assistant, Stephen Bull, revealed yesterday that Miss Woods has had possession of eight Watergate tapes since late September.

To testify on tapes

On that weekend at Camp David, Md., she was said to have began transcribing conversations on the tapes.

Miss Woods was given six more tapes to transcribe two days ago, Sirica was told.

At the opening of the third day of hearings on the tapes this morning, Sirica reoutlined his three key objectives:

To establish the chain of possession of the tape recordings.

To find out how they were guarded and who had access to them.

To ascertain the reasons that might explain the nonexistence of tapes of two Watergate-related conversations by the President.

Sirica said testimony on reasons for the absence of tapes for the two conversations "may well be the most important and conclusive part of these hearings."

Crossing Guards Approved

A four-year struggle by parents to have school crossing guards stationed at two hazardous intersections near Adeline E. Kent School in Kentfield ended yesterday as county supervisors agreed to underwrite the cost.

The board's unanimous vote to spend about $7,000 for two adults crossing guards brought prolonged applause from a contingent of 40 concerned parents who had come armed with traffic-flow charts, letters and reports.

Judy Allen, a spokesman for the Kent School Parent-Teacher Association, urged the board to pay for the guards, redesigned the intersection of Woodland Road and Magnolia, College and Kent avenues, and change synchronization of the traffic signals at the College Avenue-Sir Francis Drake Boulevard intersection to allow more time for pedestrians to cross.

Public works director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. cautioned against financing the guards, saying other neighborhoods would ask the same. That cost could range from $50,000 to $258,000 per year, depending on the number of crossing guards countywide, he said.

County Administrator John F. Barrows recommended the board support legislation to change state law to allow school districts to fund crossing guards themselves. Now, only cities and counties may do so.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere supported the Kentfield request, but later urged the county follow Barrows's recommendation for changing the state law.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. supported the expenditure, asked that the traffic lights be adjusted for safer pedestrian crossing and suggested the public works department develop criteria for deciding which other intersections in the county also need guards.

The two guards will be stationed at the College Avenue-Sir Francis Drake intersection and the more hazardous intersection at Woodland Road and Magnolia, College and Kent avenues.

Meeting Set On Tiburon Development

Tiburon residents will have their chance tonight to comment on a proposed downtown development plan presented to the city two weeks ago by Sequoia Pacific Realco.

The plan will be discussed at a planning commission meeting which begins at city council chambers at 8 o'clock and then moves to the Reed School auditorium at 9.

Planning department officials said that from 8 until 9 the commission will consider a zoning ordinance amendment and a rezoning request and then will take up the downtown plan.

When the plan was first presented, the commission asked the public to save its comments until tonight.

The proposal covers 36 acres of downtown property owned by Souhern Pacific Railroad, a general partner with Sequoia Pacific.

It calls for extensive retail development along the waterfront, an inn-conference center, a parking garage topped with tennis courts, several office buildings and residential developments. Several areas would be left open to serve as parks.

Supervisors Make Agriculture Push

Marin County Supervisors authorized their agricultural advisory committee yesterday to proceed with studies of how to keep agriculture a viable industry in Marin. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

The board's action came as committee member Robert E. Parks, a Tomales sheep rancher, reported on his committee's review of a consultant's report on the future of agriculture.

Parks said the committee agrees with the consultant's main conclusion, that ranching will continue to be given certain conditions (such as preventing urban development in rural areas), but finds the body of the report often misleading and inaccurate.

The committee's analysis of the report was supported by the Marin Property Owners Association.

It was prepared by economic consultant Angus McDonald and his firm at a cost to the county of about $10,000.

Left unanswered in the report, Parks said, are questions of where and under what circumstances is agriculture viable in Marin and what should happen to rural lands no longer capable of agricultural production.

He also said the report fails to deal adequately with the relationship between public desires for rural open space and landowner desires for a return on their investment.

At his suggestion, the board agreed the committee should pick up where the consultant left off and study what actions the county should take to help preserve agriculture.

Parks said the committee will use the resources of the University of California, the Giannini Foundation, California Farm Bureau and private farm management firms to come up with the answers. He predicted little cost.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Dixie Conway and Norman Dean of Novato to the county aviation land use commission which will study future land uses around Gnoss Field. The new commissioners were nominated by the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

HOURS — Endorsed a proposal from the county transit district staff that county employees who use transit buses to and from work be given more flexible working hours to meet bus schedules.

MEALS — Allocated $3,500 to the Marin Senior Coordinating Council to help offset cost of providing hot meals to senior citizens at the Whistlestop in San Rafael. The money will be used to pay kitchen help and provide home delivery to some senior citizens who cannot leave their homes.

SAFETY — Received a progress report from personnel director Maren F. Rinne on a new safety training program being planned for county employees.

JOINT POWERS — Approved a joint powers agreement with two other Bay Area counties and several cities involved in the Bay Delta Resources Recovery Demonstration Project. The project is studying ways of recycling garbage and plans a demonstration project in Berkeley if state and federal funds can be found.

HOUSING AUTHORITY — Received a report from the county housing authority on actions taken to comply with a federal management audit of the authority's administrative operation. The audit is about a year old and was not received until September.

ABATEMENT — Gave Dominic Facchetti of 7100 Lucas Valley Road, Nicasio, 21 days to install a well on his property or vacate his home. He has been using water from an open creek which the health department found to be unacceptable for domestic use.

RENAISSANCE FAIRE — Postponed to Nov. 20 a hearing on Sonoma County's appeal of a use permit allowing the Renaissance Pleasure Faire to use the Veronda Ranch north of Novato as a permanent fair location. The delay was granted after supervisors were told attorneys for the two counties are working on a settlement.

APPEAL — Upheld a planning commission decision to not allow a free-standing illuminated sign at the Ali-Baba restaurant in Tamalpais Valley.

LAND DIVISION — Upheld a planning commission decision that a four-lot land division of the Luisa Saenger property at the intersection of Poplar Drive and Wolfe Grade in Kentfield will require paving of a portion of Canyon Road to provide access to one lot.

Owners Of Autos Pay In Germany

BONN (UPI) — The privilege of driving a car in Germany is a case of hard labor.

To pay government taxes on his car, including gas taxes, the German car owner works 114 hours, up from 104 in 1972, according to the Federal Office of Statistics.

Owner Of Barge Gets Ultimatum

Marin County supervisors yesterday gave the owner of a 350-ton barge beached off Strawberry Point until Dec. 10 to move it or face its destruction by the county destroying it.

The nusiance abatement action came after Scott Diamond, owner of the barge Golden Gate, told supervisors the first high tide that would enable the barge to be moved would occur Dec. 10.

Supervisors agreed to delay any abatement action until Dec. 11 at which time, if the barge hasn't been moved, the county will contract to have it destroyed.

Diamond was cited last month by marina inspector Richard L. Larson for inadquate sewage, garbage and water systems, occupying the barge without a permit and illegally mooring on private property.

Diamond is currently in Marin Municipal Court on criminal complaints filed by the county for violating the county floating home code. He has pleaded innocent and was to appear today for a pretrail conference.

Larson said it could cost the county up to $11,500 to demolish the vintage barge. Supervisor Michael Wornum suggested it might be cheaper to tow it to the Army Corps of Engineers' wrecking yard.

San Rafael attorney Stephen H. Kaufmann, representing the Strawberry Recreation District, won assurances from the board the district would not be charged for the abatement as earlier threatened.

OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT

Iraqi Immigrant To Be Honored

By KAREN PETERSON

Baba Shabbas, coordinator and supervisor of the day treatment program at the Sunny Hills home in San Anselmo, will be honored Saturday as the outstanding East Bay immigrant from Iraq by the International Institute of the East Bay.

But Shabbas, who has spent nine years helping Marin youngsters come to grips with their problems, now hopes to return to his homeland to share with the people the skills he has learned during his 14 years in the United States.

His plan for returning to Iraq after completing his master's degree at California State University at Hayward will include setting up government-sponsored special programs for physically handicapped and retarded children and adults. If these programs succeed, he said, they will be used in other Mideast countries.

Shabbas, a Berkeley resident who is also involved with preserving Arab culture in the 20,000-member colony in the Bay Area, admitted that he will have to modify what he has learned here, in "terms of the value system," to fit the Iraqis' needs.

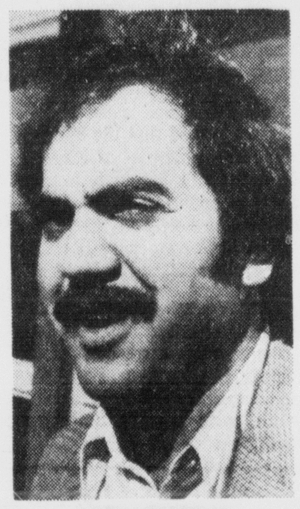

His dealings, he said, will have to reflect those of a culture that is still more concerned with gathering the necessities of life than seeing a social worker or psychiatrist.

A native of Baghdad, the 32-year-old Shabbas came to the United States in 1959 after graduation from Baghdad College, the equivalent of an American high school.

For two years he lived in Minnesota with his sister-in-law's family and attended St. Olaf's College. Following in his brother's footsteps, who had also studied in the United States, Shabbas started out as a chemistry major.

"I spent so much time in the laboratory," he said, "that I got tired of test tubes. I felt I could spend my time more effectively by working with people. especially teen-agers." One of six children, Shabbas remembers dealing with some of the problems of his many nieces and nephews, and decided to "do something in that field."

Coming from the warm desert of Iraq to the snows of Minnesota was like "a nightmare" to Shabbas, so he moved to California. Working his way through college as a waiter, Shabbas was graduated from San Francisco State University with a degree in sociology and started working at Sunny Hills.

BABA SHABBAS
Outstanding Iraqi

In 1970, after working as a counselor and director of recreational therapy at the Sunny Hills home for emotionally distrubed teen-agers, Shabbas was asked to establish a day treatment program for nonresidents.

The program involving group therapy and family workshops seeks to prevent juvenile delinquency. The youngsters are returned to public school, from which they have often been expelled, as soon as Shabbas and the youngsters themselves feel they are ready to meet the problems head-on and survive, he said.

"We provide students with the tools so that they can go back into the same pressures of the real world and make it. We're not trying to change the environment," he said, "The changes have to come within the kid."

The problems of children, said Shabbas, are reflections of the community. "The pressures in the United States are greater and I can vouch for that. This culture is a cycle of competition. You go 200 miles an hour mentally and physically."

As a member of the new Arab Cultural Center in San Francisco, Shabbas is working to revive the Arab culture among second-generation Arabs who may have lost touch with their heritage. The center, he added, also gives a hand to newly arrived Arabs, gradually teaching them how to adapt to the American way of life.

He is also involved with the Arabic Radio Program on KQED that emphasizes educating the American public about the Arab culture and politics, he said.

"There are a lot of misconceptions about the Arabs," he said, "We are trying to break down the medieval concepts . . . that the people still ride camels and go barefoot."

"The media has been dominated by the Zionist movement," said Shabbas, "The object (of the program) is to provide an even-handed approach so that Americans can hear the other side in terms of what is really happening in the Arab world."

After his work in Iraq is completed, Shabbas plans to return to the United States with his wife and two children, especially so his children can be educated in this country.

The education system in the United States is a "beautiful, open system," said Shabbas, where students are allowed to ask questions.

Bus Passenger's Effort To Grab Wheel Failed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A survivor of a weekend bus crash says a passenger made an unsuccessful scramble for the steering wheel when the driver showed signs of suffering from chest pains.

The driver and 12 passengers were killed when the double-deck Greyhound hurled into a freeway pillar Saturday night. The other 31 riders all were injured, some seriously.

Arthur Davis, 45, apparently the only survivor to see the actions of the driver, said yesterday the man looked as though "he had some kind of chest pain. He didn't scream. He just made a sound like 'uuh, uuh' and slumped toward the window."

"He stood up to try to right the wheel but he never got a chance to get it," said Davis, who suffered broken legs and other injuries.

Authorities said Glover was killed in the crash.

The coroner's office said the driver. Douglas Moore, 26, of Hayward, did not suffer a heart attack and was not intoxicated. Further tests were planned.

Investigators said they could find no mechanical reason for the collision and estimated it would be several months before a final report can be issued.

Controversy continued over the speed of the bus with drivers of nearby cars giving authorities conflicting statements on whether they thought the bus was going faster than the 70 mile-an-hour speed limit.

The California Highway Patrol tentatively blamed the crash on "excessive speed," but federal investigators said the bus was equipped with a governor to limit its speed to 67 miles an hour. They said the device was found intact.

Valuable Indian Blankets Stolen

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The Los Angeles County Museum conducted an inventory recently and discovered that 76 rare Navajo blankets valued at $174,000 are missing, authorities disclosed Monday.

Sixteen of the blankets, some of them woven more than 100 years ago, have been recovered in San Francisco and Boulder, Colo. They were valued at $46,000.

Survey Shows Canadians Are Overweight

OTTAWA (UPI) —More than half the Canadian population is overweight, according to a comprehensive national nutrition study released yesterday.

The nutrition survey, described by officials as the most complete national study conducted by any country, also reported that income is not a major factor in nutrition nor is overeating the clearcut cause of overweight.

The survey found that more than one-half of Canadians were overweight, but that those who are overweight generally eat no more than those who are not, leading the survey to conclude that a "sedentary life style" was probably the main cause of obesity.

Detroit To Dim Holiday Lights

DETROIT (UPI) —The Central Business District Association yesterday said the year's "Detroit Aglow" Christmas show will be dimmer than usual.

Because of the energy shortage, a spokesman said, lights in downtown office buildings will not be left on after working hours.

The number of Christmas lights on the outsides of buildings will not be cut back, however, he said, because their wattage "is so miniscule that the advantages of lighting up our city in terms of the comfort and enjoyment people will feel walking along the streets downtown far outweighs any negative aspects."

Hamilton Report Due To Committee

A report from its task force advisory committee will be reviewed by the Hamilton Air Force Base Land Use Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato branch of the Bank of Marin, 1400 Grant Avenue.

The committee also is to receive a list of consultants interested in making a land use study of the 477 acres which the Air Force has declared surplus at the base, chairman Joseph A. Forest reported.

House Overrides Nixon's Veto Of Bill Limiting War Powers

WASHINGTO (UPI) —The House today overrode President Nixon's veto of a bill to restrict presidential war powers and the Senate was said to be prepared to follow suit.

The House voted to override the veto despite an impassioned plea by Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., vice president-designate, to avoid the "potential of disaster" he said it represented during the Mideast crisis.

The House vote of 284 to 135 to override marked the first time in seven tries this year it had been able to muster the two-thirds majority needed to overturn a veto.

When the vote —four more than the necessary two-thirds majority —was announced at 1:44 p.m. EST, there was applause and cheering from House members.

The House vote to override was made possible by substantial defections among Republican members who had sustained previous vetos.

The Senate approved the bill originally 75 to 20, and its leaders were so certain of an overriding the veto that they scheduled a vote for later today after the House action.

The bill would limit a President's war making powers to 90 days without congressional assent.

Ford argued that the bill carried "the potential of disaster for us at this juncture, to take away support from the President as he works day and night with the Secretary of State to achieve peace" in the Mideast.

"We are not out of the woods yet," Ford said. "We may be a long way from being out of the woods. I'm very concerned that to override this veto at this time could ... ruin the President's position."

Man Admits To Bad Check Buys

Jack William MacDonald, 26, pleaded guilty to three counts of writing bad checks and will be sentenced Dec. 10 in Marin Superior Court.

He is accused of buying three color TVs for $1,175 at three San Rafael appliance stores, each time paying with checks drawn on a closed account.

Dutch Wages

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The hourly wage index of the Dutch worker rose from 100 in 1954 to 486 in the first half of 1973, according to the Central Statistics Bureau.

Humphrey Calls For Reform Of National Forest Management

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., called today for reform of national forest management policies that he said failed to meet the nation's needs for timber and other resources.

The Minnesota Democrat said he would introduce a bill to establish programs that would allow timber demands to be met in the year 2000 without depleting renewable resources.

"The executive branch has totally failed to organize or plan for the protection of our forest resources and for meeting our forest products and service needs," Humphrey said in an advance statement.

The problem, Humphrey said, has been that government agencies have tended to focus on individual problems such as logging, grazing, watersheds and fishing and wildlife resources.

His bill, Humphrey said, would call for greater coordination of such activities in government lands. It also would prohibit the president from impounding funds for such activities.

The bill to be entitled the Forest and Rangeland Environmental Management Act, would require the forest service to make an inventory of trees, plants, fish, soil and water by 1975 and periodic reviews thereafter.

"This assessment would pull together in one place, for the first time in our history, all of the facts needed to determine the condition of our nation's forest lands," he said.

Based on that inventory, Humphrey said, the Forest Service would draw up a total program for presentation to Congress in 1975 for the next five years and for every 10 years thereafter.

He said the year 2000 was the "target date" for resources to be managed on a self-renewing basis.

Australian Visit Set By Reagans

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —California Gov. Ronald Reagan and his wife will arrive in Australia Nov. 28, according to an Australian Red Cross official.

The chairman of the Victorian Red Cross, Len Evans, said yesterday that Reagan had been invited by the Victorian state government and the Red Cross.

Evans said that Reagan would spend six days in Victoria. He said Reagan's visit is in support of this year's Victorian Red Cross appeal. He noted that Reagan is associated with the American Red Cross Society.

Tennis Challenge In Sleepy Hollow

Notes from the grab bag of sports:

ALL THOSE SIGNS in the Sleepy Hollow area are there to promote what the local inhabitants are proclaiming as the "Battle of the Sexes." Stealing a page from one of the best hustlers around, it will be a tennis match between Robert (Bobby) C. Scheidemann (who, I'm told, walks just like the "other" Bobby) and Medora-Vaux Toneff, wife of former 49er lineman Bob Toneff.

The match, Sunday at 1 p.m. at Hidden Valley School courts is a fund raiser for the outdoor education classes of Hidden Valley School, tickets going at $1 a pop. The school's Parent Club is putting on the show.

YES, THAT GOOD LOOKING gentleman who walked into Greenbrae Pharmacy the other day WAS Joe DiMaggio. The dapper DiMag was inviting Henry Brocco, owner of the pharmacy, to be his guest at the pro-am part of the World Open Golf Championship at Pinehurst, N.C. Brocco, along with Joe Ingrassia of San Anselmo, left Monday for the tournament. After today's pro-am, the tour golfers will start playing for part of the $500,000 pot.

FORTY-NINER NUGGETS Jo McManus and Diane Tucker, both of San Rafael, will be among the four Nuggets and four Ramettes on board the Pacific and Orient's luxury ship, Spirit of London, when football goes to sea in a 10-day Mexico cruise starting today.

The "Super Ship Bowl" (that's what the P&O people are calling it) will include a pep rally, musical entertainment and songs led by the Nuggets and Ramettes, highlight films, radio broadcasts of the 49er-Washington and Ram-New Orleans games Sunday and a punt, pass and kick contest on board for the passengers. The ship will return to L.A. the day before the 49er-Ram game, just in time for the passengers to hot foot it to the Coliseum.

Hugh McElhenny of 49er fame and Glenn Davis, West Point and Rams star, will host the cruise. It sounds like it should satisfy the appetite of the most football starved fan around.

MARIN COUNTIANS Ted Wellman and Sue Beatty will be among tennis players considered for awards at the Northern California Tennis Association annual awards banquet Saturday night at Castlewood Country Club in Pleasanton. Wellman, of Kentfield, is a nominee for the adult sportsmanship award, and Sue is a nominee for the most improved junior player.

DAVE GASSER, San Rafael policeman who retired as an Edmonton Eskimos' linebacker at the end of last season, may have quit one year too soon. Edmonton Sunday clinched its first division title in 16 years, finishing first in the Western Conference of the Canadian Football League. The Eskimos are often in the post-season CFL playoffs, but this will be the first time since 1957 it will be doing so as a divisional winner.

ROSS PERRY, running back for Drake High School, gets his football advice from a good source when he listens to his grandfather, Donald C. Perry. Now 72 and going strong, the elder Perry was a guard on the University of California "wonder teams" of 1921-22-23 and never played in a losing game at Cal. During that three-year span Cal won 27 games and tied two. (Coach Andy Smith's teams ran up a record of 44 wins, zero losses and four ties from 1920 through 1924.) Ross's father, Warren, played his college football at Occidental. Both Donald and Warren played their prep ball at Tamalpais.

Pats Trade Jackson To Giants

The football has taken another strange bounce for Honor Jackson.

The former Tamalpais High School and College of Marin star was to report today to the New York Giants of the National Football League after being acquired from the New England Patriots, his father said this morning.

"He called us last night," said Honor Jackson Sr. of Santa Venetia, "and said he had been traded to the Giants and was going to report this morning. I'm sorry, I don't have any other information."

WAIVERS

Names of players involved and other details of the transaction were unavailable late this morning. Jackson had been placed on waivers yesterday by the Patriots.

A wide receiver in high school and college, Jackson was converted to defensive back by New England. He was voted the most improved player on the team last season, but Patriot coach Chuck Fairbanks sang a different tune yesterday, saying Jackson "has been a disappointment. He has the ability to play pro football but he just was not doing the job for us."

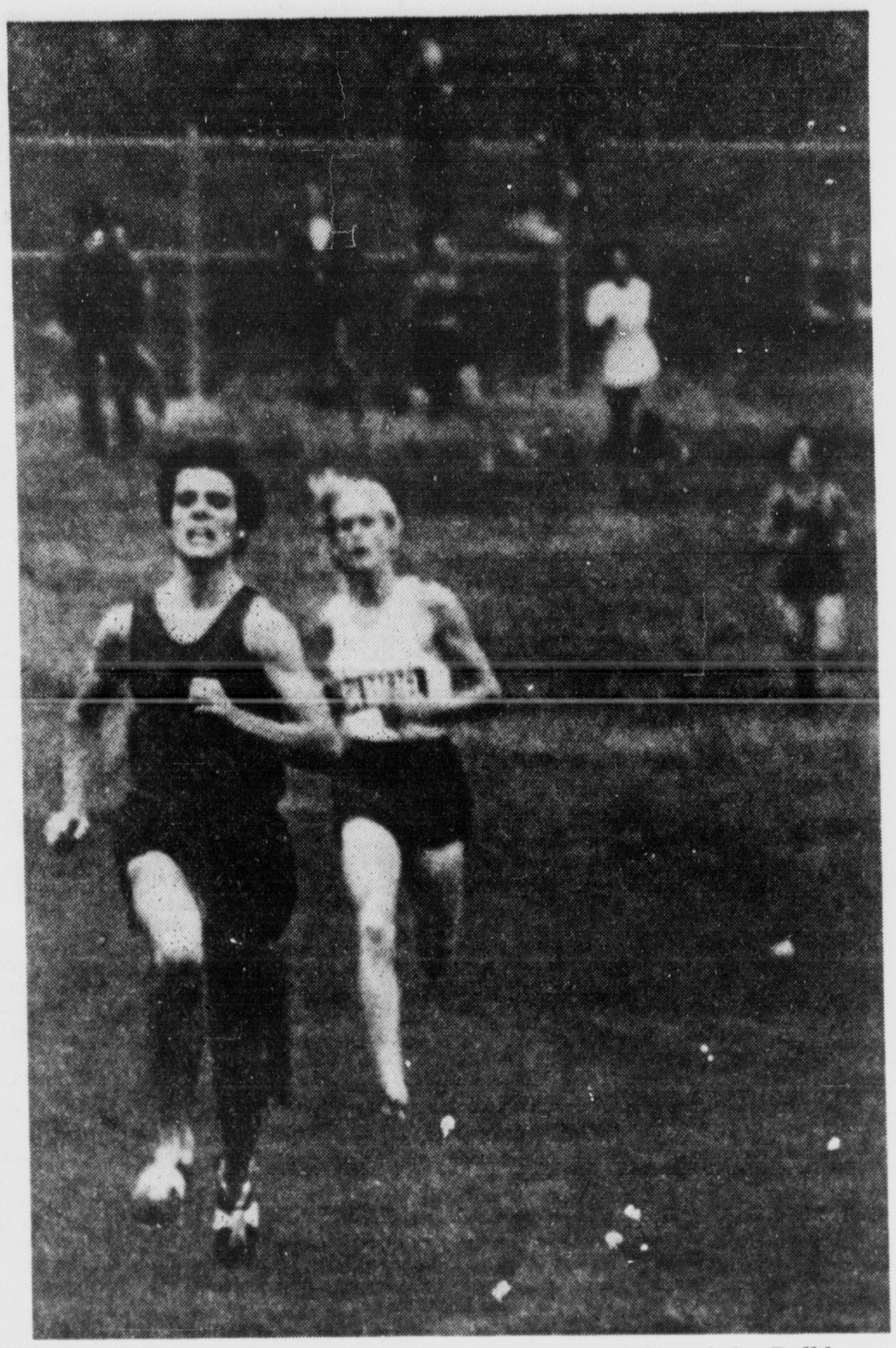

Jackson, 24, a San Rafael resident, started the last seven games last season, but lost his job this year to Ralph Anderson.

The 6-foot-2, 190-pounder was graduated from Tamalpais High in Mill Valley in 1966, after making all-Marin County Athletic League as a receiver, starting on the varsity basketball team, and setting the league long-jump record.

RECORDS

He was all-conference twice for College of Marin, also as a receiver, and played on the 1967 Golden Valley Conference champions. He also set Tar track records in the 100-yard dash (9.8 seconds) and the 330 low hurdles (39.8).

He went on to the University of the Pacific in Stockton, and was a ninth-round pick of the Dallas Cowboys after the 1970 season. He was traded on Aug. 1, 1971, to New England in the celebrated Duane Thomas deal, in which he, Thomas and guard Halvor Hagen went to the Patriots for running back Carl Garrett. The deal was later nullified, but Jackson was given a choice and decided to remain in New England.

THE END — Redwood High School senior Ed Phelps won his first varsity cross-country race at the time it was most needed yesterday, leading San Rafael's Ray Green to the finish line as the Giants defeated the Bulldogs, 26-29, to tie them for the Marin County Athletic League championship. Redwood Distance Runners Tie San Rafael For Crown

In one extremely productive afternoon, Redwood High School yesterday won varsity, girls and freshman-sophomore cross country races to tie for the Marin County Athletic League championship in all three categories.

The Giant varsity avenged an earlier loss to undefeated San Rafael by defeating the Bulldogs, 26-29, and the frosh-soph team did the same, 23-34. The once-beaten girls team defeated San Rafael by forfeit to assure itself a title tie.

The meets were held yesterday at San Marin High. San Marin did not field full teams in any of the three races.

The other scheduled meet, Drake and Tamalpais at Novato, was called off due to rain and wet grounds. It has not been rescheduled, but its score will be derived from the runners' finishes Saturday in the league meet, which begins at 9 a.m. at Lake Lagunitas.

Tam's once-beaten girls team will tie Redwood for the dual-meet title with a victory Saturday.

Redwood senior Ed Phelps picked the perfect moment to win the first race of his varsity career, running the two-plus miles in 11:24. Redwood placed Pete Demarais third, Dave Brainerd fifth, Tim Killeen seventh and Scott Hickman 10th for the narrow victory.

Redwood won the two previous MCAL titles outright, but lost an early-season meet to San Rafael this year, 25-30, as the young Bulldogs surged into contention.

San Rafael frosh-soph runner Stu Roberts won that race in 9:36, but Redwood bunched Hal Schulz second, Dave Mihailoff third, Pete Lehman fourth and Bruce Linscott sixth to achieve the team victory.

UCLA Back Dominates Statistics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Despite the five-touchdown splurge of USC tailback Anthony Davis last Saturday, it is UCLA's Kermit Johnson who dominates latest Pacific Eight statistics.

The smooth-as-silk Bruin halfback went for 114 yards in a 62- 13 win over Washington to overhaul season-long rushing leader Don Reynolds of Oregon.

Johnson has romped for an average of 103.4 yards per game at a remarkable 8.2 yards per carry. His career totals now show him ninth in all-time league figures with 2,193 yards gained and his 6.8 yards per carry mark during his career is far and away the best in conference history. John Olszewski of California was the previous leader with a 6.0 average.

Reynolds is averaging 100.3 yards per game and 4.6 per carry and UCLA's injured Jim McAlister is third at 95.6 and 5.9 with Davis fourth at 84.8 and 3.7.

Johnson also leads the scoring department with 72 points while Bruin kicker Efren Herrera has 66. Davis has vaulted into third with 60.

Another new leader is John Nanoski of UCLA, who has six interceptions along with Dennis Downey of Oregon State and Danny Reece of USC. But Nanoski has brought his thefts back 106 yards to earn the lead.

Otherwise, Pat Haden of USC still tops the total offense department with 161.0 per game in a hectic battle with Alvin White of Oregon State, Herb Singleton of Oregon, and Mike Boryla of Stanford. A hot day by any of the four could shuffle the standings around.

The same four signal-callers are fighting for passing honors but it is White who is the leader with a 159.6 average on 113 completions.

Raiders Get Chance At Revenge

OAKLAND (UPI) —"Everybody has their own version. I still think it was a bad call," says Oakland Raider safety Jack Tatum as he views his team's rematch with Pittsburgh.

The call allowed a touchdown in the last five seconds of the first American Football playoff game which gave the Steelers a 13-7 victory last December.

Tatum either did or didn't deflect a Terry Bradshaw pass intended for Frenchy Fuqua. The ball bounded into the hands of Franco Harris, who sprinted 60 yards for the score that knocked Oakland out of the playoffs.

Offensive tackle Bob Brown, who will return to the lineup Sunday at the Coliseum, says "they kicked us in the teeth and took our money. That's been in the back of all our minds."

Coach John Madden was asked if the Steelers would be at a disadvantage having to play on a Sunday following a Monday night game.

"We've played five times on Monday night and won the following Sunday every time," he said.

Sharon Walsh Wins

BILLINGHAM, England (UPI) — Sharon Walsh of San Rafael yesterday defeated P. Peisachov of Israel, 6-2, 6-3, in the first round of the women's singles of the third leg Dewar Cup Indoor Tennis Tournament.

Wilt Might End Up With Globetrotters

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain may be headed back to the Harlem Globetrotters, a former teammate says.

Tex Harrison, a Globetrotter for 20 years before hanging up his shoes last season to become an advance publicity man for the famed court jesters, thinks the 7-foot Chamberlain will return to the Globetrotters in two or three seasons.

The Lakers, however, have gone into court to prevent their superstar from playing for the American Basketball Association team until his NBA contract expires.

"If he gets to play he'll probably stick with it for a couple or three more years," Harrison said. "But if the courts won't let him play, he'll get out quick.

"Wilt has the potential to be a great coach but the interest just isn't there. You can buy a lot of interest for $800,000 a year but Wilt loves playing the game too much and he misses the trips around the world."

Chamberlain dropped out of the University of Kansas to play for the Globetrotters before joining the NBA.

Marin Academy Wins Soccer Game, 7-1

Marin Academy's soccer team drubbed visiting Lick-Wilmerding of San Francisco yesterday in a Bay Counties League soccer game, 7-1, as Kit Schweitzer and Hunt Conrad scored twice each and Charles Kingsburg, Terry Finley and Bill Spencer added single tallies.

The victory gave Marin Academy a 5-2 league record and set up a title showdown Friday with Mt. Tamalpais School (currently 4-1-1) at Marin Academy.

Seals Hoping To Stop Skid

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals try to break a six-game losing string tonight at 8 o'clock when they open a four-game homestand against the Chicago Black Hawks.

One of the Seals three victories of the season was against Chicago, 3-2, in the second game of the season. In that contest, the Seals unloaded 33 shots on Black Hawk goalie Tony Esposito.

Since that shaky game against the Seals, Esposito has lowered his goals-against average to 2.00.

CY YOUNG

Palmer Wins A. L. Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Palmer, whose 10 straight wins from July 6 to Aug. 26 and 22 victories during the season prevented the Baltimore Orioles' pitching staff from collapsing, was named the American League's Cy Young award winner today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Palmer, who has compiled a 99-42 five-season record since his career was threatened by a sore arm in 1968, won the award by a 26-point margin over Nolan Ryan of the California Angels. Jim Hunter of the world champion Oakland A's was another 10 points behind in third place.

HILLER

The top three were followed in order by John Hiller of the Detroit Tigers with six points, Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox with three, Jim Colborn of the Milwaukee Brewers with two and Vida Blue of the A's, Bert Blyleven of the Minnesota Twins and Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians with one each. Perry was the AL's pitcher of the year in 1972 when he had a 24-16 record.

Palmer, who said during the World Series that he thought he deserved the award, had a 22-9 record and led the league with a 2.40 earned run average. He was the only Oriole starting pitcher who pitched consistently throughout the season and his 10 straight victories from July 6 to Aug. 26 kept his team in contention in the AL's Eastern Division race.

PRAISE

"He was the one who did it all season," said Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles. "The other starters all had arm ailments or other troubles at some points of the season. Palmer was the No. 1 reason that we won the division championship."

Palmer is the first Baltimore pitcher to win the award outright although Mike Cuellar shared it with Denny McLain in 1969 when both won 24 games.

SORE ARM

A World Series hero at the age of 20 when he beat the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax in the second game of the 1966 series, 6-0, Palmer developed a sore arm in 1967. He pitched in the International League and Florida State League in 1967 and 1969 before returning to the Orioles in 1969. Since then his successive won-lost records have been 16-4, 20-10, 20-9, 21-10, and 22-9.

Palmer received 14 first-place votes and six second-place votes from the committee of 24 writers. Ryan, who had a 21-16 record, pitched two no-hitters and struck out a record 383 batters, had nine first-place votes, three for second and eight for third. Hunter, 21-5, for the season, had the other first-place vote, 13 seconds and eight thirds.

Gossett Seeking No. 200

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's Bruce Gossett would like to become the fifth man in National Football League history to hit 200 field goals Sunday against the Washington Redskins.

Then he'd like to tack on a few more field goals and a lot of conversions, besides.

Gossett admits he has never forgotten remarks allegedly made by Redskins coach George Allen when he was the Los Angeles Rams' mentor that Gossett was not an athlete and thus would be handicapped in competitive situations.

Gossett blasted Allen's personality, loyalty and various other traits before the 1971 49ers-Redskins playoff battle although Allen pointed out later he picked Gossett twice as kicker on his Pro Bowl team.

In a year of 49er flops, Gossett has been a bright spot. He has hit 17 of 22 and his 5- for-5 performance at Denver singlehandedly gave the Prospectors one of only three wins this season.

Allen submitted to a telephone interview with Bay Area scribes yesterday and said that the Redskins' two straight losses have come because "both our quarterbacks have been hurt and halfback Larry Brown got a late start (after a long holdout) and then he injured his neck.

Allen said that injuries have forced him to juggle his lineup and "that's not the way to be consistent." He said that Bill Kilmer is most likely to open at quarterback against his old 49er teammates Sunday because Sonny Jurgensen is still bothered by a knee injury.

NORCAL FOOTBALL

Players Remember McKay Comments

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI) —Stanford coach Jack Christiansen is relying more on memories than posters to hype up his Cardinal football team for this weekend's meeting with Southern Cal.

He told Northern California football writers at a luncheon yesterday he never put up any comments of USC coach John McKay "because our locker room isn't that big."

Christiansen was asked whether he reminded his team of McKay's comment after USC beat Stanford 30-21 last season. "I wish we'd beaten them by 2,000 points," McKay said at the time.

"I don't have any posters up in our locker room this week," said Christiansen. "I think our players will be emotionally ready for USC."

California coach Mike White remained optimistic despite a 50-14 loss to USC last week.

"I saw some positive things," said White. "There was a time in the game when our players thought they could win. It seems that we're a team that plays well for a while."

Looking ahead to Saturday's game with San Jose State, White said the Spartans "are the finest San Jose team I have ever seen." The Spartans beat Stanford in 1971 and California last season.

San Jose State coach Darryl Rogers said he was a bit disappointed that his Spartans gained only a 27-27 tie with San Diego State after leading 27-10 with 8:47 remaining. Aztec quarterback Jess Freitas threw for 427 yards against the Spartans.

University of Pacific coach Chester Caddas said he feels his Tigers are ready for Fresno State this week after battering Los Angeles State 54-2.

"We haven't had many opportunities to have a nice, easy game where everybody played and had a lot of fun," said Caddes of the romp. "I think it's the first time in my six years here that there hasn't been some doubt sometime during the game."

Pacific tailback Willard Harrell was named university player of the week for scoring two touchdowns and picking up 240 yards in 17 tries. Frequently-honored End Pat Donovan of Stanford reaped defensive honors for making 10 tackles while playing with an injured ankle in the Cardinals 24-23 win over Oregon State.

In the college division, St. Mary's halfback Jim Datrice notched offensive honors for his five touchdowns and 206 yards against Loyola-Marymount. Defensive laurels went to defensive end Alex Vasquez of San Franciisco State who helped shut off the Sacramento State offense in a 28-23 Gator win.

Par Golf And A Military Life

By RON LENT

Parleying a golf avocation and a military vocation has enabled a 56-year-old Novato man to enjoy two intriguing lifestyles.

Retired Air Force Col. Richard J. White served some 33 years holding many responsible command and staff positions while playing scratch golf. On the fairways, the 5-foot-9, 185 pounder notched two Asian course records, a pair of holes-in-one and a like number of double eagles. Much of his golf glory was achieved while serving as the defense military attache with the State Department in Hong Kong in 1964-67 and in Taiwan 1970-72.

His aces were recorded in Japan in 1949 and in Taiwan in 1971. The stocky, graying Novatan established the course record in 1970 at Ti Tou Kuo Hua Golf and Country Club at Taiwan with a 67, which stood for a year, and he set another at a Philippine Islands course with a 65 in 1965.

But his crowning links achievement was winning the 1971 U.S. military golf tournament sponsored by Formosa leader Gen. Chiang Kai Shek. He was runnerup the following year. "Winning that tournament was a great thrill, because it's sponsored by the government."

White has also seen the how the other half lives in golf: he caddied as a youth. When growing up around Kansas City, Mo., he carried golf bags for pro tour star Jug McSpadden and the colorful Titanic Thompson, a golfer with a strong penchant for gambling.

Although his family was not financially pressed during the 1930's depression, White caddied for his spending money at Meadow Lake Golf Course in Kansas City, Kan. "for a few years . . . at least until I was 14," White recalled.

"I saw him (Thompson) wager a mobster that he could throw a watermelon over the clubhouse. No rules were set, so he got hold of a watermelon the size of a baseball and threw it over the roof. He collected. The man would be on anything. He was a right-handed golfer, but Titanic would bet you he could beat you left-handed."

Regarding McSpadden, who along with Byron Nelson was deemed one of the "Goldust Twins" as they dominated pro tourney play in the 1940s, White said: "He gave me my first club — a five iron. That was back in '28 or '29.

He gave me golf tips, but in those days, you'd get 75 cents a round and, if you were lucky, you'd get a 10-cent tip."

Undaunted by the apparent lack of worthwhile financial renumerations, White proceeded to become a "scratch golfer by the time I was 16." Alas, he never considered turning pro, because he wanted to enter the banking business.

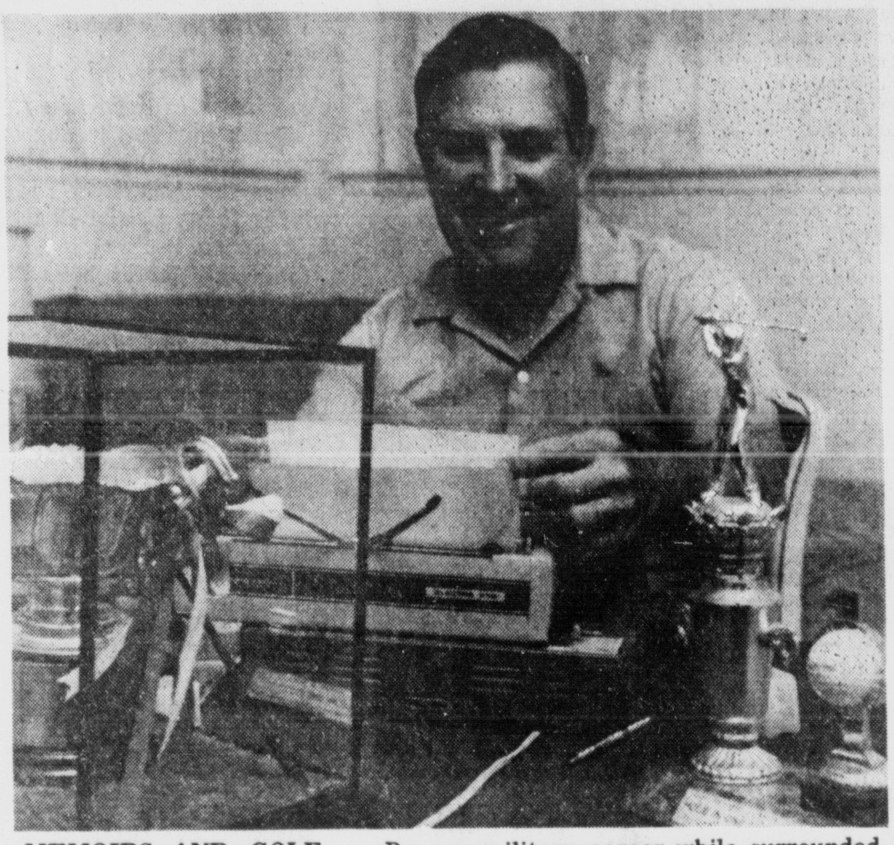

White never fulfilled this ambition. He was graduated from Kemper Military School near St. Louis in 1938 and attended the University of Missouri prior to enlisting in the Air Corps. Before entering the service, White was among the top five players on the teams at Kemper and Missouri.

The affable White temporarily gave up golf during World War II and didn't play again until he was stationed in Japan in 1948 where he regained his scratch status.

However, disaster befell his game in 1951 when he jumped from the rear of his flaming B-29 while it was still on the ground. The 14-foot drop shattered his right knee and tore cartilage in his left. He has had four operations since and suffered acute deterioration of his golf.

After retiring from the service in May, 1972, White concentrated on his family, golf and writing. He often plays golf at Marin Country Club in Novato with his wife Natalie, a 14 handicapper. White introduced his spouse and sons Bill, 32, and Richard, 31, to golf while stationed in Japan.

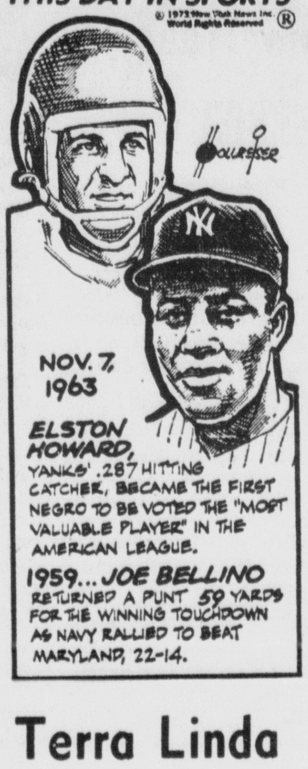

His experiences in Hong Kong and Taiwan as a squadron commander and later as a defense military attache prompted him to write a novel. In 1965, he briefed one Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger in 1966. With such important military and diplomatic activities, it is not surprising that he is "writing a book on my anecdotes as a military attache."

Terra Linda Water Polo Team Wins

Terra Linda High School, still hoping to hang a water polo pennant on its wall this year, took a step in that direction yesterday by turning back San Rafael's strong bid for an upset, 6-5.

The victory gave the Trojans a 10-1 Marin County Athletic League record with a season-ending showdown coming up Friday at Terra Linda against undefeated Redwood (11-0). The Giants won the previous clash, 9-7, on Oct. 16.

Terra Linda will be bidding for its fifth consecutive pennant. The Trojans won the title outright the previous four years, rather than five, as erroneously reported earlier this week. Redwood won in the inaugural year, 1968-69.

Ed Martinez scored four goals for Terra Linda, including the one which tied the game earlier in the fourth quarter. Sig Baerthel and Jeff Kamler scored two each for San Rafael.

In yesterday's other games, Tamalpais defeated Novato, 4-2, and San Marin beat Drake, 7-4. Tam's victory moved the Indians into a third-place tie at 6-5 with San Rafael, whom they play Friday. Dick Atwood scored twice and Pat Norton and Ron Wellman once each for Tam.

STANDINGS

Redwood 11-0, Terra Linda 10-1, San Rafael 6-5, Tamalpais 6-5, Novato 3-8, San Marin 3-9, Drake 0-11.

White House: No Comment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — ABC sports commentator Don Meredith referred to President Nixon as "Tricky Dick" on national television, but the White House had no comment yesterday.

Meredith used the term in joking Monday night that the President would be in contact with coach George Allen of the Washington Redskins following Washington's 21-16 loss to Pittsburgh.

The White House declined to say whether Nixon watched the Monday night game and as to Meredith's remark, presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren said, "If there was such a reference it was one I would not comment on."

PREP STATISTICS

Novato Defense Is Very Stingy

When spectators file into Novato High School's football stadium, they are careful to walk. If they are seen running, somebody from the Hornets' defensive unit is likely to tackle them.

The Hornet defenders lead the Marin County Athletic League in rushing defense and total defense, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal, and their figures against the run border on the phenomenal.

Novato has permitted opponents just 115 yards on the ground in four games, the last three of which have been shutouts. The average is 28.8 yards a game. That's less than the distance from home plate to first on a baseball diamond.

Novato is next-to-last against the pass (103.3) but still leads in overall defense (132.0), some six yards ahead of Redwood (138.2). The Giants are No. 1 against the pass (65.4), and they, too, have held opponents without a touchdown in three games this year.

Despite some suffering during a 13-0 loss to Novato last weekend, San Rafael still leads in rushing offense (147.0) and total offense (250.0). Surprising Drake leads in passing offense (110.5).

San Marin's Wayne Roche was idle last weekend, but still leads his nearest competitor by more than 100 yards in the race for the rushing title. He has 416 to 312 for Redwood's Mark Richter and 308 for San Rafael's Steve D'Ambra.

San Rafael's Dave Steele leads in attempts, completions and yardage, while Drake's Terry Fahey leads in touchdown passes. Kevin Murphy of Tamalpais leads the receivers in catches and yardage, while San Marin's Greg Pater is tops in average gain.

The battle for scoring honors is still wide open with Roche, San Rafael's Craig Saunders and Drake's Corky Ingraham tied at 24 points, and five others within a touchdown of that figure.

Vancouver Turns Back Sabres, 3-2

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wing Rick Martin is "Mr. Everything" for the Buffalo Sabres, but even he wasn't enough to stave off a defeat to the Vancouver Canucks.

Veteran Orland Kurtenbach scored from a goal-mouth scramble with four minutes remaining to lift the Canucks to a 3-2 victory in the only game played in the National Hockey League last night.

Buffalo coach Joe Crozier said he was concerned about the lack of the Sabres scoring.

"It seems Martin has had to do everything," said Crozier. "He has scored four goals in our last two games. He needs some help."

Martin opened the scoring at 5:18 of the first period when his shot from the point went through a crowd and eluded Vancouver goaltender Gary Smith.

Vancouver got that goal back early in the second period when Gerry O'Flaherty deflected a shot by Bobby Schmautz pass Sabres goalie Dave Dryden.

Then Martin intercepted a bad clearing pass by Canucks defenseman Jocelyn Guevremont and went in alone on Smith to restore the Sabres lead. The Canucks evened it up at 13:37 of the third period when Don Lever slapped a bouncing puck from the corner into the net off the pads of Dryden.

Denver Beats San Diego At Its Long Shot Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

San Diego's trademark this season under new head coach Wilt Chamberlain has been the three-point field goal. Though Chamberlain says he doesn't encourage his players to shoot from outside the 25-foot circle, the Conquistadors have attempted more than twice as many "homers" this year than any other team except the San Antonio Spurs, whom they lead by 30.

But it was a three-pointer by Denver's Warren Jabali with 33 seconds remaining which put the nail in the coffin for San Diego last night as the Rockets, paced by Ralph Simpson's 40-point effort, tripped the Conquistadors 110-104.

In the only other ABA game last night, guard George Thompson scored six points in the final three minutes to smother an Indiana Pacer rally and give the Memphis Tams a 102-96 victory.

Hanratty Says He'll Be Ready

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Hanratty said today his bruised ribs were "just as sore as the day after the Cincinnati game, but I will definitely be ready to play against the Oakland Raiders Sunday."

There was some concern that Hanratty, the former Notre Dame star, might be sidelined Sunday. He reinjured the ribs in the Pittsburgh's 21-16 victory over Washington Monday night.

If Hanratty is not able to go against the Raiders, Joe Gilliam will get the call. Hanratty was given the starting assignment when Terry Bradshaw suffered a shoulder separation.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

How To Avoid Boat Storage Problems

Millions of boats are now in winter storage (or soon will be) in boat yards, marinas and back yards all over the country. Luckier boat owners in the south are just thinking about it. But this week is a good time to take a second look for possible hazards at the spot where you may be storing your boat for the winter.

A spot near a chimney or close to a backyard incinerator is not a good spot for obvious reasons. Sparks could set the boat on fire, burn its cover, or fill it with fly ash or half-burned junk.

Also, if the area is treeless and exposed to high winds, give some though to staking or weighting down the boat. On the other hand, don't park a boat too close to a building. It could be damaged by a snow slide or falling icicles.

If your boat is under a tree, consider the possibility of an ice storm or a heavy fall of wet snow. A boat could be wrecked by a heavy branch falling at such times. In general, small supple trees which bend instead of breaking under the snow's load make a safer, and, often more effective, windbreak.

Make sure the boat sits so that rain and melting snow will drain off its cover. If your boat sits on a trailer, remove the trailer wheels for the winter. The wheels and hubs should come off anyway to check and lubricate the bearings. Coat the exposed axles with grease and take the wheels indoors for the winter. After tending to the bearings, store the wheel assemblies in cardboard boxes with about 10 pounds of air in the tires. Rest the trailer axle on concrete blocks for the winter to keep it from sinking into the ground during thaws.

There are many problems involved in winter storage as some of the questions that we have been asked indicate:

Q. Should I clean all the marine growth off the bottom of my boat now that I have it stored in the backyard, or is it easier in the spring?

A. It will be 10 times as hard to get the mess off in the spring. Do it now! The longer marine growth is left on the bottom of a boat, the dryer, harder and more stubborn it gets.

Q. I have a couple of gas tanks, a battery box, a few life preservers and all our boating gear stored in the boat for the winter. A friend tells me that this is bad. Is it?

A. Yes, it's bad for two reasons. First, unless the boat is adequately supported, all this weight in it could conceivably ruin its shape so that it will not run properly next summer. Secondly, some of this "stuff" could mark the interior of the boat indelibly with rust, stains and discolored spots. Finally, it is not good for life preservers or other fabric materials to be left in a boat all winter. Take them inside where it is warm and dry.

Q. Is an old, unheated and well-ventilated building (a barn) a good place to store my big wooden boat?

A. This is the best possible place. When wooden boats are stored in heated buildings, they tend to dry out excessively. The only thing you should be sure to watch is that the boat has good support. Make certain the keel is blocked up in many places, so that the hull won't change shape from its own weight.

Q. My friend says that I should cover my bright red fiber glass boat to protect it from the winter sun. Will it fade?

A. If it doesn't fade, it is almost sure to change color in some way under the actinic rays of the sun. If you don't want to cover it, be sure to store it so that each side gets the same amount of sunlight. Then, if it fades, at least it will change color evenly.

Q. Is it all right to leave the outboard motor on the transom of my boat? I am storing the craft on its trailer behind the garage.

A. Yes, it is all right as long as you service the outboard motor (winterize it) and cover it. Be sure to put a block under the skeg of the motor so that it takes all the weight off the transom of the boat.

Q. I have no garage to store my wooden boat. Can I leave it outside with a canvas over it?

A. There's a danger with canvas that it will tend to keep water in contact with the wood. Tar paper or thin plastic sheeting may be better. Canvas or tarpaulin is best if you build a light frame. Then, keep the boat under a sort of tent constructed from either of these materials.

Q. What do you consider to be the most important thing to watch for in storing a fiber glass boat?

A. There's no question about it, the most important thing is support. The resins in the fiber glass boat are really viscous liquids and they change shape when pressure is applied to a few places for a long time. Metal will usually spring back into shape, but any "set" imparted to a plastic or wooden boat is apt to be permanent. Any distortion, of course, will cause the boat to run poorly next summer.

Bass Population Not What It Used To Be

The current population of legal-sized striped bass (16 inches or longer) in the San Francisco Bay and Delta area is estimated at one and one-half million, according to Don Stevens, senior fisheries biologist for the Department of Fish and Game's Bay-Delta study program.

This is about half the total population of 10 years ago, but the fish average about twice their former size, so the total poundage is about the same, Stevens said. A part of the current study is to try to determine why this is so.

The striped bass population study was started in 1969; every year since then some 15,000 to 18,000 striped bass have been tagged and released near Antioch and Clarksburg by DFG employees.

The study has three objectives: to gather information on the migration of striped bass; to learn about harvest rates and survival rates, and to develop population estimates by age groups.

Evaluation of the data runs about a year behind its compilation, Stevens said, but it appears that the population is holding steady at one and one-half million and that these fish are being harvested at the rate of bout 15 per cent per year. Data from smaller scale tagging studies indicate that the catch 10 years ago was about 25 per cent of the total population.

The migration pattern is now pretty well-known, according to Stevens. The bass come up from the ocean and Bay into the Delta to spawn in the spring. Some go upstream past Colusa on the Sacramento River. When the fish come downstream, the larger, older fish go right into the main Bay and the ocean, while the smaller, younger fish (3-5 pounds) stay in San Pablo Bay until September and October before moving into the main part of the Bay. Meanwhile, the larger fish are moving in from the ocean, through the Bay and back up into the Delta. For this reason the best fishing for striped bass in San Francisco Bay is in October.

On a recent day a creel census taken by the DFG showed that fishermen in San Francisco Bay were catching bass at the rate of one every 42 minutes and taking home an average 2.7 eight-pound fish each. One the same day in San Pablo Bay, fishermen were catching bass at the rate of only one every 17 hours and taking home only an average of ½ fish each. These were bigger fish, however, averaging 19 pounds. The San Pablo anglers were using whole bullhead fish for bait.

Striped bass are three years old when they attain the legal 16-inch size and weigh about one and a half pounds. The oldest tagged fish caught was about 22 years old. It was 47 inches long and weighed 50 pounds. Striped bass spawn every year starting at about two years old for males and five years old for females. The males come upstream earlier than the females and stay longer, spawning several times. The females come up later in the spring, spawn once and return immediately to the Bay or ocean. The fish travel in schools, and most of those tagged and caught in the ocean are within 20 miles of San Francisco. No tags have been returned from out of state.

Stevens urges fishermen to be sure to return all tags from fish to the DFG in Sacramento. Some of the numbered tags carry $5 rewards as an incentive for their return.

The striped bass in the Bay Area are descendents from about 400 which were shipped by rail from New Jersey in 1879 and 1882.

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 7, the 311th day of 1973 with 54 to follow.

Evangelist Billy Graham was born Nov. 7, 1918.

On this day in history:

In 1874, the first cartoon depicting the elephant as the symbol of the Republican Party was printed in Harper's Weekly.

In 1916, Republican Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first woman elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Navy Tanker Runs Aground

A tanker leased to the Navy ran aground off the Marin County shoreline Monday but was freed with only minor damage.

No oil spill occurred, the Coast Guard said yesterday.

The Sunco grounded in shallow water near Southampton Shoals north of Angel Island, at 4:30 p.m. Coast Guard spokesmen said it was a "medium large" tanker but didn't know its tonnage. After being pulled free by commercial tugs, the ship proceeded under its own power to Point Molate near Richmond.

Session Set On Learning Problems

Causes and symptoms of learning problems will be discussed by John Arena at 8 p.m. next Wednesday before the California Association of Neurologically Handicapped Children in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael.

Arena is an author and owner of the Arena School and Learning Center in San Rafael.

CLUB TRICK

South wins the first club trick and sees that he needs three spade tricks to make game and rubber. Each of the other suits will produce only two tricks.

If South needed only two spade tricks, he could well afford to lead the queen of spades from his hand for a finesse. This is the wrong play when he needs three spade tricks.

SOME TROUBLE

The trouble with leading the queen is that the king is sure to be played. If West plays the king (assuming that he holds this card), dummy must win with the ace. Now South has only one other top card, the jack. He must hope for a 3-3 break.

South is no better off if he leads the queen and loses to East. South will later take tricks with the ace and jack, but again he is dependent on a 3-3 break for his third trick in the suit.

LEAD TOWARD SOUTH

The right play is to take the ace of spades to begin with and then lead a low spade toward the South hand. If East has the king, as happens to be the case, he may take it then, allowing South to win the queen and jack later. If East plays low, South takes the queen and gets to dummy in order to lead another spade through East's king.

NOT SURE FIRE

This play is not, of course, sure fire. West may have the king of spades, and South will then lose the queen or jack to West. The recommended play is, however, the best way to try for three tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - Q J 6 3.
♥ - A 9 3
♦ - K Q 4
♣ - A K 9.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

You intend to make a jump rebid in no-trump at your next turn to show that you have about 19 or 20 points. You would bid a good suit if you had one, but in this case your object is to make it easy for partner to respond.

Acrylics Will Be On Display

Abstract acrylic paintings by Welland Lathrop will be on display at San Marco Gallery at Dominican College in San Rafael from Nov. 15 through Dec. 15.

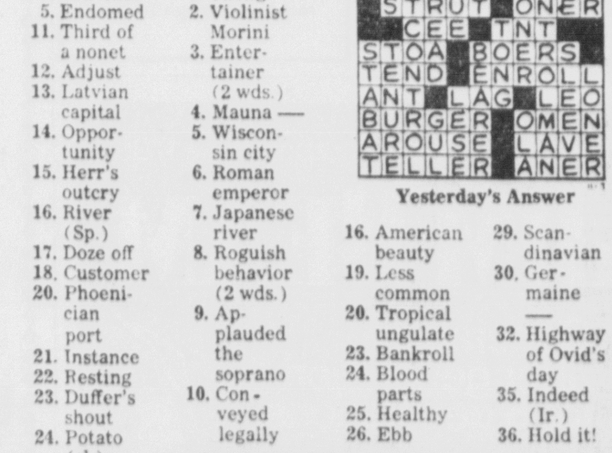

The gallery is open Mondays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A public reception honoring Lathrop will be held at the gallery from 4 to 6 p.m. Nov. 15.

To Entertain

Folk singer Patrizia will sing from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Inside/Out Cafe in the Great Store in San Rafael.

Some Facts About Tax-Exempt Bonds

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My latest shareholder report from Inland Steel (NYSE) mentions some bonds which will be financed by the City of East Chicago to pay for antipollution equipment for the company. Are these bonds tax exempt? — M.K.

A. Yes, these particular bonds are known as tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds. As the cost to industry for pollution-control equipment has risen, so has the use of this method of financing. Because the bonds are tax exempt, they allow a corporation to raise capital at lower interest rates, which represents a substantial savings — often 1 per cent to 2 per cent below taxable bonds.

The city issues the bonds to finance the cost of the equipment, which the corporation then leases back. Yearly rental payments made by the company cover the interest and principal requirements. When these bonds mature the company may then buy the equipment at a depreciated price.

Q. What can you tell me about Royal Zenith (OTC)? I bought 500 shares at $4¼. — L.E.

A. Last December, when the shares were initially offered, 150,000 shares were marketed at $10. The shares are currently trading at $3 bid. Royal imports, installs and services a broad line of offset and printing machinery for use by the graphic arts industry. The offset process is growing at a faster pace than older methods which require more extensive use of manual labor. Offset is also more compatible with computerized printing operations and is well adapted to in-house printing operations.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1972, sales increased 42 per cent and 22 per cent respectively, for the first half earnings were off 24 per cent.

The company's financial position appears adequate; at the year-end current ratio was 1.7-to-1 and working capital $2.7 million.

A Modest Recovery Staged On Market

Some early buying might have been inspired by a Labor Department report that wholesale food prices dropped sharply in October for the second consecutive month, according to analysis.

But the rally had little else in the news to support it, and trading remained cautious in view of Watergate, the Middle East, and the energy crisis.

On the American Stock Exchange, stocks moved slightly higher in sluggish trading. Houston Oil & Minerals was the volume leader, off 3 ½ to 50 on 61,800 shares.

On the NYSE, Ohio Standard, a 14-point loser in the previous session, added 2. A company spokesman said Tuesday Sohio may fall as much as 50 per cent short of its crude oil requirements by January.

Chemicals, which have declined sharply amid talk of petroleum shortages, also scored modest recoveries. Dupont, Eastman Kodak, Dow, Monsanto and Allied Chemicals each gained a point or more.

Xerox rose 2 ⅞, Polaroid 1 ⅞, Corning Glass and Walt Disney 1 ¾, each, among higher glamors.

Other high-priced issues were among the gainers. Burroughs, Texas Instruments and IBM each added a point or more.

The Cheese Shop Will Open Tomorrow In Old Brown's Store

The Cheese Shop, a nationwide firm featuring 250 varieties of cheese, will open its Mill Valley shop tomorrow at Old Brown's Store, 38 Miller Avenue.

Owners of the Mill Valley franchise are Forrest and Shirley Young of San Rafael, who will offer cheese, wines from around the world, catering service, and gift mailing.

"We'll make up cheese trays and cater for wine and cheese parties," said Young. "All you have to do is provide a table and table cloth, and we'll do the rest."

A unique feature of The Cheese Shop is that customers will be able to sample the cheese before they buy. A different variety of cheese will be featured each week at reduced price, said Young. During the grand opening, from tomorrow through Sunday, the Swiss Emmenthaler will be the featured attraction.

The Cheese Shop will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays and will go to seven days a week in December.

Young was in the submarine service for 10 years, was discharged in San Diego, and moved with his wife to San Rafael last June.

A PICTURE MAGAZINE for Bay Area realtors will be published next month by a new San Rafael corporation called Bay Area Real Estate Market Inc.

Principals in the new publication are Rebecca (Becky) Lewis of 179 Bahia Way, San Rafael, and Tom J. Rygh, an Alameda engineer. The magazine, printed on glossy paper, will contain 24 or 32 pages of pictures and descriptions of homes and commercial properties available in Marin County.

The Bay Area Real Estate Market hopes to hit the streets on Dec. 3 and publish every other week thereafter. "It will be a sort of multiple listing service to the public to show what homes and commercial properties are available in this area," said Mrs. Lewis.

The magazine will be distributed free at shopping centers, stores, hotels and motels, laundromats, doctors' offices, personnel offices and other locations where the public gathers. It will solicit advertising, photographs and descriptive material from realtors.

Mrs. Lewis started a similar real estate magazine in Naples, Fla. about two years ago and is still part owner of that magazine. She also helped set up a real estate magazine in Fort Myers, Fla.

GERALD L. FINTON and JAMES F. OLIVE, both of San Rafael, are back from Washington, D.C., where they attended the Advanced Training Institute for business counselors. The institute was conducted by General Business Services Inc.

Finton is the GBS field director for San Rafael, Novato, Petaluma, and Santa Rosa. Olive is GBS field director for Marin County. General Business Services is a nationwide firm specializing in management systems and tax services for small business.

OLIVE RIDGE TENNIS Club at 301 Olive Street in Novato broke ground this morning for two more tennis courts.

Begun just four months ago, the club already has four courts, an Olympic sized swimming pool, pro shop to be opened next week, a three-acre lake with boats, a full-facility stables and a covered training arena.

Future plans include two clubhouses, a stadium court with seating for 5,000, a second swimming pool and covered tennis courts.

TAPESTRIES from Europe are on display at Wasser's Furniture Accents at 118 Greenfield Avenue in San Anselmo. An invitational review was held last Sunday, and the display will continue through the rest of November.

Arthur Wasser, owner of the shop, said the tapestries include weaving from the Gobelin workshops in France, German weaving and embroidery, original Aubusson designs in both large and small pieces, and decorative bell pulls.

AMAX SECURITIES Corp., a financial planning firm, moved its offices within the Albert Building in San Rafael from room 309 to 217.

Robert K. Churchill of Novato, division manager, said the move corresponds with an office expansion and the addition of two registered representatives — James McNulty of San Rafael and Charles Kopf of Corte Madera.

The home office of Securities is in the Holiday Plaza Building in Terra Linda. Amax offers stocks, bonds, mutual funds, tax shelters, insurance and financial planning for individuals and corporations.

HOMESTEAD SAVINGS and Loan Association announced the following new appointments: William S. Bichard of Larkspur was named assistant vice president and manager of the San Rafael branch. He was manager of administrative services department in San Francisco before the promotion. Eugene G. DiBasilio, who manages the San Rafael branch, will become manager of the new branch in Santa Rosa.

Karen S. Sager of Larkspur was appointed assistant vice president and manager of the Sausalito branch of Homestead Savings, succeeding Nan Karns, who moved to Dutch Flat in Placer County. Mrs. Sager was personnel officer and executive secretary in the Geary Street branch in San Francisco before the promotion.

EDWARD C. LITTMAN of Greenbrae has been elected president of the California Circuits Association, an organization of manufacturers and suppliers of printed circuit boards.

Littman is a manufacturing engineer for the business machines division of The Singer Company.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

We Are Governed By 'Carpet-Baggers'

Basic to the American system of democracy is home rule.

In many other countries, local officials are appointed by state or federal governments and act as their agents. Not so in the United States: we elect boards of supervisors, city councils, school boards, etc., down to the smallest political districts.

The reason for this is to keep local control of local government.

It doesn't entirely work that way.

THE GROWTH of bureaucracy, and civil service rules which ignore residency requirements, have eaten away at the home rule concept, until to considerable extent we are governed by people who come from outside to take their jobs as our governors.

Marin County government offers an example.

We have 13 elected county government officials: five supervisors, auditor-controller, assessor, coroner-public administrator, clerk, district attorney, recorder, sheriff, and treasurer-tax collector. All these must be residents before they can seek election.

But, running the county departments we have 38 appointed department heads and subheads. And of those 38, nearly two-thirds were not residents of Marin County when they entered county employ.

To be exact, 24 of the 38 came from outside the county: 63 per cent.

COUNTY ADMINISTRATOR John F. Barrows, the top man, was a resident of San Diego County when he was hired as assistant administrator of Marin.

Maren Rinne, personnel director, resided in Berkeley when employed by Marin County government. Doug Edelen, purchasing officer, was a San Francisco resident. Roy A. Ballard, agricultural commissioner, resided in Santa Rosa; Herbert F. Wimmer, building inspector, in Pinole; John H. Atkinson, communications director, in San Jose.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney was a Santa Rosa resident when named deputy Marin County counsel, from which he moved up to the top position. James V. Burdick, veterans service officer, was hired from Willits; Ralph Merola, the new director of corrections, from Los Angeles; Dr. Robert L. Taylor, who heads the county's mental health division, from Kensington, Md.; William Desmond, sanitation head, from San Francisco; Annie E. Jameson, head of social services, from Santa Clara.

Pierre W. Joske came from Panorama City, Los Angeles County; Leon Kalimos, director of the Marin Memorial Building, from San Francisco; Bruce Bajema, county librarian, from Ukiah; Werner von Gundell, planning director, from Hartford, Conn. — all at the time of their employment in our county government.

OF THE TOP assistants, Philip Economon of the agricultural office was hired from San Mateo; John Gibb, data processing, from Oakland; Ron Sanford, welfare, from Lafayette; James Vandeweg, parks and recreation, from Sunland, Los Angeles County; Larry Loder, public works, from Fresno; Richard Hastings, assistant librarian, from Randallstown, Ind.; Richard Uchida, personnel, from Sacramento; Buford Tony, probation, from San Jose — all at the time of their employment in our county government.

The practice of outside hiring shown here has the effect of closing off the top jobs from local residents. And it places much of the control of our local county government under people who came here only to become our governors — "carpet-baggers," they were called in the Reconstruction South.

It subtly erodes the principle of home rule. And there is no necessity for it.

Legislature Spends Millions Secretly, Without Audit

By RUS WALTON

Over the years I have bugged you about the way your state legislature spends millions and millions of your dollars in secret.

The vehicles for the expenditure of those unaudited funds are the "contingency" funds in each house — the State Senate and the Assembly. This year those two funds will take $32 million of the legislature's total $45 million budget. Only 10 years ago that total was only $4 million.

NOW, TOM WOODS, bureau chief here in Babylon for Westinghouse Broadcasting, has done some more digging on those unaudited accounts.

Woods calls the multi-million dollar operating budget for the legislature a "colossal account."

"Since 1965, the legislature's budget has grown from $7.8 million to $45 million a year . . . up 580 per cent in seven years.

"In (those) seven years, $208 million has been spent . . . (but) never audited. Hundreds of contracts have been awarded . . . with no public hearings and no public bidding.

"Ironically," Woods reported, "every level of government is subject to audit, review and openness. But (review of) the legislature's budget . . . is taboo."

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIE BROWN, D-San Francisco, chairman of Ways and Means and probably the second most powerful man in the lower house, calls the legislature's funds "a kind of no-man's land where nobody criticizes."

Woods zeroes in on several areas of legislative spending practices.

First, he asserts the Assembly Office of Research, headed by a former aide to Assemblyman Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, is little more than a "think tank" for Democratic candidates, especially Moretti and his gubernatorial campaign.

Second, Woods points out that last year the Rules Committees of the two houses let 120 research contracts. All other state and local public bodies are nailed to a strict bidding procedure when allocating budgets. But, says Woods, "As far as we can determine only two of those (120) contracts ever went to bid." And of the $1.5 million spent on such contracts last year, half went to private consultants and college professors.

Finally, Woods estimates that a sizeable chunk of taxpayer funds went for partisan political activities.

"As near as can be estimated, about $5 million of the legislature's budget can be identified as related to partisan activities — including campaigning and public relations programs such as newsletters . . . At least 64 persons work at that . . . supported by $1 million of the taxpayers' money."

WOODS CLAIMS THAT during electioneering time, "many caucus staffers, and even assistants to legislators, leave the Capitol for political sorties — but not all leave the state payroll."

That issue arose during the closing days of the Proposition 1 battle.

Supporters of the initiative charged that at least 25 legislative employees worked either full or part time against the proposition; 13 of those employees were listed as being on Moretti's personal staff.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Some New Education Laws Will Have Pocketbook Impact

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Most of the 203 changes in the California Education Code which were passed by the legislature and signed into law by the governor this year will never be noticed by the public at large. But some will have considerable impact.

A pair of measures that will have plenty of impact on taxpayers' pocketbooks in some districts are Senate Bill 1114 by Sen. Arlen F. Gregorio, D-San Mateo, and Senate Bill 1166 by Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco.

SB 1114 classifies as unsafe any school building constructed on an earthquake fault. Such buildings cannot be used for schools and must be replaced, at local cost, it declares.

SB 1166 provides that a bond issue for such replacement will require only a simple majority vote, instead of two-thirds.

ON THE OTHER HAND, some schools built adjacent to freeways may get soundproofing, financed from a source that hitherto has not contributed to school building: the State Transportation Fund. Assembly Bill 658 by Assemblymen Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, and Frank Lanterman, R-Pasadena, sets aside $3 million from that fund to finance soundproofing where it is found that highway noises interfere with classes.

Several of this year's successful bills encourage year-round schools. But one, AB 1145 by Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, makes sure they will not be forced on people who don't want them. It provides that if a school district plans to put its schools on a year-around plan it must publish notice to that effect, and a petition by 25 per cent of the electorate will force a public vote on the matter.

A long but heretofore unsuccessful drive to do away with compulsory physical education throughout the public schools scored its first victory this year. Hereafter, "P.E." will not be required in the community colleges, as result of passage of AB 1116 by Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Anaheim.

THIS YEAR'S legislature generally kept its hands off curriculum. But it did lay down new requirements for driver training classes, setting up minimum hours for behind-the-wheel practice, observation, simulation, and multiple-car driving range, depending on which of three plans is adopted by a school district. These are in SB 1311 by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose.

AB 1679 by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, offers an alternative for those students beyond the age of 16 who have been (generally unwillingly) forced to attend "continuation schools." It provides that they may be excused from such attendance if they enroll for at least four hours per week of adult education.

A "high school equivalency certificate" for those who have never completed high school but are able to pass an approved general education test is provided in AB 372 by Assemblymen Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, and John Vasconcellos, D-Campbell.

This may have the side-effect of forcing school districts to set up similar requirements for graduation from high school, lest the "equivalency certificate" come to be recognized as more valuable than a high school diploma.

THERE HAS BEEN considerable concern both in and out of education circles over attempts to impose "planning, program and budgeting systems" on educational content and objectives. AB 1207 by Assemblymen Burke, Vasconcellos, John F. Dunlap, D-Vallejo, and Newton R. Russell, R-Burbank, prohibits such use of "PPBS."

Contract schooling made a little more headway this year with enactment of AB 577 by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles. It authorizes contracting with public agencies or private vocational schools for courses set up under regional vocational education programs.

Teacher licensing in an especially vital area is changed by AB 724 by Assemblymen Mike D. Antonovich, R-Glendale, and Bill Lancaster, R-Covina. It calls for the Commission for Teacher Preparation and Licensing to issue single subject certificates in history and government. Teaching of these subjects will not, of course, be limited to those holding the single-subject licenses. But they may upgrade the teaching by bringing experts from outside the regular teacher ranks.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

County Schools Share In Dominican Project

Your editorial of Oct. 26, "Dominican Aids the Handicapped," gives deserved recognition to the San Francisco Foundation and its substantial assistance to the college in developing special education programs. It also will help to draw attention of parents and teachers to a new resource designed to assist them in their efforts to foster the development of handicapped youngsters and adults.

I would like to add a word about special education programs in Marin County Schools, for our own efforts succeed in large measure because of their support and inspiration. While it is true that Forest Meadows Development Center gains from being located on the campus, the college also gains from having a model program in which students may volunteer, observe, and gain practical experience . . .

Scout Training Helped When Boys Were Lost

I am writing you concerning the story about the Boy Scouts from Troop 109, El Cerrito. Many people were interviewed and many opinions given, but as a parent of one of the boys involved, I feel a very important point was neglected.

The experience and knowledge which the boys learned through Scouts was the major reason they were able to handle the situation as well as they did. My son, Erik, stressed this several times.

I feel that this experience has been a graphic example of how valuable scouting is in preparing boys for the many challenges they meet in life.

Maybe He's Really Guilty Of Nothing

Re your headline, Oct. 27: "President Says He's Guilty of Nothing."

You know, maybe it's true. Until now I had trouble believing everything that was being printed or talked about in the media — after all, maybe we are all taking this a little too seriously. For instance, how could any intelligent voter really believe there even is anyone called Abplanalp, much less Bebe Rebozo? Surely, these are acronyms for departments we had not been told about before because they surpassed our understanding!

And to suggest that simply because a man who became a household word in a few short years found his best friend in a retired (?) show-business personality who might or might not have been the prototype for a singer in a famous book and movie ("The Godfather") is any cause for concern reflects, perhaps, a lack of geographical knowledge (Maryland and New Jersey aren't that far apart and just how far can a family spread?).

But seriously folks, let's give Mr. Nixon this: As near as I can tell, he has spent his terms in the White House and elsewhere committing nothing — not even himself — to the form of government he keeps reminding us he was elected to head.

Impeachment Offers Only Way To Relieve National Agony

The outlook is ominous for the capacity of the government to govern adequately.

It is ominous because the initiative and the power of decision as to what will be the ultimate end are no longer in the hands of Richard Nixon; they are in the hands of his critics.

AS THINGS NOW stand Mr. Nixon has lost the power to defend himself convincingly with many of his own natural supporters, with the public generally, and with most of the leaders of his own party in Congress.

It is evident that Mr. Nixon's opponents now have it in their hands to decide, if they wish to do so, that the nation will have a weak and wounded president for the next three years.

THE MEMBERS of Congress should discharge their constitutional duty to determine whether they want President Nixon retained in office or removed.

This means that the process of impeachment should be started promptly, without any undue delay, and go forward in an orderly and responsible manner, whatever may be the outcome.

There are good reasons why this course is desirable.

Would to God Watergate had never happened. But it has happened, and it must now be dealt with surgically. Its consequences in divisiveness and governing stalemate are mounting, not receding.

It is unfair to the American people, it is unsafe for the nation to allow the Watergate miasma to continue month after month in the hope that somehow it will fade away.

It won't — unless something is done to drain the abscess.

DO MR. NIXON'S political opponents ever intend to let the president up off the mat and, if not, are they prepared to take the responsibility of seeing the United States led by a weak and wounded president from now until Jan. 20, 1977?

Do the American people and the members of Congress of both parties want to see Richard Nixon removed from the presidency and replaced by someone who was never anybody's first choice to serve in the presidency?

I am not assuming to guess what the verdict would be, but I am certain of one central truth: The future of Richard Nixon's presidency should be voted up or down by the one constitutional process provided to deal with this kind of emergency.

If the verdict is that it is better than any alternative that Mr. Nixon remain in office, then it will be the duty of the president's political opponents to respect that decision and to help the government to govern adequately again.

If the verdict is to remove Mr. Nixon from office, then it will be the duty of Mr. Nixon's supporters to respect that decision and to help his successor to do his job.

WHAT I AM ADVOCATING is a clear-cut decision by constitutional means so that we can, by a deliberate and democratic decision, put the worst of Watergate behind us and get on with the public business.

In urging that we use the process of impeachment, I am not assuming that Mr. Nixon had advance knowledge of the Watergate or the break-in of the psychiatrist's office or that he played any part in the efforts to cover up these crimes. Impeachment is a form of indictment — not conviction. The verdict will follow a public trial by the Senate with the chief justice of the Supreme Court as the presiding officer.

The Senate's decision will not be primarily a verdict of guilt or innocence; it will be a verdict of whether two-thirds of the Senate deems it better for the president to remain or be removed.

The process of impeachment is the procedure expressly provided by the Constitution. Let's put the Constitution to work. We will find it a boon and a blessing.

Cheap Defense Weapons Score For Arab Troops In Mideast

WASHINGTON — What happened last month in the Middle East was the most technologically sophisticated war in history. Like every modern conflict where the great powers take part only by proxy, it was seen as a proving ground for weapons developed by the supernations who might someday use those arms against each other. This one also was watched closely by those local champions of the American taxpayer who would like to cut our military budget appreciably without further damaging our defensive potential.

This fighting refueled the long-running military argument over the advantages of luxurious Rolls Royce-style weapons vs. cheaper arms analogous to the Volkswagen. In general terms, the Israelis operated more expensive American-made planes and tanks against the Russian tools of war provided for the Egyptians and Syrians.

The outcome is still on the experts' scales here, but the early evidence was that the new Soviet entries won. Here is why:

ISRAEL'S HEAVY TANK losses were blamed mainly on the wire-guided "Sagger" missiles fired in great quantities by Arab infantrymen on both fronts. Those troops also made effective use of the RPG-7 bazooka, a shoulder-fired infantry weapon.

These arms took a much greater toll of the big, expensive American-built M-60 and British Centurion tanks than did the Arab tanks themselves.

To a lesser degree, the same was true in the opposite direction — American-built counterparts of the "Sagger" were used with devastating results against the Arabs' Soviet T-55 and T-62 tanks.

In the air, a new combination of Russian missiles designed for different tasks, along with an improved version of the old-fashioned quadruple-mounted automatic cannon, blunted the Israeli air force that had been so decisive in the six-day war of 1967.

IT WAS IN THIS ASPECT of the fighting that the Russians proved they had learned something in Vietnam and already applied it to new weapons in production — new weapons turned out in such numbers that they were provided to the Arabs in wholesale lots.

The Israelis flew the supersonic Phantoms (which cost some $4 million a copy now) and the subsonic Skyhawks, both of which had been effective against North Vietnamese air defenses. The Phantom especially had been laden with enough radar-fooling equipment so that it could make low-level raids with relative impunity against targets defended by the familiar Soviet SAM-2 and SAM-3 missiles.

But the Russians sent the Arabs not only SAM-2s and SAM-3s, which operate best at higher altitudes and thus drove the Israeli strike planes down toward sea level. They also fitted in the deadly new SAM-6, which operates on different radar frequencies so is difficult to jam; the SAM-7, a shoulder- or truck-fired heat-seeking missile for very low-flying targets, and the rapid-firing quadruple 23-mm. cannon. Well-trained Arab troops used each of these weapons to drive the Phantoms and Skyhawks within reach of the other, and the result was a kill-rate that had the United States flying urgently needed replacement planes for the Israelis directly off the aprons of bases here at home.

THESE BASIC FACTS are well known by now among those closely following Middle Eastern developments. But what they mean for the next war — whether it is there or in any other theater where Russians, Americans or their allies confront each other — is what uniformed officers and civilian budget-makers are hastening to decide.

Each of the new antitank and antiaircraft weapons costs a tiny pittance compared to its target. Yet they work best when used lavishly; by the time a Phantom is knocked down, dozens of missiles might have been fired at it. That tends to even up the costs on each side. Also, it is noted that the more sophisticated Phantoms did not suffer as many knockdowns as the cheaper Skyhawsk — but that could be because they were more precious to the Israelis and thus were not committed recklessly after the losses of the first few days.

Another argument against the idea that Russian arms came out winners is the obvious fact of the cease-fire lines on the map, showing the Israelis holding strategic chunks of both Syria and Egypt. But those are credited more to Israeli boldness in crossing the Suez Canal than to any weapons superiority.

'Hot Fashion' And 'Bizarre' Proposals In City General Plan

Washington Post columnist Nicholas von Hoffman recently observed that the community development-city planning industry has a flair for "hot fashion" and nutty schemes, a taste for the "bizarre and unworkable that rivals the worst cotton-head thinking at the Pentagon."

Von Hoffman's observation brings to mind the initial general plan report prepared by Berkeley consultants Duncan and Jones for the City of San Rafael.

The report, an exhaustive and revealing analysis of San Rafael, stands as a crushing indictment of haphazard planning provided by city leadership over the last several decades. It suggests that compensating for past years of poor planning will require far-out actions in the future.

One "hot fashion" proposal by the consultants is for sprinkling high-cost housing neighborhoods with low and moderate-income duplex and triplex units. The consultants find that in Loch Lomond, for example: "Development patterns and practices have created here an economically and socially impacted area essentially housing one population group. In neighborhoods such as this the young are influenced and conditioned by essentially only one life style, a condition generally disapproved of in current sociological thinking."

Boosting neighborhood population and income mixes also requires building low and moderate-cost housing as part of development of the McNear's Quarry site near high-income Peacock Gap, and building high-cost housing in low-income Santa Venetia, according to the consultants.

Although the housing mix concept is an admirable one, it is bound to provoke controversy since residents, believing "conditioning" of their youngsters to be a matter of personal choice, may have bought homes in "impacted" areas for precisely that reason.

Another intriguing proposal which may prove unworkable due to cost alone is conversion of the San Rafael Canal into a city recreational area, including demolition and relocation of the Montecito Shopping Center.

Proposals for a mammoth transportation hub, including rail mass transit and people movers downtown; extension of First Street to Highway 101 (requiring demolition of downtown Safeway store), and conversion of San Pedro Road to a four-lane highway near China Camp may also prove unpalatable.

And it would be incredible if city leaders, so often at odds with county officials, allowed the board of supervisors to set an annual residential growth quota for the city. The two agencies can't even agree on fire protection.

The initial general plan report is, of course, a preliminary document that will undergo revision before being formally presented to the city in January.

"The opening on the Courthouse Square is a popular, sunny and pleasant spot which reveals the church behind and the scenic hills around. It has great value in terms of a communal open space in the heart of downtown."

Vesco Being Closely Watched Till Hearing

NASSAU, The Bahamas (UPI) —Police reported fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco under "intensive surveillance" at his villa today, free on $75,000 bail to await a hearing on a US request for extradition to face fraud charges.

Vesco, under indictment by a federal grand jury with former Nixon cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans, was arrested yesterday at his plush villa in Nassau. The extradition hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Magistrate Emmanual Osadebay set Vesco's bail at $75,000. Although the 36-year-old financier paid it and went free, police sources said he would be kept under "intensive surveillance" until Tuesday's hearing.

Vesco was arrested on an indictment charging him with defrauding $50,000 from the International Controls Corp. of Fairfield, N.J.—a firm he once controlled.

Vesco, Mitchell and Stans are charged with conspiracy and obstruction of justice in connection with alleged attempts by the former attorney general and secretary of commerce to tamper with a Security and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco's alleged looting of $224 million from the Investors Overseas Service, a Swiss-based financial complex. The indictment charges Vesco made a $200,000 contribution in return to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Vesco has been out of the United States since February, mostly in Costa Rica and the Bahamas. Tuesday's hearing will be the second extradition attempt against him in the Bahamas. The first was turned down less than a year ago by Chief Magistrate Wilton Hercules.

A spokesman for the US Attorney's office in New York said Vesco could not be brought back to the United States on the conspiracy charge, which is not an extraditable offense. He added that a successful extradition might limit Vesco to being tried on the fraud charge, and it was not clear whether he could be subpoenaed to testify at the Mitchell-Stans trial Jan. 7.

New 232-Carat Diamond Found

MOSCOW (UPI) —Siberian miners have found a 232-carat diamond, equalling the largest diamond ever found in the Soviet Union, the newspaper Trud said today.

The new diamond, named the Star of Yakutia, was found in the rich diamond fields at Mirnyy in the Yakutskaya region.

On Aug. 19, another 232-carat diamond was found in the same fields and named "50 Years of Aeroflot" in commemoration of Soviet aviation day which was observed that day.

According to the Guinness Book of Records, the largest diamond ever found was the 3,106-carat Cullinan, discovered in South Africa in 1905.

45 Days Given In Car Theft

A San Francisco man who pleaded guilty to stealing a rented car has been ordered to spend 45 days in jail, and pay $660 restitution.

Thomas Young, 21, drew the sentence from Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty.

Young admitted a misdemeanor count of renting a car March 23 from American International Rent-A-Car in San Rafael and failing to return it.

COMEBACK WIN — Former Congresswoman Louise Day Hicks returned to politics yesterday with a ticket-leading victory in the race for the Boston City Council. Mrs. Hicks, defeated in the 1972 Congressional election by Rep. John H. Moakley, led 17 other candidates for the nine council seats.

Skylab Shot Delayed By Fin Cracks

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The launch of the final Skylab space station crew was put off at least five days today after cracks were discovered in the tail fins of the Saturn 1B booster rocket.

The mission had been scheduled for blastoff on Saturday.

A space agency spokesman said the "hairline" cracks were discovered late last night during a routine inspection and engineers were at the launch pad trying to determine the extent of the damage.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue were scheduled to ride the 224-foot-tall booster into orbit Saturday morning for at least a 60-day stay in the orbiting space station.

A spokesman said the delay to make repairs would be until at least Nov. 15.

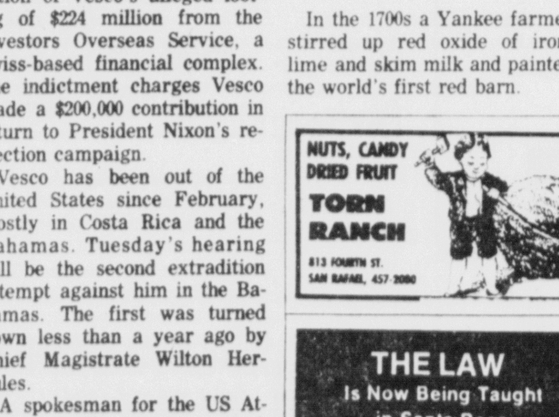

Another problem—dents in the Saturn 1B's kerosene fuel tanks—had threatened earlier to delay the launch, but technicians managed to pop the tanks back into shape.

It was expected that all eight of the tail fins that fit around the bottom of the rocket's first stage like a skirt would have to be replaced to make the big space machine usable.

Soviet Anniversary

The Soviet Union is celebrating its national holiday today. Public speeches, ceremonies, and parades will mark the 56th anniversary of the "Great October Socialist Revolution." (It was October according to the calendar the Russians used in 1917; it was November by our calendar, which the Soviets also use now.) People sometimes forget there were two Russian revolutions in 1917. The first was the "February Revolution," which overthrew the Czar and led to the democratic, reformist government of Aleksandr Kerenski. It was this government that was overthrown by the Bolsheviks in the October Revolution, to be replaced by a Communist dictatorship.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the leader of the Bolsheviks?

More Ride On BART's New Link

OAKLAND (UPI) —Bay Area Rapid Transit District spokesmen said patronage increased yesterday on its San Francisco-Daly City link.

A total of about 27,000 persons used the link on Monday, the first day it was opened, and there were 1,000 more the next day, he added.

The 785-car parking lot at Daly City was filled by 8 a.m. and BART said there were plans to add a deck there.

Meanwhile, the district's engineering committee was told by assistant general manager Lawrence D. Dahms that he hopes train detection problems can be solved in time to operate the transbay tube by spring.

The state Public Utilities Commission won't permit the system to operate in the tube until that safety problem is solved.

False Hi-C Ad Charges Dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today dropped all charges of false advertising against Hi-C fruit drinks, ending a three-year case once regarded as a major part of a government crackdown on advertising.

By a 4-1 vote the FTC dismissed allegations that Hi-C misrepresented the nature, nutritional value and content of its fruit drinks. The original complaint, first proposed in September of 1970, contended that Hi-C was not high in vitamin C compared to natural fruit juices, and was not "unqualifiedly good" for children.

But the commission said today it was unable to find "persuasive evidence" that the Coco-Cola Co., and its advertising agency, the Marschalk Co. of New York, promoted Hi-C as the equivalent of fresh orange juice. The fact that natural orange juice is high in vitamin C, it added, does not prevent another drink from claiming to be rich in that same vitamin.

The Hi-C case, and a second one concluded earlier this week involving "Wonder Bread," were both part of a more intense scrutiny of advertising begun during the reign of former FTC Chairman Miles Kirkpatrick. The FTC staff lost both cases, however, when they were tried within the agency's legal channels, and largely lost a second time when both were appealed to the full commission.

In both cases former Commissioner Mary Gardiner Jones, a frequent consumer spokesman who has since left the FTC but who was still a member when the decisions were made, filed vigorous dissents.

"The commission opinion displays a gross naivete and begs the real question when it reasons that consumers will not be misled by the ads because they understand the difference between fruit juices and fruit drinks," she wrote. "Obviously ads for Hi-C were designed to blur this difference. . ."

Democrats Eye Changes In Picking Running Mate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Vice Presidential Commission of the Democratic Party is considering proposals to change the system by which a presidential candidate chooses his running mate.

Legislation has been introduced in the Senate by Assistant Republican Leader Robert Griffin of Michigan, which would abandon the present process of choosing vice presidential nominees at party conventions.

The Griffin proposal would amend the Constitution so as to have the president-elect name his choice up to the time of his inauguration. The nomination would then be subject to confirmation by both the House and Senate when the new Congress convenes in January.

A one-day commission hearing on the subject today was expected to touch on the controversial selection of Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri by South Dakota Sen. George McGovern and on President Nixon's selection of Spiro T. Agnew.

The commission, chaired by Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, was to hear testimony from congressmen, educators and the public.

Among those expected to be heard are Rep. James O'Hara of Michigan; Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska, Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss; Liz Carpenter, a founder of the National Women's Political Caucus, and Ralph Huitt, executive director of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

Doctor Says Ford Never Was Patient

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A New York psychotherapist told a closed meeting of the Senate Rules Committee today that allegations in a book that he treated vice presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford were "lies, fantasies."

Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker preceded Robert N. Winter-Berger, a former lobbyist who wrote the book in question, "The Washington Pay-Off," to the witness stand as the panel continued its consideration of Ford's nomination.

"This is a vengeful book, an angry book, out to hurt people," Hutschnecker told newsmen after leaving the hearing. He said he told this to the committee and added, "when Winter-Berger gets information like that and writes it we call it lies, fantasies."

"Any allegation that I treated Mr. Ford is absolutely false. I never treated him. Our discussion never touched on medical matters and as a matter of fact I made a political statement that I hoped we would never get involved in the Southeast Asia war," said Hutschnecker. The meeting took place in 1966.

The committee was holding its third day of hearings on the nomination. Committee member Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., said he was optimistic the panel could finish its work this week and the Senate could vote on the nomination next week.

Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, announced his panel would start its hearings on the nomination Nov. 15 but there was speculation these would not be finished until early December. Both the House and Senate must vote to confirm the nomination.

Hutschnecker has denied Ford was his patient and confirmed Ford's version that the House Republican leader, at Winter-Berger's request, stopped by his office to introduce himself and visited for 15 minutes.

A committee source said Winter-Berger, under oath as was Ford, would be asked "to produce proof of his allegations. We want to know if he can back them up with documentations or if it's just his word against Ford's. If he does produce some proof then we'll put him on in public hearing and probably recall Ford."

Some Dollar Gains Posted

LONDON (UPI) —The dollar made slight gains in value on most European money markets today, though it fell in Paris. Gold's price fell narrowly.

The dollar opened higher in Frankfurt, Zurich, London and Brussels, though in every case rises were small. Paris was the exception.

There the official commercial dollar opened the day at 4.27 francs, compared with Tuesday's close of 4,275. The financial dollar used by tourists opened at 4.37 francs, down from 4.38 Tuesday.

Nixon Asks Delay On Trade Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert said today a bill to give President Nixon far-reaching power over trade negotiations would be delayed at the President's personal request.

Congressional sources said Nixon slipped Albert a note during a meeting at the White House with the President and 23 House and Senate leaders. The note said Nixon would appreciate a delay in consideration of the bill.
